Legion, VFW Mass Meeting Called Monday to Act on Hall Debts

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Disaster struck a young couple well known to many Belmond people when fire destroyed the interior of the home at Stratford rented by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pliley. Mrs. Pliley is the former Marlys Thompson, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Ray Thompson.

It was a matter of one misfortune being piled on another, for Mrs. Pliley was a hospital patient at Webster City when the blaze occurred and is facing a serious operation within a period of a few months, when her condition will permit. All the possessions of the young couple were destroyed by the flames with the exception of some clothes that Bob had taken to the laundry. Friends of the Plileys held a household shower for them Tuesday at the Stratford Methodist church to help get them outfitted to move into another home.

Little Dianna Pliley, who'll be two in December, has been here with her grandmother since her mother took ill and will continue to live with the Thompsons until her mother has recuperated from the scheduled operation. Meanwhile, the Plileys are facing a rather rough outlook.

Rapid retribution caught up with a party of Minnesota teen-agers on Tuesday of last week after they had stolen a car at Garner, leaving behind a second vehicle they'd "borrowed" earlier in the evening at Austin Patrolmen Al Sparby and Harland Sievers got a radio flash regarding the theft via the state patrol station near Goodell. (It's been pointed out to us the station IS nearer Goodell than Belmond.)

Just 16 minutes after the message was received, the patrolmen had the four young people cornered at the No. 69 stop sign just south of Greyhound station. The two boys and two girls explained they were headed for Texas. The boys, age 16 aand 17, had only a nickel apiece on them; so further mischief possibly was in the offing. The girls were 13 and 14 years old.

Can't help but reflect that since the Belmond police turned back their patrol-car radio, the local department has no place in the otherwise countywide police-radio hookup. The thing got out of whack and apparently it was regarded too much trouble to keep it in working order. When Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod was still police chief here, the radio proved highly useful on a number of occasions. Mightn't it again — if we still had it?

It is called to our attention by Mrs. Mamie Rosheim that we made a slight error of about 200 per cent in reporting the birthweight of her new grandson, Randy Decator, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Carnes of Albuquerque, N. M. When he was born Oct. 6, Randy tipped the beam at a moderate 5 lbs. 15 oz. In "Hello World," we gave him an additional 10 lbs., making his birthweight 15 lbs., 15 oz. . . . 'Tweren't so.

Nymer Christiansen, supervisor of the safety and housekeeping department at the General Mills plant, was embarrassedly nursing several badly bruised fingers last week. It's his job to keep his fellow employees alert against accidents, and he apparently chose to make his point by example.

Seems he got a sleeve cuff caught on one of those heavy, fire-proof doors; and instead of detaching said cuff, he tried to jerk it free.

The procedure didn't work out exactly as planned The door was pulled shut by his gesture; well, almost shut — as nearly so as it would go with several fingers intervening between the door and door frame. Chris has taken a lot of good-natured razzing, and swears the NEXT accident WON'T be on HIM.

Hank Stokke ALMOST held an impromptu, one-man meeting of the Gridiron club Monday night, so Dale Kessler tells us. Regular meetings of that organization are done for the year, with only the annual Gridiron banquet for the football players still to be held — on Dec. 1.

Fortunately (or unfortunately, according to your point of view), Hank stopped at Dale's for a pack of cigarets before taking off for the country club and "got the word."

It's sorta too bad, Hank Shucks, you could have held a business session on the 9th green, voted all the officers out of office and made yourself president. (Mainstreeter Gallagher has a lot of room to talk. Three times in the past couple of years he's turned up at the RIGHT meeting place — on the WRONG day!)

Competition among the various services of the armed forces for enlistees is very apparently getting more and more keen. We continually receive in the mail news about various inducements being offered to get young men to join one or another of the services. Typical is the latest move of the Navy, giving the option of undergoing boot training at either Great Lakes or San Diego More enticing is the latest deal of the Air Force, good during November only. Recruits will be flown via Trans World Airlines to Parks Air Force Base in California, where they will receive basic training. That's GETTING THERE in style, huh?

AT CEDAR RAPIDS MEETING

Gail VerHelst, office girl for the Iowa Electric Light and Power company's Belmond office, went to Cedar Rapids last Thursday to attend a Woman's Round Table and banquet put on by the company for its feminine employees. She accompanied a group that included girls from Britt and Fairmont,

BELMOND'S BRONCOS, 1954 edition, got off to a slow start; but they concluded their season in a blaze of glory. After out-gaining Forest City by a considerable margin, but losing to the North Iowa conference runner-up team 14-2, the Broncs upset highly favored Clarion and Garner in their final two games to complete their card with a record of three victories and a tie, against four defeats. Library Plans Open House for National Book Week; Public Tea Wednesday Afternoon, Program at Night

Belmond's city library will observe National Book Week with an open house that will include two special programs Wednesday of next week. Displays prepared especially for the occasion by Librarian Faye Colby will be open to inspection in the library reading room. The events planned for afternoon and evening will be held in the basement.

Between 2:30 and 4:30 p. m., tea will be served. In charge of the courtesy will be Mrs. G. J. Hruska, Mrs. C. C. Benson and Matilda Skovlin, library trustees, and the following wives of library board members: Mrs. George Kyser, Mrs. Luin Cox, Mrs. Russell Schaal and Mrs. Clair Hugh.

Jean Oberhauser to Talk

Two items are included on the afternoon program. A history of the library, prepared by Ray Klemme, will be read by Mrs. Klemme; and a review of the book, "The Coffee Train" by Shank, will be presented by Mrs. Leonard Kallestad.

Evening entertainment will include several selections by the BHS girls trio, consisting of Neva Kyser, Eloise Johnson and Geraldine Jenison; a second reading of the library history, by Luin Cox; and an illustrated talk by Jean Oberhauser on highlights of her recent travels in Europe. Miss Oberhauser will show a number of colored slides taken during her visit abroad. The evening program will be from 7:30 to 9:00 p. m.

Public Cordially Invited

Mrs. Colby and the library board members join in extending a cordial invitation to the public to attend the Library Week events and to look over the special displays.

Use of the city library has been steadily increasing in the past few years, Mrs Colby reports, and it is believed that the circulation of books has never been greater than in recent months. Since the first of the current year, withdrawals have averaged 1,121 per month. That is an increase of 115 per month over the same period in 1953.

Withdrawals Growing

In only one month of the present year — September — did the number of books fail to surpass the number borrowed in the same month last year. A comparison of withdrawals for the first 10 months of 1954 and 1953 runs as follows: January, 1,318 and 977; February, 1,272 and 915; March 1,340 and 954; April, 1,104 and 902; May, 841 and 820; June, 1,036 and 900; July, 1,034 and 996; August, 1,135 and 843; September, 943 and 997; October, 1,193 and 1,154.

5TH GRADE GIVEN FLAG

Monday afternoon an American flag was presented to the 5th-grade class in the Belmond school by the local VFW Auxiliary in honor of Americanism Week. Mrs. Ray Ainger and Mrs. H. R. Bayliss made the presentation and the flag was accepted by Phyllis Thompson, one of the 5th grade teachers. The flag was 2x3 feet in size, hand-sewed and with embroidered stars.

Mrs. Hansen, 78, Dies at Humboldt

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Methodist church in Humboldt for Mrs. Rasmus Hansen, mother of George Hansen, co-publisher of The Independent. She had been bedfast, and a patient at a nursing home in Humboldt, for most of the past year. Death came to her at 8:00 a. m. Sunday, following a heart attack suffered last week. She had attained the age of 78 years, 10 months and 27 days.

Mrs. Hansen's husband passed away just four months and two days prior to her death, on July 5th She is survived by all of her six children Besides the son in Belmond, they are: Raymond D. Hansen and Mrs. Thomas (Hannah) Christensen of Humboldt, Nels R. Hansen and Mrs. Lester (Gladys) Thalacker of Ottumwa and Virgil E. Hansen of Sioux City. Also surviving are 10 grandchildren, 16 great grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Hannah Nelson of Chicago.

Nelsine Rasmussen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Nels Rasmussen, was born at Gibson City, Ill., on Dec. 10, 1875, but had lived in the Humboldt vicinity since coming there with her parents in 1882. She was wed to Rasmus Hansen on her birthday in 1895 They had the pleasure of celebrating their Golden Wedding anniversary in 1945.

Mrs. Hansen has been a member of the Humboldt Methodist church for 66 years and was a long-time member of the Women's Society for Christian Service of that church. She also was highly active in other service organizations of the community, belonging for 33 years to the Woman's Relief Corps and being a charter member of the American Legion Auxiliary. She had had to give up membership in several other organizations in late years due to failing health.

60 BHS SCHOLARS WIN MENTION ON FIRST-QUARTER HONOR ROLL

Sixty boys and girls earned mention on the Belmond High school honor roll for the first nine weeks, according to Principal Clair Hugh. Topping the list was Ardith Johnson, a senior, who was the only one in the group to maintain a straight "A" average for the quarter. A "B" average is required for inclusion on the honor list.

As usual, girls' names greatly predominate on the honor roll. Only one fourth, or exactly 15, of the scholars are boys. By classes, the boys' names appeared as follows: senior, five out of 23; junior, four out of 13; sophomore, one out of 10; freshman, five out of 14.

Seniors Predominate Roll

With BHS enrollment totalling 273, the honor roll includes just slightly more than one out of every five students. In the senior class, 33.8 per cent of the students qualified for the honor roll; in the junior class, 20 per cent; sophomores, 19; and freshmen, 15.7. Only 10 per cent of the 142 boys in BHS earned honor-list averages, while 32 per cent of the 131 girls were cited for scholarship.

Sophomores, Juniors

27 JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS QUALIFY FOR HONOR ROLL

Twenty-seven students are listed on the junior high school honor roll for the first nine-week period that was released last week by Principal Gladys Darrah Heading the list were Linda Bonte, whose 23-point grade total (out of a possible maximum of 24 for straight "A") was best among the eighth-graders; and Walter Hotvet, who topped the seventh graders with a total of 22 points.

Other students in eighth grade who made the honor roll were: Donna Barkema, Daryl Bohning, Karen Chapman, Lorraine Davenport, Alan Flanagan, John Henn, Roger Hoppel, Howard Mussell, Cynthia Saunders and Kay Skarr.

Included among the 16 seventh-graders, in addition to Walter Hotvet, were: Merle Anderson, Mary Lou Cox, Carol Finn, Nancy Gallagher, Jeffrey Hansen, Linda Hauge,

LOATS KOREA-BOUND

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Loats have learned that their son, A3/c Fred Loats, shipped out late last month for Korea. He was home on a 10-day leave just before leaving for the west coast. He says he'd appreciate hearing from friends and that his address is now: A3/c Fred A. Loats AF17399859, Prov. Sqd. 435, APO 959, San Francisco, Calif.

Enumerators Will Need Farmers Aid

Wright county farmers were urged this week by Extension Director Aaron Bowmaan to fill out their 1954 census of agriculture questionnaires promptly so they will be already for the enumerator when she calls.

"It should be of interest to the farmers that the census-takers' job be made as easy as possible," he pointed out. "As taxpayers, they should wish the census to be completed as quickly and economically as possible, and as farm operators they will find information compiled from the census to be helpful."

Robert W. Burgess of Washington, D.C., director of the census, says that farmers have not been cooperating as fully as they did in 1950 and as a result, the cost of the census seems likely to be "greatly increased."

Work of taking the census was to begin Tuesday of this week. In Wright county, it is under the direction of H. M. Kinseth of Bode. Enumerators assigned to the general vicinity of Belmond are: George Mikesh, Belmond, Grant and Iowa townships; Mrs. C. H. Betten, Kanawha, Belmond and Pleasant; Louis Garmon, Livermore, Norway and Boone.

High School FHA And FFA Conduct Joint Installation

Joint installation was held Monday of last week by the Belmond High school chapters of Future Homemakers of America and Future Farmers of America, 27 girls being accepted into membership by the FHA and 22 boys by the FFA. Gloria Rabe, FHA president, and Airell Clark, FFA president, were in charge of the candlelight ceremony with other officers of both organizations also taking part.

Eighty parents and honorary members viewed the initiation ceremony. In addition to induction of new members, the FFA awarded advancement in rank to Chapter Farmer to 10 Future Farmer Greenhands, who have earned at least $25 on their projects and met the other requirements for promotion.

Girls who were initiated by the FHA were: Nancy Smith, Ruth Negrete, Madonna Suntken, Donna Suntken, Janet Slining, Donna Wolters, Lavonne Wessels, Helen Pals, Mary Jane Pals, Charlotte Studebaker, Mary Ketchum, Lois Stockseth, Ellen Brooks, Meredith Jenison, Sandra Soma, Janice Flanagan, Jean Nuehring, Velma Beenken, Susan Schmidt, Irene Redmond, Nadine Rabe, Donna Nolan, Elaine Tendall, Linda Davenport, Ruth McLaughlin, Maxine Stille and Beverly Meyer.

Boys who became Greenhands in the Future Farmers organization were: Terrel Baker, David Crawford, Larry Ersland, Donovan Goeman, Paul Kalkwarf, Lynn Mennenga, Richard Morris, Douglas Nodland, Wayne Pals, Loren Payne, Gaylen Roberts, Larry Stadtlander, John Studebaker, Ronnie Vanness, Marlin Daniels, Richard Kuhlers, Ronald Loeffler, Leonard Steenblock, Byron Heginger, Kenneth Langlitz, Lester VerHelst and Ronnie Johnson.

Greenhands who were elevated to the rank of Chapter Farmer were: Richard Brooks, Hemo Eckhoff, Gary Ersland, Jerry Hopkey, Merrill Jenison, Roland Lerdal, Steven McLaughlin, Larry Schimp, Harold Thompson and Everett Toft.

Means for Paying Delinquent Bills A 'Must': Trustees

Trustees of the Veterans' Memorial corporation have called a mass meeting of all members of the local American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts for next Monday at 8:00 p. m. at Veterans' Memorial hall. Purpose of the meeting is to seek a solution to financial difficulties that have been plaguing the building trustees for much of the current year

"We don't like to say that the fate of continued veteran ownership of the memorial hall hangs in the balance," Board President Jack Lobdell informed The Independent as plans for the meeting were discussed Tuesday, "but it appears the situation may be just that serious.

"There was a period of several months during the spring and summer when income from operation of the Vets' club and hall rentals ran far less than the amount needed to meet running expenses. It is critically important that we find some means of meeting over-due obligations and getting on a current basis," Mr. Lobdell stated.

Assessment Considered

Treasurer Bob "Ozzie" Nelson reports that approximately $1,000 is at present owing on current bills and others that are long past due. Since opening of the fall dance season, the Memorial Corporation—which administers the hall's financial affairs—has managed to keep just about even on monthly costs. But no headway whatever has been made in meeting bills that piled up during the slack period.

"So far," the board president continued, "the only feasible suggestion that's been offered as a way to catch up is levying of a modest assessment against all Legion and VFW members. Dues amount to only $3.50 annually for the Legion and $4.50 for the VFW, which runs appreciably less than membership fees for most lodges and corresponding organizations. For this reason, we feel that the veterans would prefer to subject themselves to an assessment of, perhaps, $5.00 than to risk losing possession of their building.

Other Ideas Invited

"However," Mr. Lobdell added, "if any Vet or Legionnaire can propose a practical idea at Monday night's meeting whereby the vitally needed funds can be raised otherwise, we'll be happy to give it serious consideration. If such an idea is not forthcoming, we'd like to have the approval of a representative portion of the two posts' memberships to proceed with the assessment."

It is the opinion of the building trustees that the Memorial hall fills too important a place in the community as a site for large gatherings, as well as serving as a meeting place for the veterans' organizations, for lack of several hundred dollars to jeopardize its future. The extensive use it has enjoyed, they say, makes clear that the community needs such facilities as it offers.

Letters Being Sent

Letters are going out to all VFW and Legion members as personal reminders of Monday night's mass meeting. Mr. Lobdell says, "It is important there be a large turn-out to give this matter the study and thorough discussion that it needs and deserves. We have a problem that must be met. We'd like to solve it in a way that meets with the approval of a good cross-section of the two veterans' organizations."

It is believed by the trustees that a way can be worked out to keep the Memorial Corporation on an even financial keel, according to the president, if this crisis is successfully passed.

Several Turn In Campaign Costs

Campaign expenses of several candidates for state and district offices were turned in this week to the office of the secretary of state, which are of interest to Wright countians.

They included the following: William Cressey, Clarion, Democratic candidate for state representative, $10; J. E. Hansen, Eagle Grove, Democratic candidate for state treasurer, $50.

Harvey Uhlenhopp, Hampton, candidate for 11th District court judge, $25; H. C. Nichols, Ames and John W. Schaupp, Fort Dodge, also candidates for judgeships, none. The preceding three are all Republicans.

All the above reported the receipt of no contributions.

BANNING TO PREACH

Rev. Robert Banning (whose name, incidentally, was inadvertantly confused with that of his elder brother Richard in the story on today's editorial page) will fill the pulpit for the Bethany Reformed church services next Sunday morning and evening in the absence of Rev. Ralph Meyer.

WAGNERS TO ILLINOIS

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wagner and family moved the first of last week to Pittsfield, Ill., where they will make their home. Roger will continue trucking for Kennedy Transfer with headquarters there. Mrs. Charles Kennedy accompanied them to help them get settled.

ROWAN BAZAAR-SUPPER

Annual supper and bazaar of the Rowan Methodist church is scheduled for Thursday of next week. It will be held at the Rowan community room, serving to start at 5:30 p. m. and the menu featuring turkey and the fixin's. The bazaar

ELECTION REVERBERATIONS

Although defeated by a margin of 458 votes, Senator Guy Gillette was the best Democratic vote-getter in Wright county last week. While piling up 2,811 votes to Rep. Thomas E. Martin's 3,269, the Cherokee veteran came out on top in 11 of the county's 28 precincts and tied his GOP opponent in two others.

———X———

Considering that all other Democratic candidates for state office were out-voted by margins of more than 1,000 votes in Wright county, Clyde E. Herring ran a rather remarkably strong race against Leo Hoegh. It was a solid win for the Attorney General, who had an edge of 654, but 10 precincts showed a preference for the Demo governorship candidate.

———X———

For some reason that is not readily apparent, Chet Akers of Ottumwa, incumbent state auditor, drew the heaviest support of any candidate for state office. His name was marked on 3,599 Wright county ballots — six more than were cast for John Tallman of Clarion in his successful contest for one of the commerce commissioner posts.

———X———

Of all the candidates who were running against opposition, Rep. James I. Dolliver collected the most votes in this county. He amassed 3,807, a total of 1,903 more than his Demo rival, Lumund Wilcox of Jefferson.

———X———

Dolliver lost only one precinct in the county — which was a little better than Clark McNeal was able to do. William Cressey of Clarion, opposing Clark for his seat in the Iowa House of Representatives, edged the Belmond law-maker in two precincts and trailed him by a single vote in another.

———X———

Three precincts stamped themselves as Democratic strongholds. Wall Lake township went right down the line for the "out" party. It was the only precinct to desert Dolliver. Clarion's Ward 3 supported Cressey 114-102 over McNeal and favored every other Democratic candidate EXCEPT the U. S. Representative from Fort Dodge, a 115-100 winner over Wilcox. Eagle Grove Ward 2 gave Dolliver an edge of 115-95 and McNeal a one-vote margin, 104-103 — but otherwise, the precinct was 100 per cent Democratic.

———X———

Liberty township, seat of Goldfield, proved the most rock-ribbed center of Republicanism of any precinct in the county. Nothing less than a revolution will ever see those folks go Democratic. Not even Gillette and Herring made any sort of a showing there, losing 239-119 and 262-99. Dolliver won in Liberty by better than 6-to-1, drawing 297 votes to a meager 45 for Wilcox!

H. Braner Badly Hurt by Tumble

Harm Braner suffered a fractured skull and brain concussion, also a broken left wrist, Thursday afternoon of last week when he tumbled from a corn crib as he was helping his son Don with the corn harvest. The mishap occurred at the Braner farm five miles east of town.

Mr. Braner was making preparations for filling the bin when the mishap took place. He was taken to Belmond Community hospital and is reported by his physician to be making a satisfactory recovery. His condition will likely require that he remain in the hospital for another week to 10 days.

FOOD SALE-BAZAAR

Annual bazaar and food sale of the Immanuel Reformed church Dorcas society will be held Wednesday evening of next week at the church, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Lunch will be served following the sale.

BAZAAR-AUCTION PLANNED

Ruth Circle of the Methodist church WSCS will hold a bazaar-auction on Thursday evening of next week at the church, beginning at 8:00 o'clock. Lunches will be served following the sale.

$150 Flew the Coop

One hundred and fifty dollars flew the coop Tuesday as the 3:00 o'clock Cash Gift Day award found a home. No. 1,386 was excitedly handed in by Mrs. Duane Whipple, who regularly purchases The Independent each week across the counter. We might point out to Mrs. W. the special deal for non-subscribers appearing in this issue. Not a one of the half dozen 2:00 p. m. prizes was claimed this week, so a couple are being lopped off for next Tuesday to help take up the slack at 3:00 o'clock. It will be four 25'ers at 2:00 and $100 at 3:00. . . . Come and get it!

Don Abbas Victim Of Picker Mishap

Donald Abbas, ~~29-year~~-old son-in-law of Mr. anad Mrs. Art Ruka, so severely injured his left hand in a cornpicker accident just before noon Monday that it was necessary to amputate the hand at the wrist. He was operating the picker on the farm he rents just a mile south of Britt.

Looking back on the mishap, the young farmer is at a loss to explain how it happened. He had stopped to clean out the picker, but says that the husking rollers were in no way involved.

Some way or other, the hand was caught in the moving machinery from underneath. After forcefully withdrawing the trapped hand from the picker, he had to walk the entire length of a long field to reach a point where his father was working. Fortunately, there was a car at hand and the injured man was rushed to the nearby hospital in Britt by his father.

KLEMME FAMILY GOES BACK TO PAKISTAN AFTER VISIT

Randall Klemme, with his wife and daughter Patricia, left on Monday of last week from the west coast by air for Honolulu on their return trip to Karachi, Pakistan, after an extended visit in this country. Mr. Klemme will resume his work in Pakistan in behalf of the Ford Foundation on Monday of next week.

En route to Karachi, the Klemmes planned to visit friends, spending three days in Honolulu, five in Tokio and four in Hong Kong.

Mrs. Klemme and daughter had been back in the States since early June. Randall joined them in September, spending much of his time in New York and Washington, D. C. on business, but also visiting in Belmond and at Stillwater, Okla., during the Homecoming of Oklahoma A. and M. college.

Final night of the Lions club benefit show in behalf of the community swimming pool fund provided a major thrill that wasn't on the program. A standing-room-only crowd in attendance at the Tuesday performance of "You Can't Beat Fun" was informed by Master-of-Ceremonies Clark McNeal that Louis Tokman, co-proprietor of Belmond Auto company, had contributed a check for $1,000 toward the pool fund.

A letter that accompanied the check explained that Mr. Tokman, a member of the first-night audience, had been deeply impressed by the great enthusiasm shown by the large cast. Not only had he thoroughly enjoyed the show, but he felt the time and effort devoted to so worthy a cause by so many people deserved to be rewarded above and beyond the amount that might be realized from the fine, home-talent production.

Project Will Started

As a result of Mr. Tokman's generosity, the swimming pool campaign is off to a flying start and Lions President L. B. Oberhauser believes that the gesture of the local Ford dealer definitely augurs success for the project. Concrete plans for capitalizing on the example set by Mr. Tokman will be devised by the Lions at an early date. If the campaign goes over as anticipated, the entire community—and particularly the children of Belmond and vicinity—will owe a real debt of gratitude to Mr. Tokman, in the opinion of Mr. Oberhauser.

Cecil Carstens, chairman of the Lions committee overseeing show, reports it was a success from every standpoint. Not only did Ida Lueddeke, director of the production, earn praise for the excellent entertainment it provided, but the proceeds came well up to expectations. Only the limited seating capacity of the high school auditorium prevented a larger "take." While a final accounting had not been made at press time, it was certain that the gross would exceed $900.

Lions Clear $350

With expenses all paid, more than $700 would clearly be left to split between the Lions and the production company which employs Miss Lueddeke and which provided costumes and other essential items as well as the director. That means a profit for the Lions club in excess of $350—which, with Mr. Tokman's liberal gift, puts the swimming pool fund very solidly "in business."

Of that amount taken in, $170 came from the children's popularity contest. Top winners in the contest were Bobby Griffen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Griffen, and Carol Ann Sharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Sharp, to whom went the title of King and Queen. Prince and Princess were Dudley Thompson and Carla Jean Mosiman; Duke and Duchess, Tommy Jenison and Patty Pitcher.

Few More Needed For Home Nursing

Principal Clair Hugh reports that about half a dozen women have evidenced interest in the proposed Adult Education course in home nursing and that a class will still be organized if the registration can be brought up to 12.

This course would be taught by Mrs. Robert Freshwater, a graduate nurse, whose husband is a General Mills employee. Mr. Hugh believes this class in practical nursing would prove valuable to a good many housewives and hopes that the required, additional number will sign up.

Any women who would like to register for the nursing course are asked to phone the high school, principal's office.

Supervisors Obtain Land as Site for New Jail

At a meeting of the county board of supervisors held Monday, that body passed a resolution approving a contract to purchase from G. R. Sheldon and Max Sheldon a parcel of land as site for the new Wright county jail.

Property to be bought at a cost $3,350 includes lots 1, 2 and 3 in Sheldon's Addition, Clarion. This is located just east of the Hi-Hatt Bowling alleys in the east part of Clarion on Highway 3.

It was provided in the resolution that a down payment of $350 should be paid to the Sheldons as of Monday, with the balance payable upon receipt of an abstract showing good, marketable title, and of good and sufficient warranty deed.

John Greenlander, chairman of the board, explains that decision to acquire a new location for the jail was prompted by the too small size of the lot on which the present lock-up stands. It would not accomodate a structure of the size required for the new, combined jail and sheriff's residence.

Mr. Greenlander added that expense of demolishing the old jail would have been considerable, also. He explained further that construction of a garage adjacent to the jail is contemplated in the not far distant future, and that the old jail lot did not allow space for this improvement.

It is the supervisors' plan to dispose of the present jail property

Will Case Settled Prior to Hearing

Settlement out of court last week led to dismissal of the equity case of Bernice I. Jacobson vs Luin B. Cox, Executor, which was cheduled for jury trial starting this past Monday.

Last Friday, a stipulation was filed that encompassed dismissal by the plaintiff and her husband, Elmer R. Jacobson, of all claims they had filed against the estate of the late Walter M. Davis. The case hinged on which of two documents was Mr. Davis's legal will.

Since this was the only jury trial on the docket for the November term of court, the call for jurors to report was cancelled.

New Fords Go On Display Tomorrow

Ford's Fairline series—six distinguished new passenger car models named after the late Henry Ford's home—set the style pace for the 1955 Ford cars which will be introduced Friday at Belmond Auto company, and throughout the nation.

Styled like Ford's new Thunderbird, the six Fairlane models are easily recognized by a sweeping chrome trimline which starts at the top of each front fender at the headlamp and curves downward—then extends horizontally along the side to the tail lights. Dual exhausts, which provide extra power, are standard on all Fairline V-8 and station wagon models.

Most outstanding of the new Fairline models are the two Crown Victorias which are only 58.2 inches high—2.4 inches lower than the 1954 Fords. These hard-top models introduce a completely new styling idea—a chrome arch which extends over the top like a tiara. One Crown Victoria model has a transparent plastic roof over the driver's compartment while the other has an all-steel roof.

In addition to the two Crown Victorias, the new Fairlane series includes a Sunliner convertible, Victoria, four-door Town Sedan and two-door Club Sedan.

Like all the new Fords, the Fairlane models have a flatter hood and longer rear deck. Hooded headlamps give the high fenders a forward-thrust look and rear fenders form a reverse angle above larger tail lamps.

Added to the beauty of the new Fairlane series is a big, curved, one-piece, wrap-around windshield with 1,100 square inches of glass area and narrow, set-back corner posts which provide clear, unobstructed vision for driver and passengers.

Luick Fire Loss Set at $1,756

Curt Luick, whose cafe on Main street was seriously damaged by fire on Tuesday night of last week, says his plans for reopening the eating establishment are dependent upon whether his landlord, Martin Thoe, intends to repair the building. The middle of this week, Mr. Thoe's decision had not been learned by Mr. Luick.

Insurance fully covered damage of $1,756 done to the restaurant equipment. Major losses included the refrigerator, stove and gas heater and considerable damage was done by smoke and water.

Because of the extremely high rates payable on the old, frame building the cafe occupied, Mr. Thoe was not carrying insurance on the property. Doors and windows were damaged, some wallboard burned and besides the repairs, complete redecoration of the interior would be necessary to fit the building for further use.

BELMOND AND ITS NEIGHBORS PLAYED VITAL ROLE IN SUCCESS OF JAIL ISSUE

It was gratifying to The Independent to note that the area which it covers played a key role in bringing about approval of the special jail issue last week.

Though Clarion will certainly "benefit" by the building of the new jail no more than any other part of the county, that community gave the special issue a resounding 75.6 majority. Belmond and the townships adjacent — Belmond, Pleasant, Norway and Iowa — came through with a 62 per cent edge in favor of the jail-bond issue. The rest of the county (of course, there were a few other, individual precincts that gave it the necessary 60 per cent approval) voted for the proposition by only a 52-48 margin — which would have meant defeat for the issue. Had Belmond and vicinity followed the ratio mentioned, the jail proposal would have failed 57.5 to 42.5.

We're proud to be living in an area, that — seeing something to be done — votes for DOING it.

DESPITE BALLOT-SCRATCHING, WRIGHT STILL QUALIFIES AS GOP STRONGHOLD

While Wright countians indulged in a good deal of ballot-scratching in last week's election, the results left no doubt but what this county continues to merit the description of a "Republican stronghold." It is noteworthy that for those offices where candidate personalities wielded no appreciable influence, GOP candidates were the winners by about the normal margins. That this was extensively true throughout the state lends further evidence that Iowa pretty much continues to be a one-party state. We wouldn't say this is necessarily good — but it seems irrefutably true.

Considering Senator Gillette's vote-getting ability in year's past, we should say that Thomas Martin's victory over the veteran politician speaks highly of President Eisenhower's continuing popularity in Iowa. We suspect that far fewer votes were cast in Iowa and Wright county AGAINST Gillette than were cast FOR a Congress that would prove friendly to the administration's program.

We see it explained that Clyde Herring's personal popularity and Leo Hoegh's promise of down-the-line law enforcement (frowned on by the "wet" areas) largely accounted for the stiff fight for the governorship. However, we can't help but feel that an entirely different factor entered into the matter here in Wright county — and probably elsewhere. In 1950, William Beardsley was victor over his Democratic opponent, Lester Gillette, by a wide margin. In 1952, despite a general Republican sweep otherwise, Beardsley managed to nose out Hershel Loveless by the meagerest of margins.

Wright county, and Iowa in general, had plainly lost its admiration for Beardsley; and we suspect the charge that Hoegh was the retiring governor's hand-picked successor cost the GOP candidate many a vote. It's certain that here in Wright county, we were not too much concerned with Hoegh's attitude toward liquor-law enforcement — or even with his stand in favor of the union shop (he advocated repeal of the "right to work" law now on Iowa's books). No, we'd blame his relatively tough sledding hereabouts on "the Beardsley blight."

By and large, we were happy to see the evidence of quite extensive ballot-splitting. A ballot-scratcher has obviously devoted some thought to the exercise of his franchise. How much brain-work is indicated by straight-ticket voting is an open question.

YE ED FINDS IDEA FOR AN EDITORIAL RIGHT UNDER THE TIP OF HIS NOSE

Sometimes it's a tough proposition, getting the nub of an idea that can be expanded into an editorial. We've been sitting at the typewriter, riffling through mail on our desk and peeking into exchange papers for an inspiration — and presto! Here's what we've been searching for, right under the tip of our nose.

Blinking cigaret smoke from our right eye, we note in an American Cancer Society release that volunteer researchers for the Iowa Division have launched a final, follow-up report on the link — if any — between tobacco and lung cancer. And lying beside our typewriter is an editorial from the Algona Advance remarking on a precipitous drop in Iowa cigaret sales. Holla! It adds up!

Those researchers have been keeping check for three years on 10,573 men between the ages of 50 and 69. Of that number, 291 have died since the project was started — 50 of cancer, and nine of those from lung cancer. Detailed case histories are being kept on all the interviewees, for two reasons. First, there is definite reason to believe that smoking IS a vital factor in the cause of lung cancer; second the death rate from lung cancer in Iowa has increased 62 per cent in the past five years.

Duane Dewel of the Algona Advance makes it apparent in his editorial that a lot of people haven't been so slow in taking a hint as Ye Ed. He points out: "During the third quarter of the year, state cigaret tax receipts declined $215,026 from the same period a year ago. In number of packs, that means some 7,165,533 fewer packages were sold during the three-month period — a drop in smoking of some 143,350,660 cigarets."

He adds that cigaret sales for the quarter totaled, however, 62 million packs, "which could still create quite a smudge." And which, we can't help but reflect, could be generating a lot of cancer — if the researchers expose the cigaret as an Ethiopian in the woodpile.

The ACS statisticians feel they'll have something pretty conclusive to cling to, when the latest survey follow-up report is all in and analyzed to determine whether the death rate from cancer actually IS greater among smokers than non-smokers.

Meanwhile, we continue to enjoy (?) the dubious comforts of the nasty weed — like a man smoking on a powder keg, complete with fuse, nervously wondering whether or not it's filled with powder. Rather silly, when you come right down to it, isn't it?

Bannings Find Climate Ennervating, Mountain Roads Extremely Dangerous in Philippine Mission Field

(Rev. and Mrs. Richard Banning, about whom the following article is written, are currently visiting—with their three children—in the home of Mr. Banning's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Banning)

After an interview with Rev. Richard Banning, who has just returned from four years of missionary work in the province of Ilocos Norte, island of Luzon, in the Philippines, your reporter was inclined to wonder why this young, Belmond minister is preparing to return when he and his family have spent a year in the States. Of course the answer lies in his determination to spread further the Word of the Gospel among the natives with whom he has been working.

For he will be returning to hard work, that not infrequently involves considerable physical danger, in a climate that quickly saps the strength of persons accustomed to life in the temperate zone. It is no tropical paradise, by a long shot; and Richard admits that the fruits of his efforts are hard-won.

Natives Have Own Lauguage

Natives of Ilocos Norte speak a language of their own, distinct from Spanish—and distinct, even, from Tagalog, which is the national language of the islands. The Bannings have not yet wholly mastered the difficult dialect and have to rely heavily upon interpreters to carry their message to the people. That has been a handicap.

Still another handicap is the fact that he and his wife found the hot climate extremely ennervating after about a year at their mission. They found their strength gradually declining and the physical labors involved in their work more difficult to perform, the longer they were in the islands Richard says the "siesta" that is indulged in each mid-day in the tropics is not prompted by laziness or whim. The early afternoon rest is a necessity.

Mountain Paths Hazardous

Much of his evangelistic work takes him into outlying areas of the province (the family makes its home in the capital, Laoag, a city of some 50,000), and some of the mountainous journeys are difficult in the extreme. Many times, the mountain roadways accomodate his Ford panel truck by only margin of inches. He tells of taking a "short cut" on one occasion which involved maneuvering the car around a hair-pin curve by means of jacking up the rear, pushing it sideways a few inches, then repeating the process until the sharp turn was finally managed.

When the foot of the mountain had been reached on the other side, he discovered that a river bridge was washed out—and he had to return by the same hazardous route, managing the tight curve in the same manner as before!

Richard does most of his preaching either in the market places of the province's larger communities or at tent meetings conducted in the rural villages. He uses a public address system, mounted on his truck, to carry his words to the crowds that invariably gather. He customarily hands out leaflets, printed in the native dialect.

Communism No Problem

When tracts are handed out at an open-air meeting in the States, the ground is always littered with the papers discarded by disinterested recipients. This never happens in the islands, the young missionary says. His literature is conscientiously carried home by the natives—and, he is quite certain, read. Even so, conversions are not easily attained, Richard admits. But he's satisfied that repetition of his message in due time brings better understanding of the Gospel to many of the natives; and that, he says, is the primary objective of his work.

Communism is no problem in the island area when his mission is, according to the missionary, because most of the families own at least a bit of rice land. In many instances the farming operation is unable to provide for all the family's needs and they supplement their incomes by working at a craft or trade. Some of the men spend six months of the year in southern Luzon, finding employment in the sugar industry.

U. S. Checks Help

The life of the natives is simple and their standard of living quite low. An average good wage runs about $60 to $70 per month. The economic "elite" are those families who lost a member in the guerilla forces during World War II. The U. S. government pays to the family of each casualty a monthly pension. What relatively few radios and like luxuries that exist are most apt to be found in homes where the pension checks come.

This "outside income" is of great importance to the area's economy, providing a cushion of cash that does much to make the times relatively good. Despite this, thievery is continually rampant and at no time is a home left wholly deserted. Should such foolishness be indulged in, the returning family would almost certainly find everything of value stolen from the house.

During the Bannings' stay in Ilocos Norte, two new churches of the Baptist faith were established, doubling the number that they found upon their arrival. Two other missionaries sponsored by the Association of Baptists for World Evangelism, which sent Richard and his wife to the Philippines, are stationed at Laoag. They are primarily teachers—both are relatively elder women—but they are doing what they can to continue the Bannings' work as well as their own while the young couple is on leave.

Serve Population of 260,000

Four natives are currently in training to assist in the evangelistic work. Richard concedes the total staff is small for the area it is expected to cover. There are 18 "municipalities" (somewhat equivalent to the U. S. township) in Ilocos Norte and the total population exceeds 250,000. The Bannings also serve the Batanes islands, northernmost group in the Philippines, which are inhabited by another 10,000 natives.

On Thursday of next week, the Bannings will go to Philadelphia to report at the office of the Association for Evangelism. There, the couple's deputation work for the coming year will be mapped out. During the months until their return to the islands, they will visit Baptist churches between here and the east coast, telling of their activities and soliciting continued support for the Baptists' evangelistic mission work. Then it will be back to the Philippines—and more mountains to climb.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

L. A. Kaercher, Ortonville (Minn.) Independent, Insists On Doing His Own Editing — So . . . .

In the newspaper business we meet all kinds and manner of folks, but, not in our 33 years experience have we ever taken such a tongue lashing as we did Monday forenoon from a subscriber—and from a woman at that.

Brother, it was terrific. Poor, helpless we, we let her rave on and on, upbraiding us like no other could possibly do.

She brought out copies of newspapers in nearby towns, pointing to an article she had sent in about a certain function or celebration calling our attention to the fact that "they," the other newspapers, had printed the article verbatim, whereas, we had chosen to edit it, and by so doing had completely "butchered" it.

Brother, the more calm we remained, the more she poured it on.

If the Good Lord ever gave us forebearance and self control, it was during her tirade.

In the heat of the lashing and after she had rid herself of her low opinion of this newspaper in comparison with those which saw fit to publish the story "complete," she left without her purse.

To save her the expense of publishing a "lost" ad, we kindly picked it up and trailed her to her car out in front. She snatched it from us and said:

"Don't you ever mention my name in your newspaper again. Never!"

oOo

We told her we would try hard to comply with her request, so for that reason this editorial is written in the abstract. Her name is not mentioned. Certainly we have no desire to rile her again.

Her criticism was, to us, a high compliment. Right she was — we chose to edit the story, which was our privilege — and duty. Frankly, with more than 7,000 readers, we could see no reason in trying to flatter her at the expense of 6,999 other subscribers.

Our easiest way out would have been to take the copy as submitted and set it in type as the other newspapers had done.

We would have won her praises — pleased her much. But we have to look to the interest, not of one subscriber, but to the overall interest.

In this business we get pretty much used to catching it now and then. It tends to whet one's interest in the game. Fortunately, the compliments one gets are so far more numerous, they justify our position that, after all, perhaps we know a little more about the business of editing and publishing a newspaper than the "know all" type of contributing subscriber.

We would hate very much to be an invited guest at her home for a meal. Again, oh Brother — what would happen if one didn't eat everything she placed before you — whether you liked it or whether it nauseated you? She'd sure get going.

Yes sir, it takes all kinds of people to make a world — even so-called editors, such as we — and she! Fun, though!

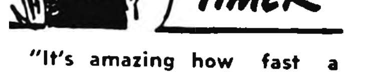
THE OLD TIMER

"It's amazing how fast a man's whole conscience begins to unravel the minute a stitch is dropped."



Pointing to a newspaper item about another Russian "invention," a fellow coffee-drinker remarked, "The only discovery left for the Rooshkies to make is that nobody believes them."

According to our doctor friend, "A hypochondriac is a person who can't leave being well enough alone."

Reports a friend who was too late home from a poker game, "My wife forgave me, darn it; and I've never heard the last of it. Wish she'd just get a silent mad-on like other wives!"

An elderly matron whom we admire advises, "Be kind to the girl you married — the wife you save may be your own."

Looking over the winter resort ads, a high school lassie — wise beyond her years — observed, "Some of the girls think the new bathing suits are indecent; but not those with good figures."

Tattling on her sex, a neighbor tells us, "One of the first things a woman notices about a man is whether he notices her or not."

A man with a "pushy" wife was heard mumbling as he picked up his cancelled checks the other day, "Yep. A wife can make or break her husband. And mine seems determined to do both!"

Probably the fuse was lit 10 days earlier when Belmond pulled that 6-0 surprise on Clarion, but Garner got full benefit of the detonation Wednesday night of last week when the Broncos exploded with breathtaking ferocity to blank the favored Cardinals, 24 to 0. The game set local football fans to stirring their memories for the last time a BHS football team had so thoroughly drubbed a foe to whom they were forecast to lose.

Although the statistics misleadingly indicate that the contest was a touch-and-go battle, it was actually a solid, Belmond victory—as accurately suggested by the score. What the statistics do NOT reveal is that the Broncos' alert defense accounted for 136 run-back yards on pass interceptions. Nor do they picture the scintillating, 61-yard kick-off return with which LeRoy Smith set up Belmond's third tally.

Keith Madsen pulled the rug out from under the bewildered Cardinals towards the end of the first quarter with a pair of nifty pass interceptions that produced two TD's in the span of three scrimmage plays. Both counters developed from the same, identical pass into the flat which found Cardinal receivers nowhere around. Madsen galloped 45 yards on the dead run with No. 1. On the second play after the ensuing kickoff he pulled a repeat performance, this time going 40 yards.

Before these developments, a hint of things to come was provided earlier in the period. Garner had received the opening kickoff and after two, unproductive line plays had attempted an aerial. Ron Steenblock hauled it down on the Cards' 35. Two plays later, Smith heaved one to Steenblock in the clear on the goal line but the pigskin slithered through the Bronco end's fingers.

Cards Stopped Twice

Garner got its best licks in during the second quarter, when it made two stabs deep into Belmond territory. Bob Blank paved the way for the first threat when he raced 20 yards on a punt return, to the Broncs' 33. Scat-back Chuck Greiman picked up 10—his only sizeable run of the night—but the following series of plays found the Cards a foot shy of making 1st-and-10 on the 13.

Later, a blocked Belmond punt paved the way for a Garner first down on the 15. Ron Steenblock personally squelched this opportunity—first spilling Blank for an 8-yard loss and then stealing a 4th-down Garner pass on the three and running it back to the 25

In the waning moments of the first half, Garner lost the ball on downs on its own 29 with a little under a minute of time remaining. Belmond was able to try three passes, but none of them clicked. That left the Broncs with a 12-0 half-time advantage.

Smith Gets 3rd TD

It was clear as play resumed in the second half that the Purple and White battlers had no intention of letting this one get away. Daryle Jass kicked off for the visitors and LeRoy Smith gathered in the ball exactly on his own 10. Streaking for the right sidelines and getting some beautiful downfield blocking along the way, Smitty rambled clear to Garner's 29 before he was spilled.

Tom Lowenberg slashed for four and then for another five. Smith romped for 11, making it 1st-and-10 on the nine. On the fourth play following, Smith crashed over from a foot out to make the count 18-0. Madsen had had a placekick conversion attempt blocked and another go wide after the earlier TD's. This time Marlan Cunningham carried the ball on a reverse but was shoved out of bounds just shy of the double-stripe.

Play was relatively even for the balance of the third period as repeated penalties and an occasional miscue prevented the Belmond offense from getting into stride. Midway in the final stanza, Garner was put in a hole when a kick by Madsen was downed by a teammate on the Cards' two-yard line—but a clipping penalty erased the play and a second kick attempt was blocked, giving the visitors possession at midfield.

Madsen intercepted a Garner toss on the next play, but the Broncos were promptly held for downs and Keith kicked to the Cards' 30. Doug Maley bobbled the ball and Ron Hansen spilled him on the 25. LeRoy Smith immediately set the stage for the final Belmond score by intercepting a Garner pass on the 36 and racing back to the seven. On the third, ensuing play, Smitty connected with Madsen on a short pass that produced the tally. Jerry Chandler's dropkick attempt for extra point was blocked.

The Garner gridders very obviously underestimated the calibre of opposition they were up against in this fray and were unquestionably hampered to some extent by overconfidence. On the other hand, Belmond definitely earned its victory and its alert, aggressive play made the difference. After the first half, when the Cards gained 101 yards and chalked up five first downs, the edge was entirely the Broncos'. The visitors totaled only 34 yards in the last half and made only one 1st-and-10.

Despite their slight edge in yardage, the Cards' offense was pretty effectively bottled up throughout the game. Only twice did they make running gains in excess of five yards. Cornie Van Oort, the losers' left guard, played a very fine defensive game and was Garner's outstanding performer. Laurels to the Bronco stars are passed out in the Player-of-the-Week story.

Albers to State Bowling Classic

Ed Albers, one of Belmond's top-average bowlers, is competing in the annual Iowa State Match Game Championship that starts in Des Moines at the Air Lanes alleys this Saturday. His entry is being co-sponsored by Tip Top Super Valu grocery and Elliott's Hardware. Only 125 entries are accepted, and the event each year attracts the state's finest bowlers. Belmond has not previously been represented in the classic.

Winner of the tournament, in addition to receiving a cash prize and recognition as Iowa Match Game Champion, is invited by the Iowa State Bowling Proprietors association, sponsor of the tourney, to represent Iowa at the National All-Star Tournament at Chicago.

Each contending bowler rolls 12 games. Albers will take the alleys for six games at 9:00 a. m. Sunday and for his final six at 6:00 p. m. Last year in local league play he achieved a 187 game average. So far this year he has averaged 189

Msgr. Duane Brady of Dubuque spent the weekend in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Brady.

KEITH MADSEN'S 3 TD'S WIN HIM 'PLAYER' LAURELS IN FINAL TILT

Members of the Player-of-the-Week panel are just as well satisfied that the '54 gridiron season is over, from one standpoint. It was certainly becoming a tough job to make their weekly "pick."

Against Garner, three prior winners of the honor could very appropriately been handed the laurels again. Ron Steenbolck played as fine a game as any Bronco lineman had the entire year through. He was everywhere, including the Cardinal backfield a good share of the time.

Phil Schmitz played the same sort of game that won him the "Player" title earlier in the season; and LeRoy Smith put on a show that stamped him as one of the finest backs in the conference—when at the peak of his game, as he certainly was against Garner.

Tom Lowenberg also won cheers from the crowd with his fine ball-carrying. Bob McLaughlin and Gene Nicholson both turned in especially commendable performances. It would be difficult to account for all the phenomenal down-field blocking that made possible the sensational sprints which, when all is said and done, were the key to Belmond's surprising victory. Every one of those blockers was a legitimate contender for a "Player-of-the-Week" citation.

But standing foremost among the many candidates that the Garner game produced was Keith Madsen, playing his final game for the Broncos—and what a show he put on! No Belmond fan who witnessed the game will ever forget how the be-spectacled senior broke the contest wide open by racing a total of 85 yards with interception run-backs, producing two TD's within a span of no more than a minute of playing time.

Then, to put frosting on the cake, Keith chalked up his third touchdown of the evening by taking a short pass from LeRoy Smith for the final touchdown. It was a fitting conclusion to the three-year varsity career of the diminutive veteran!

Indians, Broncs to Open Conference Jamboree at Forest City Tomorrow

"Coach Norman Jasperson began practice Tuesday with his 1954-55 basketball squad, which this season will be looking for its first conference title in three years."

So read a story in last week's Forest City Summit, making plain the aspirations of the current Indian cagers. A better assessment of their chances can be made after their NIC jamboree meeting tomorrow night with Belmond, whom the Summit conceded "will be the team to beat this year in the North Iowa conference."

Friday night's action will be second of the new season for Forest City, Lake Mills and Buffalo Center, who participated Monday in the Winnebago county jamboree at Thompson.

Broncs, Indians in Starter

Belmond and Forest City will clash tomorrow in the first two quarters of the loop cage-fest on the Indians' home court. Starting time is 7:30 o'clock. The subsequent jousts will bring together Northwood and Klemme (the guest school), Buffalo Center and Britt, Lake Mills and Garner.

Forest City bases its high hopes on the return of five lettermen. Doug Glime and Layne Haugen were regulars last year; Franklin Bienert, Carroll Carson and Art Gabrielson were reserves, who saw considerable action.

After Forest City and Belmond—with its four eligible veterans—Garner stacks up as perhaps the team with the greatest potential. Back are forward Bob Brooks, Center Daryle Jass and Guard Hans Nielson, with a couple of other Jasses — Doug and Jim — to bolster the Cards' prospects

Northwood "Darkhorse"

Northwood may turn out to be a highly formidable "darkhorse." The Vikings will have back their two best boys of last season, lanky Norris Julson and speedy Duane Carnes. Discovery of a little supplemental strength among the reserves could make this outfit really tough.

Lake Mills lost a good share of its power with graduation of Big John Swenson. Its returning "regulars" are Dave Gunderson and Gene Haugo, both guards. Darrell Belville, Roger Lande and Ron Hill, reserves on the '53-54 squad, will also be on hand: but the Bulldogs don't figure to be as good as last year.

Neither Buffalo Center nor Britt appear to constitute very much of a threat. Jerry Gerdes, who played good ball at guard for the Bison, will find some help among graduates of the strong, BC froshmore team that lost only one game last season — to Belmond. All of Britt's key men were lost via the diploma route and it looks like a long, hard season for the Eagles

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

After last week's experience we just about decided we should send out sample copies MORE often — or skip it entirely. In conjunction with a subscription special, we decided to send free papers to all city homes and rural boxholders not at present getting The Independent. To simplify mailing, we simply marked ALL the local papers "Sample Copy" and instructed the postmen to place one in every box.

With Veterans' Day delaying the delivery of mail, the reverberations were loud and long. Seems that about one out of every 25 subscribers assumed the "Sample Copy" indicated his subscription had run out — and phoned to declare that it ACTUALLY still had months to go.

So for the benefit of those who DIDN'T call, let us assure you that we KNOW your subscription is still in force. If the response to our "special" had only been on a par with the reaction to that "Sample Copy" stamp, we'd be happy indeed. It remains a puzzle to us why so many persons pay $5.20 annually for The Independent when they can get it a year for $3.50, six months for $1.75 — or, currently, till the 1st of July for $2.00.

Mainstreeters No. 1 and 2 were looking straight down the throat of No. 3 last week, wondering how he ever fouled up on the name of Rev. Robert Banning in the feature story we carried concerning the young missionary. . . . Well, FIRST, you got to be absent-minded. Ye Ed wrote that story at home on Sunday; and being a bit uncertain if he was writing of Robert or Richard, made a mental note to check before handing the story back to be set in type.

Then, after setting the story at one side of Ye Editorial desk, we forgot why — and suddenly noticing it the middle of Monday morning wondered what THAT was doing THERE and carried it to the backshop.

Ye Ed discovered the error well before the paper was all out, but NOT before the editorial section containing the story had been printed. About all he could do at that juncture was to say in disgust, "Oh! For pity sake!" or words to that effect. Fact of the matter is, if Ye Ed has one weakness that predominates over ALL others (journalistically speaking), it's a penchant for mixing up brothers' names. Never had a brother, himself. Could that be it, Mr. Freud?

Joined the crowd ogling those fancy '55 Fords at Belmond Auto company Friday and fruitlessly tried to pop a corny at the expense of Louis Tokman when we noted one of the glistening new models had three miles registered on the speedomoter.

"Trying to pass off a used car as a new one, huh?" we accused Louie as he stood by, beaming proudly upon the car we were inspecting.

Without a moment's hesitation, Mr. Tokman put us straight. "Oh, no," he said. "YOU put three miles on, THEN it's a used car. WE put the three miles on, it's still a new one!" . . . And it sounded SO reasonable, the way he said it.

A well-known young farmer of our community engaged in a tussle with his cornpicker Monday and—what do you know?—came out the winner. Apparently feeling rather sheepish over letting it happen to HIM, he wishes the incident to be given no publicity.

Needless to say, he's engaging in pure fantasy to think the matter hasn't already been related the length and breadth of the countryside. Only the various versions of the tale have him losing anywhere from a fingertip to an arm.

We're indulging his wish by making no mention of his name; although when a man gets in an argument with a picker and suffers nothing more serious than bruises, THAT'S news more than if he were maimed. Anyway, he can't blame us when he gets the kidding he hoped to escape.

We're informed that the Belmond Community hospital would welcome donations of relatively recent magazines and any quantity of comic books, vintage no consideration. The publications are welcomed by patients of the hospital to help them pass the time; and it is difficult to keep an adequate supply on hand. Here's a good turn that can be done easily and at no expense. Rally to the cause, good people.

If some farm family would be interested in obtaining a 1½-year-old female cat as a pet, phone 6107. She's pure white, long-furred and a good mouser. Present owners wish to keep one of her second litter of kittens, who's nondescript in appearance but very loving in nature—and two cats are one too many. (That 6107? Sure, it's the Gallaghers' number. Who else?)

An ad in today's classified department suggests that a pheasant hunting expedition to this vicinity ended very unhappily last Sunday for a nimrod from Ames. In the course of his meanderings in search of the elusive ring-neck, Joel Jacobson lost his black Labrador dog. Unless the pet was deliberately stolen, someone in the Belmond area should have knowledge about the the dog which Mr. Jacobson will be most happy to receive.

CALDWELL TO CLOSE OUT

Frank Caldwell announces that he and George Hake are holding a partnership closing out sale on Dec. 2. He has been tenant on the Hake farm southeast of Belmond. The sale will be held at Belmond Sales Pavilion, Ray Frye serving as auctioneer and the First State bank clerking. Mr. Caldwell says he is giving up farming but that his future plans are indefinite at this time.

Turkey-Raisers Find Profits Down; '54 Price Lower, Feed Costs Higher

There's a little less for the four major turkey-raisers of the Belmond vicinity to be thankful for this year than there was at Thanksgiving time last fall. They say that a combination of lower market price for the birds and higher feed costs has left it a rather moot question whether they've been in the business for profit—or just for fun—this season.

Nevertheless, they're in unanimous agreement that they'll all be at it again next year. It seems that the gamble of turkey-raising gets in the blood, and once infected with the virus a person just has to keep at it—to see what will happen next

Eide Biggest Producer

Biggest producer in these parts this year was Helge Eide of Belmond route two, who raised 10,700 birds compared to only 8,000 in '53. He had 10,000 of the traditional Broad-breasted Bronze variety and 700 Beltville Whites. He figures to enjoy a net on his birds, alright, but the nickel per pound that's off the price as compared to last year doesn't help matters any.

Everett Anderson boosted his total from 8,300 a year ago to 8,500 this year—6,500 Bronze and 2,000 Whites. He says that, in general, his birds this year were the best he's raised yet; although his mortality ran a bit higher than in '53.

Some Weighed Lighter

Alice Hedges raised 500 more than last year's 3,000. She had 3,000 Bronze and 500 Whites. Besides the squeeze produced by the lower price and higher feed cost, she reports that she had trouble getting the turkeys up to the weight average of '53. They ran about a half pound less on the average—which a little quick arithmatic indicates would add up to roughly 1,750 pounds of turkey meat.

Emma Christie says she had the same experience as Alice in finding her birds running a bit lighter in weight. After reducing her crop from 1,500 in '52 down to 850 last year, she boosted the total up to 1,600 this season—1,200 Broadbreasts and 400 Whites.

Then There's Fertilizer

Everett Anderson, in reviewing the hazards that threaten the turkey farmer, says there's one item that shouldn't be disregarded when figuring the year's profit. He refers to the fertilizer that is a byproduct of turkey production. One field on which he had birds pastured a year ago produced a nice 90 bushels of corn to the acre this fall. And that ain't hay!

Newspaper Sends Six to Regional Auxiliary Parley

Six women of the Belmond community were sponsored by The Independent as a delegation to the regional meeting of Iowa Hospital Auxiliaries that was held Wednesday of last week at Waterloo. It was regarded by this newspaper that the convention offered an ideal opportunity to acquaint at least a handful of community representatives with the functions and problems of a hospital auxiliary.

Tentative plans are already being formulated for launching of a Belmond Community Hospital Auxiliary some time after the first of the year. In the meantime, those women who found it possible to attend the Waterloo meeting will acquaint various groups with which they are affiliated with such information as they gathered at the convention.

Accompanying Stuart Kutz, the Belmond hospital's administrator, and Mrs. Kutz to the regional meeting were the following: Mrs. Cleon Brady, Mrs. R. H. Gowdy, Mrs. Harold Johnson, Mrs. Donald Markham, Henrietta Pals and Mrs. A. T. Rollene. Transportation was provided by Mr. Kutz and Miss Pals. The group enjoyed breakfast together at the hospital before leaving for Waterloo.

Sessions of the auxiliary association extended from 9:00 a. m. to 3:30 p. m., with time out for a noon luncheon at the dining room of the Russell Lamson hotel, where the gathering was held. Mr. and Mrs. Kutz stayed over in the evening for a session of the Iowa Hospital association regional convention, held concurrently with the auxiliary meeting.

Eccles' Sons Home For Brief Reunion

Veterans' Day was rather a misnomer at the Glen Eccles home last week as both of the Eccles' sons who are in active service with the Air Force were home to visit. It was the first time the boys, S/Sgt. Edward Eccles and Sgt. Stanley Eccles, had each seen other in 3½ years.

Each was accompanied by his wife and new baby. It was the grandparents' first opportunity to make the acquaintances of Stanley's little daughter, though they'd briefly seen the Edward Eccles' little son a short time back on a quick trip to Lincoln (Neb.) Air Force Base.

Edward and family returned to Lincoln on Sunday evening and Stanley and his family on Wednesday morning returned to Bellville, Ill., where he is stationed at Scott AFB.

JUST 'ONE BEER' RAISES DICKENS

What complications "one glass of beer" can cause was dramatically demonstrated the early part of this month at Dows. One result was that Anna Margaret Rout, 71-year-old housewife of that community, was bound over to the grand jury on Tuesday of last week on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

She was heard in the court of Mayor Henry Jenkins at Clarion after a car she was driving plunged through the front end of Elliott's barber shop at Dows, knocking out a portion of brick wall and smashing a 48x58-inch plate glass window. The defendant declared she'd had "only one beer;" but a blood test to which she submitted showed a 2.2 alchohol count, compared to the 1.5 which is or ordinarily regarded to indicate intoxication.

According to the sheriff's office, Mrs. Rout and a 68-year-old feminine companion were in the Rout car as it pulled away from a curb. It's front bumper caught the rear bumper of an adjacent car, and Mrs. Rout threw the gears into "low" to get unhooked. Presto! Dows had its first "drive-in" barbershop.

After conducting her preliminary hearing, Mayor Jenkins set the defendant's appearance bond at $500. The amount was posted.

Wife Obtains 2nd Divorce from Bell

On Monday of this week in Wright county district court, Constance Bell of Clarion was granted a divorce from Sam Bell on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment. It was the second time that the couple had been divorced.

The Bells were first married on June 13, 1930. They were divorced for the first time on Aug. 29, 1933. After an intervening marriage on the part of Mrs. Bell, and a subsequent divorce, the Bells were again wed on Jan. 31, 1941. They separated for the second time on June 20 of this year.

No settlement was involved in the case. Two children born of their initial marriage are both now of legal age. Mrs. Bell asked the court only to allow her continued possession of the household goods and her own personal belongings and clothing.

THANKSGIVING SERVICE

A joint Thanksgiving service will be held Wednesday evening of next week at the Congregational church, with the congregations of that church and the Methodist uniting in the service. The general public, also, is cordially invited to participate. The service will be held at 7:30 p. m.

Rev. A. T. Rollene announces that the Baptist church will have as guest speaker for its service this Sunday night at 8:00 o'clock, Rev. M. C. Ehlert of Edinburgh, Tex. He is president of the Rio Grande Bible Institute. He has made previous speaking appearances here and is known by a number of Belmond people.

Skid marks 99 feet in length left evidence of the unsuccessful effort made to avoid an auto accident 2½ miles northwest of Dows that Wednesday afternoon of last week took the life of Elmer C. Kraft, 52, Dows carpenter.

Eldon W. Loux of Dows was the driver and owner of the car which crashed through the left-hand, wooden railing on what is known as Vanderlip bridge, turned over and pinned Kraft beneath 2½ to 3 feet of Iowa river water.

Dr. Robert Eaton of Clarion, acting coroner, reported after investigating the cause of Kraft's death that he believed it resulted from a broken neck rather than drowning. Two other physicians corroborated this opinion.

Loux and Kraft were returning to Dows from Clarion when the accident occurred, accompanied by Payton Allie, also of Dows. Loux was uninjured. Allie suffered only a minor head injury.

Sheriff Bob Blecker says that he was told by Loux that the car was traveling at a speed of only 35 miles an hour when he lost control of it and it plummeted over the bridge side.

DES MOINES GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ruka of Des Moines were weekend guests in the Don Braner home.

TOUGH DAY ON THE CASH KITTY!

Money tumbled like the falling, autumn leaves Tuesday afternoon and three Cash Gift Day winners raked in nice piles of the green stuff. Such nice piles that the CGD committee is having to retrench a bit next week to give its funds time to draw a little interest. Mrs. Merle Obrecht had just shortly before climbed out of the dentist's chair and was dismally wondering how she'd pay the bill. Then she came down to The Independent office and picked up $100. That took care of THAT problem, with some to spare! Mrs. Nels Faaborg of Meservey and Mrs. Don Stoffer each walked out with $25. Altogether, $200 in Cash Gifts were up for draw at 2:00 p. m.; and $50 was left at 3:05. So . . . next week it will be a couple of 25's at 2:00 o'clock and $100 at 3:00.

D. Sandage Enters Partnership With Clarion Hotel Man

Formation of a business partnership by Duane Sandage and Al Saylor, both of Clarion, is announced in this issue. They will conduct a combination real estate, insurance and farm management agency with offices in the Moore hotel at Clarion.

Mr. Sandage is well known to many Belmond people, having been vocational agriculture instructor at Belmond High school 1949-51. He served in a similar capacity at Iowa Falls High from the fall of 1951 until January of this year, when he resigned to accept a position with McNeal Grain company of Clarion.

With his background of practical farming and teaching experience, Mr. Sandage should be well qualified for the responsibilities imposed by the new business venture. He qualified for a state broker's license at Des Moines last Saturday.

His partner, Mr. Saylor, has been lessee and manager of the Moore hotel for the past 10 years. During the last year he has conducted a real estate and insurance business, in addition to looking after the hotel.

4-H Award Nite Monday Evening

Annual Award Nite of Wright county's farm project 4-H clubs will be held Monday evening of next week at the Clarion IOOF hall. Outstanding club members in the field of livestock production will be given recognition at this event and winners of 4-H crop and community service honors.

4-H farm project club members who have won trips to this year's International Livestock Exposition at Chicago will be announced Monday, together with the names of business firms that are sponsoring their trips.

It is at Award Nite that the county's farm project club officers are elected and the 1955 officers will be installed as a feature of the evening's program.

A major highlight of Award Nite will be an illustrated talk by Clarence Westfall of Manning on big game hunting in Africa. He will show colored slides taken during a recent hunting trek. The talk on his trip is enlivened by the relating of a number of amusing incidents that added interest to the experience.

Homer Lyons, chairman of the county 4-H farm project committee, urges all farm project 4-H'ers, their parents and friends to attend Award Nite. Anyone interested in the welfare of the Wright county 4-H movement is welcome, also. The county committee and the extension service sponsor Award Nite.

Trustees of Veterans' Memorial Hall See Solution To Financial Difficulties in Prompt Offers of Aid

What was regarded by the board of trustees of the Veterans' Memorial corporation as a highly gratifying response greeted the disclosure made last week that finances of the Veterans' Memorial hall are in serious straits. More than 40 members of the Belmond posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars turned out for the emergency meeting held Monday evening at the hall to seek a solution to the problem.

Following the meeting, Jack Lobdell, president of the board, expressed confidence that the difficulties would be sucessfully ironed out if the spirit shown Monday night is maintained. A total of $250 in contributions was immediately forthcoming from those who attended the meeting and a plan was mapped out for obtaining the balance of the $1,000 needed to get the hall's outstanding obligations paid up.

One Donation of $50

One gift of $50 was received, one of $25, one of $20, three of $10 and 25 Vets and Legionnaires tossed $5 apiece in the kitty. It was unanimously voted by the veterans present that a $5 assessment should be levied on all members of the VFW and Legion posts towards making up the deficit.

It was further suggested by several non-veteran, social members of the Vet's club that all business and professional men of the community be contacted for contributions toward the cause. They pointed out that no carnival was held by the veterans organizations this past summer, in deference to the wishes of Belmond businessmen.

Solicitors Named

Many merchants and professional men had expressed a preference for making a direct donation to the VFW and Legion rather than financially supporting a carnival and at the same time sacrificing business volume due to its presence on or near Main street.

Their wishes in the matter having been observed, the Veterans' Memorial board is confident that local businessmen will show their appreciation by helping the veteran groups safeguard their equity in the Veterans' hall. A team of solicitors has been drawn up to contact all business places within the next few days. Named to conduct the canvass are: George Baxter, Ted Volding, Bob Churchouse, Pat Gallagher, Ed Kennedy, Ron Courson, Fred Fulton, Bill Dempsey, Ed Albers, John Robertson, Joe McLaughlin and Keith Chandler.

One Assessment Only

Mr. Lobdell says that, once helped "out of the hole," he is sure the Veterans' Memorial corporation will succeed in keeping solvent. Some sources of income that had been depended upon to provide funds toward payments on the hall this year failed to pan out, giving rise to the corporation's present financial embarrassment. Since then, new income sources have been developed and several others are being studied.

"If response to the present emergency campaign for sufficient funds to get even comes up to expectations," the board president says, "there is no reason why any further assessments should be required. We definitely look upon this step as a one-time, emergency measure—not as a precedent.

"The board members, and all who are interested in the hall as a community gathering place, can take much satisfaction in the prompt response our cry for help has brought. The trustees feel sure that the end of the year will find the corporation solvent and in a good position to stay that way."

Honey of A Job Utterly Spoiled By "Evidence" of Bee-Stung Eye

Because of a bee-stung eye, a 37-year-old tenant farmer of the Dows vicinity was in custody in the county jail at Clarion this week charged with larceny in the nighttime and possession of stolen property. Not having been able to post the $1,000 bond set on each count, Earl E. Frock is "sitting it out" awaiting hearing in district court.

His incarceration grew out of the theft of 500 pounds of honey from hives that Carl Soder of Stratford has located on a farm seven miles south of Dows. Late in October, the owner of the farm where the hives are situated noticed someone had been tampering with them and so informed Mr. Soder.

Theft of the honey was subsequently discovered and Sheriff Bob Blecker set forth on an investigation. In its course, he happened on an acquaintance of Frock's who said the latter had recently had a swollen eye, which he attributed to a bee sting. The farmer's self-confessed guilt was shortly thereafter established Frock was placed under arrest last Friday and on the same day he was given preliminary hearing in the court of Mayor Henry Jenkins at Clarion. He implicated two accomplices, whose identities the sheriff's office has not released, pending their apprehension.

Current Receipts Of Rural Chest Up Over $9,000

With Boone township yet to be accounted for, quite a number of pledges still to be turned in and some individuals yet to be contacted, the first campaign of the Wright County Rural Community Chest last week had brought in contributions in excess of $9,000. Goal of the drive, which was launched Oct. 25, is $13,350. The co-chairmen of the drive, Harold Yanney of Renwick and Mrs. Bernard Collins of Clarion, expressed optimism that the figure would still be reached by the time all returns are finally in.

At a meeting of Chest officials held Monday of last week at the home of Secretary-Treasurer Dick Poundstone near Clarion, it was announced that Lincoln township and the towns of Galt and Rowan all exceeded their quotas by comfortable margins. Confidence was expressed that the people in other parts of the county are just as eager to see the Chest succeed as those residing in the first-done areas.

Workers Congratulated

Congratulations went to the workers in the three districts which so promptly attained their quotas and an enthusiastic "thank you" to all who gave generously to put the drive over.

Mrs. Glen Wilson of Eagle Grove, the Chest's publicity chairman, says, "It seems too good to be true, that we will not be asked to give to any of these Red Feather agencies again until October of next year. More than that, it is very unlikely that any other agencies will be soliciting in rural Wright county during the intervening time, because it will prove very difficult to get workers to go out on any further organized drives.

Watch for Imposters

"In case you should be solicited by any person pretending to be a representative of one of the affiliated agencies, you can know that you are dealing with an imposter. All the Chest agencies have agreed that they will ask no further funds from rural Wright county during '55, once their appropriation request has been filled. You have your answer to any further solicitors in the statement, I gave to the Community Chest'."

Mrs. Wilson pointed out that all affiliated agencies will have the opportunity to say next fall, when time arrives to set up the '56 budget, to withdraw from the Chest group or express willingness to join with the Chest for another year.

Who'll Win 'em?

What do you know! Free meat for the Thanksgiving table! That's what the Belmond Chamber of Commerce is going to provide for 25 persons on FREE Poultry Day this Saturday. There'll be 10 turkeys and 15 capons. For details, see C-of-C ad on Page 9.

Muscular Dystrophy Fund Campaign Planned Here

Within a period of the next week or so, Belmond residents will be given the opportunity of making a Thanksgiving gesture of gratitude for good health—by making a contribution toward the national drive for Muscular Dystrophy.

J. C. Brady is chairman of the local drive, which is a phase of a nationwide campaign being conducted by the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America. Belmond letter-carriers, firemen and several Explorer Scouts will serve as volunteer collectors.

Mr. Brady explains that proceeds of the national drive will mean accelerated research to find a cure for this incurable, progressively crippling disease. Muscular Dystrophy is non-contagious; it can attack anyone at any time, without warning. It is the more tragic in that a large majority of its victims are children.

No treatment or cure for the disease is known, says Mr. Brady. Medical research holds the only hope for its victims—present and potential. It was to the end of speeding up research that the MDAA was formed in 1950 by parents of juvenile victims of the disease, for raising money on a nationwide scale.

Numerically, the national total of persons suffering from Muscular Dystrophy is relatively small. There are but 200,000 in the nation—only 48 in Iowa. But two victims live right in Belmond; and their friends are only too aware of the tragedy that the disease incurs as it runs its course.

Mr. Brady says, "Your contributions can help halt this killer. In the near future, Belmond's mail carriers will place in all the town's mail boxes an envelope holding information about the MDAA campaign, and a second envelope in which donations can be placed.

"On the evening of the day these envelopes make their appearance, our postmen, firemen and the Explorer Scouts will canvass the community to pick up the contributions. If you wish, you may simply place the envelope containing your donation back in the mail box and it will be collected. Or if you prefer, the solicitor will knock on your door to receive what you wish to give.

"Thanksgiving time is an ideal occasion for opening our hearts and our pocketbooks in behalf of the unfortunate sufferes from Muscular Dystrophy."

Christie Injured; Thrown by Horse

Ralph Christie suffered serious injury on Thursday of last week when a horse he was riding at his farm bucked him off. Mr. Christie sustained a pelvis separation. He was riding out to a pasture to get another horse for the use of a friend when the mishap occurred.

He was brought to Belmond Community hospital, where it is reported he is making a satisfactory recovery. His injury was one that is long in healing, however, and Mr. Christie will likely be hospitalized for a period of six or seven weeks.

Rodemeyer Links Job With Studies

Robert Rodemeyer, a former Belmond resident who is now a student in the junior class at Michigan State college, Lansing, Mich., is enjoying an unusual opportunity this year to combine practical experience with his course of study.

He is taking a course in police administration and is supplementing his classwork as an employee of the Michigan State Boys' Vocational school, dealing with boys of age 10 to 18. His work closely correlates with his schooling, as he is assigned to the school's receiving department.

Here the incoming boys are analyzed to determine why and how they became delinquent. The receiving department also helps outline the treatment and guidance needed by the individual boys to overcome their difficulties.

Robert is a member of Alpha Phi Sigma fraternity and was recently elected the society's program chairman.

MRS. SHURSON DIES

$51,000 Suit Filed Tuesday as Result Of Highway Crash

Suit was filed in Wright county district court on Tuesday of this week by Homer E. Cies of Boone naming Luther K. Johnson of Belmond, executor of his late father's estate, as defendant in a petition for judgment of $51,707.57. The plaintiff was severely injured in the accident on Highway 69 just north of town on Oct. 15 that claimed the life of George C. Johnson.

It is charged in the petition that negligence on the part of Mr. Johnson was "the proximate cause of the accident." Mr. Cies was hospitalized by the mishap, being a patient at the Belmond Community hospital until Nov. 2, at which time he was transferred to the Boone County hospital at Boone.

Injuries Listed

His injuries were listed as including: a brain concussion, severe laceration over his left eye and on two fingers of his right hand, compound fracture of both bones in his lower right leg in two places, two fractured ribs. The petition declared that as of Monday of this week, the plaintiff "is lucid only for short intervals" due to brain injury, the full extent of which is not yet known.

Costs to the plaintiff to date on account of the accident were said to include: hospital and medical expenses at Belmond amounting to $548.57; '50 Plymouth sedan valued at $1,000, made total loss except for $15 salvage value; treatment and care of Cies' hunting dog, $14; shotgun damaged, $40; glasses broken, $40; clothing and hunting gear destroyed, $74.

Jury Trial Requested

Extensive additional expense for medical care and hospital treatment is still faced by the plaintiff, the petition states. It adds that Mr. Cies was employed by the Percival Refrigerator company of Boone at a monthly salary of $458, plus annual bonus.

Hearing of the case by jury is requested.

Broncs First Tilt At Home, Tuesday

The sports editor not having fully converted from football to basketball coverage, no mention is made on the sports page of the Bronco's first home game of the season. It will be with Eagle Grove and a froshmore curtain-raiser at 7:00 p. m. will precede the varsity fray, next Tuesday.

Coach Wally Hanson will have eight Eagle letter-winners back from his 1953-54 varsity squad and Eagle Grove fans are looking forward to a good season. This will be the visitors' opening game, giving the Broncs the advantage of two previous starts—at the NIC Jamboree and at Hampton, Friday night.

Pilot-Husband of Belmond Girl Given Spot Promotion for Long, Bomber Hop

A "spot promotion" from the rank of 1st Lieutenant to that of Captain was the reward received lately by Richard H. Frank for his part in a historic 5,300-mile nonstop flight of the Strategic Air Command's famed 92nd Bomb Wing from Spokane, Wash., to Guam.

Capt. Frank is the husband of the former Cleo Trees. His wife is currently visiting in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Trees, with her two youngsters, Bruce and Greg. The boys are age 3½ and 1½ years, respectively.

1st Pilot on B-36

There are three pilots assigned to each of the mammoth bombers. Captain Frank's promotion came as recognition of his "outstanding performance and ability."

LET'S SHOW GARNER HOW TO GO ABOUT GETTING A SWIMMING POOL, SHALL WE?

Whoever said that competition is the spice of life uttered a king-size mouthful. Competition often gets things done when all other inspirations fail. That's why we'd like to propose a bit of friendly competition with our good neighbor to the north, Garner, in which BOTH Belmond and the Hancock county seat would turn out to be winners.

Last weekend we had opportunity to ask the editor of the Garner Leader how his community's campaign to build a swimming pool was coming. "Nothing stirring," he replied. After a flurry of interest when the project was first proposed and investigated, activity along that line has died down and the prospect of Garner getting its pool is vague, indeed.

Now, we've got a lot of respect for Garner. We think it's a fine town inhabited by fine people. 'BUT . . . we also believe that Belmond can give those Garner folks aces and spades and STILL beat 'em at getting things done. If Garner needs a swimming pool, it needs it just as much this coming summer as it will two, three or five years hence. Frankly, though, we DON'T think they'll have a pool up there next summer. When they WILL, we wouldn't venture to guess.

On the other hand, if the backers of the Belmond pool decide they want it available for use during the summer of '55, we wouldn't bet a plugged nickel that they'd fail to get the job done. We've seen that typical, Belmond "community spirit" in action too often.

We'd suggest that the Lions club, as originators of the idea, and the Chamber of Commerce Civic Bureau, as logical co-sponsors of the project, get together AT ONCE to draft a specific campaign—and a time schedule. They should, by all means, confer with the City Fathers, too; since the undertaking looks like one that should logically be a combined civic-municipal proposition.

When Louis Tokman made that generous gift of $1,000 to the swimming pool fund last week, he expressed the same confidence in Belmond's civic spirit that we feel. Yes, Louie certainly lit the fuse! Now it's up to the rest of us to fan it with our hats —not stomp it out.

Our Broncs weren't supposed to whip that fine, Cardinal football team a couple of weeks ago. But they did it. We got started several months behind Garner on the swimming pool idea. But THAT doesn't signify, either. We NEED that pool; there's no debate over that. And if we WANT it badly enough, we'll have it—next summer. It would be kinda nice to invite all Garner down for a swim some day, wouldn't it? Just to show 'em how we get things done?

SO NOW McCARTHY SPENDS OUR MONEY TO TELL US WHAT A GREAT GUY HE IS

We find that forgetting Joe McCarthy is much like forgetting you have a toothache. You can try pretending it isn't there, in hopes it will go away. But each time it gives you a prod, you know it IS. We've simply quit (in disgust) reading about the McCarthy censure action. So what happens? We get a great, big sheaf of reproduced clippings from the Daily Worker, shipped straight from Marse Joe's senatorial office at government expense (meaning at YOUR expense, and MY expense), and we're mad all over again.

Just because the Commie blat-sheet cries, "Throw the bum out!", Joe infers he MUST be a very patriotic fellow—Uncle Sam himself, with five-o'clock shadow instead of a beard. We'll grant that there is a wide variety of motives for disliking the Wisconsin demagogue and that they have created some rather strange bedfellows.

We think McCarthy would have done well to have censored his Daily Worker clippings a bit better than he did; for we find in them a number of "quotes," of which the following are typical:

"The Wisconsin Senator has succeeded in creating a situation in which anyone who doesn't like him, anyone who doesn't say what Mr. McCarthy wants him to say, anyone who is even mildly liberal, one might almost say anyone who is normally intelligent and can read, is under suspicion."—N. Y. Times.

"McCarthyism is the corruption of truth, the abandonment of our historical devotion to fair play. It is abandonment of the due process of law. It is the use of the big lie and the unfounded accusation against any citizen in the name of Americanism or security. It is the rise to power of the demagogue who lives on untruth; it is the spread of fear and the destructionn of faith in every level of our society."—Ex-President H. S. Truman.

Because the opnions of one the nation's greatest newspaper and a leader of our country happen to suit the distorted purposes of the Communist line doesn't reduce OUR respect for those opinions. But our point is, we'd certainly thank the lantern-jawed rabble-rouser NOT to spend OUR money telling us what a fine guy he must be, because the Reds hate him, TOO. What we should do is send him a telegram—collect—containing our frank opinion. The text could be extremely brief. . . . "PHOOEY!"

Committee Formed Here to Study Effect of Comics, Radio, TV Programs, Movies on Juvenile Delinquency

A community-wide effort to combat the detrimental effect of certain media of entertainment and information upon the school-age child was launched Thursday evening of last week at a meeting conducted at the school hot-lunch room. Fourteen women's organizations are currently participating in the study and the affiliation of still more groups is being solicited.

Mrs. S. P. Leinbach is chairman of the study committee and its secretary is Mrs. Merle Bonte. Undesirable "comic" books are a primary target of the organization, but radio and television programs and moving pictures that deal with subject matter unfit for juvenile consumption will also come in for attention.

Bad Influences Blamed

It is the opinion of the study committee members that there is a strong link between the influence of these media of entertainment and information, and the steady rise in juvenile delinquency. What can be done on the local level to limit this unfortunate influence will be the main concern of the committee.

According to Mrs. Leinbach, last week's meeting was inspired by a recent decision of Belmond's two federated clubs—the Progress and Culture Study—to become better informed on a Federation resolution on mass media and their effect on a community, combined with an October PTA meeting that considered good and bad reading for children.

Mrs. Mennenga Gave Talk

Highlight of the PTA meeting was a talk by Mrs. Al Mennenga that dealt with the unhealthy type of comic book that is so widely distributed today. Her talk was based on the book, "Seduction of the Innocent," in which Dr. Wertham presents an impressive brief against the various types of crime 'comics.' She supplemented her remarks with some statistics regarding local sales of such printed matter.

It was suggested by Mrs. Leinbach at the conclusion of the Ramsay Elementary Parent-Teachers meeting that the problem be studied by a local group formed for that purpose. Last week's meeting was the direct outgrowth of that proposal. Organizations represented at that meeting included those listed below.

Participating Groups

Belmond Parent-Teachers association, the Progress, Culture Study and Home Study clubs, League of Women Voters, Ladies Aid of the Fundamental Baptist church, WSCS of the Methodist church, Congregational Women's Fellowship, Catholic Daughters of America, Trinity Lutheran Mission Guild and Ladies Aid, St. John Ladies Aid, Bethany Reformed Ladies Aid, St. Olaf Lutheran Ladies Aid and American Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Mennenga summarized the remarks she had presented earlier before the PTA. Salient points included the facts that: (1) of 90 million comic books published monthly in the U. S., only approximately 10 per cent are classified as acceptable, juvenile reading; (2) crime comics, which in 1946 represented only one-tenth of the total, today constitute a vast majority of the total output—dwelling mainly on such subject matter as murder, torture, violence, brutality, lust and sex.

Sales Here Run High

(3) Crime comics have been found to have a definite influence on juvenile delinquency and in creating delinquency among younger children in the form of serious crimes of violence; delinquency has risen 20 per cent since 1947; (4) comic books bear the blame for the reading troubles of many children, in that they interfere with reading readiness and progress and cause numerous kinds of reading disorders.

Investigation into the sale of comics locally revealed that volume has soared as high as 3,000 per month, Mrs. Mennenga reported; this would represent annual sales in the amount of $3,600. She added, though, that in recent weeks the sale of undesirable comics has diminished appreciably.

Distributors Cooperative

She told the meeting that Belmond distributors of comic books have expressed a complete willingness to cooperate with any movement toward making reading matter of this type unavailable They explained that these lurid comics have been placed on their magazine agencies, unasked for; and that in recent weeks they have censored, to a considerable extent, their shipments before selected comics have been placed in their racks.

Also, various articles and authorities were quoted and discussed at last Thursday's meeting, regarding factors contributing to the rise in juvenile delinquency. Among the possible approaches to the problem that received consideration were:

Contacting comic book publishers and major radio and television chains to voice disapproval of the harmful types of entertainment being made available to children; investigating a legislative approach to the problem; and making available to Belmond parents and children a comic book rating list.

Committees Appointed

Several committees were appointed and given assignments to look into specific control measures that have proved effective, at least to some extent, in other communities and states.

A second meeting of the sutdy committee has been scheduled for the evening of Nov. 22. It will be open to any and all persons of the community having an interest in the problem. Other organizations not represented at the initial meeting are particularly urged to have members sit in on the second gathering.

Mrs. Leinbach states, "We feel that we have the backing and the interest of the community and sincerely hope that our group's recommendations may lead to at least to greater discrimination on the part of our parents and youth in the selection of comic books, movies and radio and television." programs.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Gardner E. Campbell, Wakefield (Mass.) Daily Item, Opines A Good Reporter Never Writes on Assumption

In an earlier day, when the local editor wrote up about every thing in town, even including weddings, nice things were said about the bride's looks and personality, her duds and social connections.

The bridegroom got the usual brush off by being mentioned as present.

When there was any crime news, no care was taken to ascribe the charges to the police or witnesses. It was assumed that the man arrested did the job, and if his reputation had been unsavory, the editor said so.

He could spell "alleged," but found the word superfluous.

We sometimes feel tempted to try our hand again at writing up a wedding, but after having read the crime and accident news in the item and other papers over the years we fear the wedding story would come up something like this:

Miss Susie Smithers, said to be the daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Samuel Smithers, whose father is reputed to be prominent in public life, became the bride on Sunday of Joshua Jeremiah Pecksniff, son of the late Joshua J. Pecksniff of the neighboring village of East Burlap, whose father is said to have passed away in peculiar circumstances years ago.

The ceremony, the town clerk's records show, took place at 3 p.m., Sunday, the actual marriage vows having been pronounced by the couple at approximately 3:10 p.m.

The pastor of the Church of the Unredeemed, the Rev. ________, is authority for the statement that the couple answered correctly the interrogations put to them in accordance with the marriage ritual, and that they now are legally man and wife.

The bride was regally gowned in a wedding dress claimed to have been fashioned from genuine pre war silk.

oOo

In the opinion of many of her close associates, she is considered charming and so appeared during the ceremony, it is said.

The bridegroom wore the conventional black, a suit said to have been handed down from some of his ancestors who reputedly were prominent in the early history of the town, although a hasty scanning of the municipal records fails to reveal the presence of any of the family name who contributed to the development of our fair municipality.

This contention may be the subject of further inquiry if the couple decide to settle here.

The bride carried a bouquet identified by members of the Garden club as stephanotis, and some kind of green stuff, the nature of which is in dispute.

oOo

A description of the costumes and flowers of the maid of honor and bridesmaids were not immediately obtainable by the press, and the attendants could not be contacted during the ceremony. This will be the subject of further inquiry.

Mr. and Mrs. Pecksniff left under the cover of darkness for an undisclosed destination.

Members of the family are quoted as saying that they were desirous of avoiding undue publicity and embarrassment during the honeymoon period.

The couple who, according to statements of members of the respective families and intimate acquaintances, are "very happy," were the recipients of a large variety of valuable and useful wedding gifts, including linen from the Statler, Kenmore and Bellevue hotels, the Pullman co. and American Airlines.

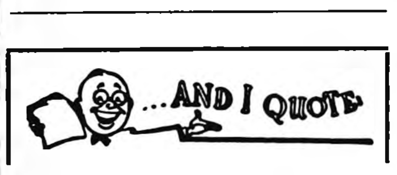
The Old Timer

"Very often the chip on somebody's shoulder is just bark!"



A friend with a daughter in college states sadly, "The P.S. you find in a woman's letter is like the small print in a contract. It pays to read it. That's how I learned I'd just bought Sis a new fall suit."

It's the observation of a local matron that people who say they hope they aren't intruding usually are.

"You're an old-timer," opines a Main street businessman, "if you can remember when it was the help, not the boss, who worked the 12-hour day."

The family magazine "Grit" declares: "The trouble with a great many of us is that in trying times we stop trying."

In the opinion of one understanding clergyman, "The other fellow's sins, like his car lights, always appear more glaring than our own."

An elderly acquaintance of ours says, "An open mind is fine—if a man exercises a little judgment as to what he shovels into it."

A clerk in a local ladies wear store divulges that "Many women suffer discomfort because they buy shoes to fit the occasion instead of their feet."

One friend of ours, who operates in another tax bracket than we do, insists the income tax should more properly be called "Capital Punishment."

"It's amazing," opined an old gaffer while he chalked up his cue, "that there is so much trouble left in the world when so many people are looking for it.

Says a Belmond lady whose enthusiasm for fishing exceeds her skill: "The line of least resistance seems always to be the one I'm fishing with."

SEE YOUR FAVORITE APPLIANCE DEALER

"What Better Time to Buy That New Clothes Dryer?" Nine Dealers Ask

Nine appliance dealers in Belmond and vicinity are availthemselves of the current opportunity offered by National Clothes Dryer month to tell readers of The Independent in today's issue that "the good life" simply isn't being lived in their homes if said home is not equipped with one of these latter-day, labor-saving devices.

They put up a mighty good argument for the dryer. They are unanimous in their opinion that no home should be without a dryer any more than a mother. They also broadly infer that Mother will be a lot easier to get along with if she doesn't have to wrestle heavy wet laundry onto a clothesline in freezing temperature all winter long.

About the only point of disagreement seems to lie in the fact that EACH of the clothes dryers advertised is BEST. But we might suggest that any of them fill the bill in good style and relieve Mrs. Housewife of many of the unpleasantest chores involved in keeping her family looking clean and tidy.

Ladies who have owned dryers for some time are increasingly enthusiastic over the attributes of this household helper, the longer they've had one. Such things as the wear and tear saved on clothes that aren't left at the questionable mercy of that brisk, northwest wind are obvious. Also the saving in labor by having clothes dampened JUST right when they come out of the dryer, the easier ironing that results and the convenience of being able to disregard what the weather's like on wash day.

But some of the "senior owners" in length of time have discovered merits possessed by their dryers that many new owners don't dream that their helper can offer. The variety of fabrics that the dryer will handle safely is virtually endless.

And there are even some articles of clothing that have always been regarded as safely cleaned only by a dry cleaner that the dryer—properly handled—enables a housewife to do for herself.

It will have to be granted that the time of National Clothes Dryer Month was craftily chosen. Right now, with winter weather lurking nearby, is certainly the time to make that long-contemplated purchase of a gleaming, handy new dryer. And if the budget hollers too loud, a goodly portion of the purchase price can do double duty under the heading "Christmas present for the wife."

● OBITUARY

HATTIE MAY WEATHERLY

Hattie May Weatherly was born in Burlington on Jan 6, 1871. Not long afterward she moved with her parents to Pella, where she lived until 12 years of age, when the family moved to Miller, S. D. In 1895 she was married to David Brook Banning and they made their home at Rochelle, Ill.

Five children were born to them: Robert Brook, Marie Margaret, David Glen—who died in infancy, David George and Carl Fairbank. The Bannings moved to a farm near Union, Ia., in 1901, and from there to a farm near Rock Rapids in 1907. Mr Banning passed away Oct. 21, 1910. After one more year on the farm, Mrs. Banning moved with her family into Rock Rapids.

In 1918 she was married to George Weatherly of that city. The following fall they moved to Nevis, Minn. to make their home. Mrs Weatherly moved to Belmond in 1951 and lived here until her death Nov. 1, 1954, at the age of 83 years, nine months, and 25 days. She was preceded in death by her husband, George W. Weatherly, and three other children in addition to the infant son: David George, Carl Fairbank and Marie Margaret. She is survived by one son, Robert B. Banning, three grandsons, and seven great grandchildren.

Mrs Weatherly had been a member of the Church of Christ since 1907. Funeral services were held in the Church of Christ at Rock Rapids on Nov 3. Rev. George Swan of Rock Rapids had charge of the services. He was assisted by Rev B. A. Rust of Britt and Rev Paul Rust of Holmes. Burial was in Riverview cemetery, Rock Rapids.

MRS. EMMA LUDTKE

Emma Ludtke, nee Thom, was born June 11, 1865, near Koslin, Germany. In her infancy she was baptized in the Lutheran faith and later duly instructed and confirmed in the church. She emigrated to America at the age of 18, making her home first in Milwaukee, Wis., then moving to LaPorte City, Ia., where she was wed to Louis Ludtke.

They farmed near Hampton, later near Meservey and still later operated a farm near Belmond. After the death of her husband in 1920, Mrs. Ludtke made her home in Belmond. She had resided here for 34 years when, on the morning of Nov 5 at the home of her daughter, Mrs George Heginger, she passed away at the age of 89 years, four months and 24 days.

She is survived by five daughters: Mrs Heginger and Mrs Emma Friesleben of Belmond, Mrs. Marie Brown and Mrs Leona Frost of Chicago, and Mrs. Meta Nuehring of Clarion; also two grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, Nov. 7, at St John's Lutheran church. Rev. R Huck of Sheffield officiated and Fulton Funeral Home was in charge. Interment was in the Belmond cemetery, pallbearers being Otto Hanson, Bert Kalkwarf, Wessel Braner, Harold Johnson, William Heginger and Clarence Vestweber.

Johnston Holding Sale on Furniture

Maynard Johnston on Tuesday of this week opened a close-out sale on the fall stock of Johnston Furniture, needing to make room for large orders of new, winter merchandise upon which shipment is due very shortly.

Mr. Johnston says he has really placed sacrifice prices on all items in stock, determined to clear out as much of the present stock as possible. The sale will extend through Saturday of next week.

For the particular convenience of farm families that might find it difficult to get into town during the day, Johnston Furniture will remain open evenings throughout the course of the sale.

Storing Soybeans While Still Wet Risky Business

In spite of the wet weather that hampered harvesting progress, Iowa's 1954 soybean crop stacks up as the largest in history, according to the Iowa Development Commission. Average yield was a record 24.5 bushels per acre, and with a planting of 2,145,000 acres the total production is estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at 54,000,000 bushels.

This total figures 53 per cent greater than the 1953 Iowa production and 48 per cent more than the 10-year average of 35,527,000 bushels. Farmers' satisfaction over their bean yields is tempered, however, by the fact that they still face a critical storage problem because of the high moisture content of the crop.

Rapid Deterioration Risked

County extension and ACP offices, and other headquarters for agricultural information, have received warnings from the National Soybean Crop Improvement Council that for safe, over-winter storage, soybeans should be clean and under 13 per cent moisture. This organization calls attention to a statement by Dr D. G. Carter, University of Illinois agricultural engineer, who declares, "In general, 12 per cent moisture is about the dividing line between safe storage for a year or longer, and serious danger of deterioration.

"Clean soybeans between 13 and 14 per cent can be stored through the winter," Dr Carter says, "but may deteriorate badly if storage time is followed by a spell of warm weather. In research studies conducted by the university, 13 and 14 per cent soybeans became musty and graded 'sample' after 10 months of storage; also germination decreased and fat acidity went up."

Don't Guess on Moisture

"Don't guess the moisture," is the warning of the Soybean Council. Trouble lurks in immature and frosted beans, in those damaged by rain, lodging or late harvest—so get elevator tests of average samples, the Council advises. One load of 15% beans in a bin can cause serious trouble, the Council emphasizes.

It is further stressed that, "Clean beans are essential. Elevators report they frequently must move beans to stop spoilage, even at 12 per cent moisture, if they contain high moisture foreign material such as weeds."

TWIN LAKE GO-GETTERS

A Mothers' Tea was held Nov. 13 at the home of Judy Eliason, 15 members, 11 mothers, three leaders and six guests being present. The club decided to postpone its square dancing party until Nov. 20, at which time each girl is to bring a dozen cookies.

After the business meeting, the leaders took charge and installation of officers was held. Miss Van Wert and her assistant were present and the latter explained the club record books.

Gloria and Rita Hansen have transferred into the club, making 17 members now.

Each of the girls gave her mother a plate, made at the previous meeting.

Feature of the next meeting, to be held Dec. 10 at Marcella Nuehring's home, will be a grab bag.

Visiting around Iowa

Room For Everybody In Iowa

Iowa is famous for its hog production and its amazing corn crop.

But Iowa is also the home of the world's largest cereal plant, fountain pen manufacturer, cellophane plant, and biggest aluminum rolling mill. And in addition to these giants, you'll find prospering industry in just about every Iowa town.

Amazing, isn't it, when you realize that Iowa was almost entirely an agricultural state not too many years ago.

Just goes to prove that there is room for every way of life in Iowa. Among my best friends, there is Joe, who is a farmer, and Bob who works in a factory. I work in an office. And each of us think our own choice of work is best.

Joe prefers milk, Bob likes coffee and I prefer a glass of beer. But our differences, in jobs, tastes, or opinions, don't prevent us from working and living together happily.

Lake Mills Places Four on NIC 1st Team; L. Smith Utility Back

Sports writers of the newspapers in the seven North Iowa conference towns met last Friday night at Forest City to choose the 1954 NIC all-star teams on the strength of recommendations made by coaches and players of the various teams. Belmond came up with one first-team selection in the person of LeRoy Smith and placed two on the second team, Phil Schmitz and Ron Steenblock.

Following the practice of recent years, the scribes picked 13 men to a team, including a utility lineman and utility back in each case. Lake Mills' champion Bulldogs are represented by four players on the first team as is Forest City, Garner by three and Belmond and Buffalo Center by one apiece.

Six Fine Guards

Competition was sharpest for the guard positions, with six players being regarded virtually as standoffs. It was the opinion of the Belmond representative on the selection panel that no guard in the conference held an edge on the Broncos' Phil Schmitz, with the possible exception of Garner's Cornie Van Oort. But by the time the first team choices has been thoroughly debated, Marv Steffensen of Buffalo Center was teamed with the Cardinal star and by a 4-3 vote Louie Larson of Forest City was assigned the utility spot.

Schmitz and Jack Richter of Britt got the second team guard berths, and Dave Stevens of Northwood—also a guard—was placed as utility lineman. There is little question but what the second three could have held their own very competently against the first three, all six players being key men in their respective lines.

Gunderson Outstanding

Steenblock was handicapped in his contention for a first team berth by his absence from two games due to a hand injury. Dave Gunderson of Lake Mills was, without much question, the best wingman in the league this year; but Forest City's Ken Taylor, Steenblock and Northwood's big but Forest City's Ken Tayler, Norris Julson weren't far behind.

Although Belmond fans didn't see much of Garner's Daryle Jass because he was hampered by an injury when the Broncs and Cards played, there was no argument over Jass and Ron Hill, Lake Mills, being the class of this year's NIC tackles. Gary Rapp of Northwood, assigned with Chuck Goll of Garner to second team tackle, was the only sophomore to win all-star laurels.

Dale Bredeson, the Forest City pivot, was a narrow choice over Roger Thompson of Lake Mills for the center job.

Smith Unaimous Choice

Strangely enough, there was no argument over the top, five backs. Quarterback Roger Lande and Don Holst, a break-away artist, were chosen from the champion Bulldog aggregation. Speed and deception were represented by Forest City's Doug Glime and Garner's Doug Maley. LeRoy Smith's pile-driving charges and fine defensive play made him a unanimous choice for the utility assignment.

Two juniors were placed in the second team backfield, Northwood's hard-hitting DuWayne Carnes and Forest City's speedy Tom Bartleson. Garner's twin threats, Perry Hull and Jerry Greiman — whom Belmond held well under control—and competent Dennis Madson of Lake Mills completed the second string backfield.

BC Star Honored

This was the first year since the Independent editor has been with this newspaper that entire conference first team has been comprised of seniors; and if memory serves correctly, never before has so small a number as only three returning gridders placed on the two teams, together.

A special honor was bestowed upon Gary Sleper, first team utility lineman of a year ago. An injury kept Sleper out of competition after the opening game this fall; but he continued a constant inspiration to the Bison throughout the season and his value to the team is recognized with honorable mention. Belmond placed Keith Madsen, Tom Lowenberg and Perry Ersland on the honor roll.

BELMOND BOWLERS FAIL

Although he rolled a fairly respectable 175-pin average for his 12 lines in last weekend's qualifying round of the Iowa Men's Matched Game Bowling tournament at Des Moines' Air Lanes, Eddie Albers failed to rate among the top finishers. Carl Knodle of Boone headed the seven qualifiers with a 197 average on a total of 2,365 pins. Jack Crosby, Bowl-Mor manager, also competed in the annual classic but was able to do no better than 1,814 pins for a 151 average.

Belmond's Cagers Beat Forest City In Jamboree Test

Belmond's Broncos, making their first basketball appearance of the season at the North Iowa conference jamboree at Forest City last Friday night, did nothing to disturb the notion that they'll stack up as favorites to repeat as loop champions.

Playing without Gene Mehl, who was sidelined with a foot infection, the BHS cagers showed a marked superiority over the host Indians in the opening two quarters of play and held a 26-19 advantage at the final whistle. As usual, each pair of teams played the equivalent of a half.

While none of the teams looked particularly impressive, the Broncs exhibited poise and evidence of potential polish that was unmatched by the other aggregations. Garner, with a full bench of competent players, made the next-best showing of the evening in racking Lake Mills 28-15.

South Wins, 93-68

It should by no means be taken for granted that the Broncs will find themselves without opposition during the coming campaign, however. Several of the teams exhibited potentialities and may very possibly develop into tough outfits as the season progresses.

LeRoy Smith and Keith Madsen both showed themselves ready to continue with the same brand of play that won opponents' respect last season. Ron Hansen was perhaps a bit shy on aggressiveness, but "Joe" Smith and Jerry Chandler both showed considerable promise. Coach Dick Hobbs used most of his squad, with Dale Caquelin, Larry Schimp, Tom Lowenberg and Ron Steenblock all seeing action.

Following the pace set by Belmond, the South teams (including also Klemme, Britt and Garner) outscored the North—Forest City, Northwood, Buffalo Center and Lake Mills—93 to 68.

Northwood Disappointing

Northwood, with a big height advantage over the guest Klemme team, proved the major disappointment of the evening. After leading 11-6 at the end of the first quarter, the Vikings bowed to the scrappy Shamrocks 23-18.

Britt and Buffalo Center played to a 16-16 draw. Both the Eagles and Bison have a long way to go, but each showed a lot of fight and by the last half of the season will probably be vastly improved. Both are lacking in height; but Britt, particularly, possesses a lot of speed.

Garner showed the sharpest marksmanship of the evening and with big Daryle Jass at center will prove a rugged adversary for almost any team. Coach Loyal Moore has more competent players than any of the NIC contenders, with the exception of Belmond and possibly Forest City, and the Cardinals will unquestionably be one of the league powers.

Lake Mills has height and aggressiveness and did some fine rebounding. While much weaker at this stage than a year ago, the Bulldogs may be a factor in the title chase before the season is over.

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

Here's the scoop on the new state high school tournament plan that has been recommended to the board of control by the representative council of the Iowa High School Athletic association. Supt. Don Faris is a member from the Central territory on the council and reports that that body made its recommendation from a choice of five proposals, all of which had as their objective a stronger, more representative field of teams in the annual state tournament.

—PSS—

Action on the proposition may have been taken by the board of control before this column reaches print. The council met at Des Moines a week ago Friday to consider the various alternatives. If it's approved by the control board the one selected will probably come in for a lot of pro and con discussion. Some modification might be indicated in subsequent years, but it strikes your scribe that the plan chosen has certain very definite merits.

—PSS—

Iowa's 923 IHSAA schools would be divided into four classes, according to average daily attendance over the past five years. All schools would remain in their own size-category through district play, but all would be thrown together in the sub-state tournaments. Theoretically, 16 of the stronger—if not the STRONGEST—teams in the state would emerge as members of the final, title field.

There would be 64 schools each in Class I and Class II, 283 in Class III and 512 in Class IV. By specific ADA figures, Class I would bracket Davenport (1,780.25) and Waukon (323.48). Class II, into which all but three North Iowa conference schools would fall, would take in Clear Lake (322.46) at the top and Sigourney (183.54) at the bottom.

Buffalo Center, Garner and Northwood would be Class III schools, the top in that division being Eldora (183.2) and the bottom, Clarence (75.77). Class IV would find Churdan (75.68) at the upper limit and Luton (11.94) at the bottom of the list, as Iowa's smallest high school. Only the bottom two classes would engage in sectional tournaments, which would pare both down to fields of 64 teams.

—PSS—

At the outset of district play, there would be 64 teams in each class contending for positions in the sub-state field. When the 64 district tournaments have been completed, there would be 16 surviving teams in each class.

Then would come the sub-state meets — eight of them, with two representatives from each of the four classes vying for the right to go on to the final tourney.

As previously mentioned, classifications would be abandoned in sub-state play — so conceivably, but very improbably, the final tournament COULD bring together eight teams that had ALL started out in the same class.

—PSS—

Under the tournament set-up that has been followed in recent years, some Class B teams have had to engage in almost the equivalent of half a season's schedule of games in order to reach the title field. On the other hand, Class AA teams, in some instances, have gotten to Iowa City by winning only a couple of games. Under the proposed plan, all Class I and II teams would have to meet five opponents to reach the state tournament, and NO Class III or IV team would be obliged to face more than eight adversaries. Perhaps the new plan would eliminate the old complaints only to introduce new ones. But Mr Faris says it struck the 25 members of the representative council as the best possible compromise, at the present time. On the council are 10 spokesmen for the B schools, 10 for the A's and five for the AA's. They should be in a position to offer a good cross-section opinion of what would be satisfactory with MOST of the schools they represent.

Broncos to Open Against Hampton Tomorrow Night

Neither particularly displeased nor pleased over the showing made by his Bronco basketeers at the North Iowa conference jamboree, Coach Dick Hobbs had his BHS cagers bearing down this week in preparation for their opening game at Hampton tomorrow night.

Making due allowance for the fact that the boys had had only five practice sessions prior to their meeting with Forest City last Friday, Hobbs regarded that their ball handling was about as good as could be expected. More aggressiveness and better timing under the boards was one aim of this week's drills, although the Broncs were getting their share of rebounds against the Indians.

Both Jerry Chandler and Larry Schimp have been promoted from the froshmore squad to the varsity, for the league cage fest. Chandler particularly, was given a good test Friday night and turned in a poised performance.

While further juggling of the game-squad personnel is not out of the question, Hobbs has at least tentatively tapped the following to suit up for varsity play in addition to Sophomore Chandler: Keith Madsen, LeRoy Smith, Ron Hansen, Gene Mehl, Roger Smith, Dale Caquelin, Tom Lowenberg, Ron Steenblock, Arlo Stoltenberg, Gary Meyer and Kenny Langlitz.

One thing that is in the cards for the squad members is extensive practice on the free throw line. On single-shot fouls this season, no second attempt is awarded unless the first is made. Hobbs foresees that accuracy in this department may be an important factor in many games during the campaign. Double-shot fouls continue to provide just two chances—make 'em or miss 'em.

Robert Rowen's Kin Gives Low-Down On That Converted, 'Log Cabin' Home

Word has been received from Charles I Rowen of Marshalltown that information given The Independent regarding the house on the Robert Rowen estate near Rowan was incorrect in one major point. Writes the present owner of the property, "There is no part of the house that was originally a log cabin."

"It was strictly a frame house," writes the cousin of Robert E. Rowen, recent benefactor of the Belmond Community hospital. "The only logs in it are the ones which support it over the cellar. Grandfather had the logs cut in the timber there and hauled to Alden, where they were sawed into lumber."

Built of Native Lumber

"The house was originally built of oak and black walnut. All the beams and studdings, floors, etc., were of native oak and were so tough that they refused to burn when the house caught fire. The woodwork on the inside was all of natural black walnut, as was the siding shingles, etc. But of course now there is not much left of the original walnut."

"The kitchen was added later. The hump on the roof was caused by a large tree falling across it years ago."

"The living room has the only cat-hole that I have ever seen. I had a board nailed over it as mother liked to sit there and the draft was too cold."

"Several years before she died, we had the large window on the east side of the room put in for her benefit. Cousin Will Rowen did the work, and when he tried to saw through some of the oak lumber it was so hard that the saws would scarcely cut it."

"One piece of that lumber was sent to George Kyseth (of Clarion) and he had it finished into a gavel and presented it to Ex-Governor Blue when he was elected speaker of the house."

"The old log cabin (original Rowen homestead) stood on a hill in what is now known as the south pasture. The cellar is still visible there. The cabin was hauled down to the house some time later and was used as a chicken house and finally, I think, was burned as fire wood. All the rafters, studdings, etc., were put together with wooden pegs rather than nails."

"The late A. B. Hiams, grandfather of the present generation, built the house and certainly did a good job of it."

(Ed's note: the house herein referred to is the one of which The Independent ran a picture some weeks ago. Our informant regarding its history was apparently laboring under a few misapprehensions. We're glad to have Mr. Rowen set the record straight.)

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

A completely unplanned turkey chase was conducted by Thompsen's Clothing store last Friday about 8:30 p. m. when two of the four gobblers that have been on display in the front window made a break for freedom. Apparently one of them made a flying leap at the west windowpane. Dale Kessler, next door, heard the glass crash and found the two birds in front of his store, dazedly surveying the situation.

An SOS was phoned to Manager George Keleher and Clerk Hank Johnson by Gus Taylor while Dale captured the turkeys.

George promptly decided it would be to the point to fence his livestock AWAY from the windows, as well as from the interior of the store. There have been murmurs of "What won't a guy do for publicity," but we're inclined to question that George would go to such lengths to publicize his turkey give-away. Meanwhile, Dale is a little miffed that he didn't get to keep one of the birds as a reward.

—M-S—

No Thanksgiving spirit of "sharing" prevailed during the turkey-balloon scramble at the bank corner Saturday afternoon You'd have thought some of those balloon chasers were doomed to facing a bare table on Thanksgiving, if they didn't latch onto one of those prize fowls (prize "fouls" were more in evidence than prize "fowl").

Mainstreeter Gallagher and Cashier Luin Cox were very happy to be safely esconced atop the bank building, doing the tossing.

Can't help but wonder just what passed through the mind of the man who was happily admiring a prize-winning balloon he'd just captured whe nsome "lady" snatched it from his hands and made off with it Bet he hopes she gets a piece of wishbone athwart her esophagus She wasn't even a contender when he made his catch

—M-S—

Now don't misunderstand us. Actually, most of the folks were on hand just for some good, clean fun. But the "pushy" ones kinda spoiled the deal for some of the others. Incidentally, some woman who got a jostling ended up shy a maroon coat-button. We've got it.

—M-S—

You might think that a fellow who averaged better than 120 bushels per acre on a field of corn would be satisfied to ignore the down ears, now wouldn't you? But it seemed to Rex Fetrow that a nine-acre patch on which he got the above yield still had a lot of corn lying around in it, so he got the FFA boys to pick up the remainder on shares.

Turned out to be a pretty profitable deal, all the way around. Rex and the Future Farmers split another 90 bushels between 'em! How's that? A neat 131 bushels per acre, yet!

Rex power-drilled the seed and who had heavily fertilized the nine acres, just to see what he COULD do on it Cause of the down corn didn't seem to be so much borer damage as just TOO MUCH corn to be properly harvested with a single-row picker. We've got that down as the best yield in these parts, till we hear of a better one.

—M-S—

Rev. Clifford H Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs Henry B Nelson and a 1933 graduate of Belmond High School, writes that he has just concluded a Lutheran Food Appeal drive in his South Dakota neighborhood. He lives in an open-country parsonage 12 miles from the Iowa state line By the parsonage is the rural Roseni Lutheran church, of which he is pastor; and he serves another church nine miles distant

Clifford regards that the response of farmers in his county to the food appeal was quite remarkable—and we're inclined to agree. The drive, which he directed as chairman, produced 3,000 bushels of corn for shipment to the needy overseas. Two freight cars were required to transport the grain to a shipping point.

There are six in Clifford's family now. He and his wife have three boys and a girl He says, "We enjoy it here, and find it an excellent spot, so near the Iowa line." Clifford adds that a clergyman neighbor of his—at Akron, just across into Iowa—is Rev. Luther Meyer, who also lived in Belmond some years ago. The Nelsons asked that their greetings be passed on to all their Belmond friends.

—M-S—

If that was Hurricane Abigail passing through Tuesday, Beulah and Claribel can just stay where they are. Such a windiness' Farmers who got their fall plowing done early enough that their fields were pretty well dried out must have wondered just where in Illinois their top soil was going to settle

It was whipping into the air in such dense clouds that a virtual ceiling-zero was created over many stretches of countryside.

We can be grateful that the big blow maintained a straight course so damage was practically nil, excepting for the exodus of valuable top soil. Still and all, we'd just as soon not work our way through "Hazel" with a series of similar blows. It's decidedly trying on the nerves, if nothing else.

—M-S—

Printers Duane Anderson and Bob Foss of the Independent force are in the trapping business again—and not doing bad. First two days' score: three mink, one chewed-up muskrat and one sandpiper. Wonder if it was an astute mink that gave the boys the bird?

NAME OMITTED

When reporting last week on the Belmond delegation that attended the district convention of Iowa Hospital Auxiliaries at Waterloo last week, The Independent inadvertantly omitted the name of Margaret Schollian, Belmond community hospital receptionist.

Ben Birdsall Submits Resignation From Position as County Attorney

In a letter written last Friday and received by the board of supervisors last Monday, Ben Birdsall of Clarion tendered his resignation from the office of Wright county attorney. He is just completing his first term in that capacity and earlier this month was elected to a second term, without opposition.

Mr Birdsall asked to be relieved of his duties, if possible, as of next Wednesday, Dec. 1 John Greenlander, chairman of the board of supervisors, says that the request will be honored if a successor can be obtained and sworn in before the end of the month.

Will Manage Business

It was explained by Mr Birdsall that the press of private business obligations, in addition to the responsibilities of his law practice, forced upon him the decision to resign.

He was recently bequeathed part interest in a commercial limestone business at Gilmore City, upon the death of a relative. Management of the enterprise, in which several other heirs share interest, will be undertaken by Mr. Birdsall in addition to continuing his private practice.

Regrets Expressed

General regret over Mr Birdsall's resignation has been expressed by courthouse personnel and county officials with whom he has worked the past two years. His term in office was distinguished by the largest number of jury trials that any Wright county attorney has had to face in a good many years

Mr Greenlander said Tuesday that the supervisors are giving consideration to several applications for the county attorneyship and that they hope a decision may possibly be reached by the first of next week.

AIRELL CLARK
FFA Record Wins Honor

Belmond Future Farmer Honored

Airell Clark, son of Mrs Arlotte Clark, has been selected as one of 26 Iowa high school seniors to be honored on Thursday of next week by the Agricultural Council of Iowa State college. The young men will be guests at the 26th annual All-Agricultural Banquet to be held at 6:30 p. m. at the ISC Memorial Union

Dr John A Hannah, president of Michigan State college and former assistant secretary of defense, will address the gathering of more than 500 students, faculty members and agricultural leaders.

Members of the ISC Agricultural Council chose the guest high school seniors to represent a cross section of the outstanding, young agriculturalists of the state. The council is the student governing board in the division of agriculture at Iowa State.

Scholarship, leadership and participation in 4-H and FFA activities governed selection of the high school guests. Clark attracted attention by possession of the Iowa Farmer degree in FFA, presidency of the BHS chapter of Future Farmers and by the numerous honors he has won in state, north Iowa, county and local competition.

His unusually ambitious farming program also played a part in earning him an invitation to the All-Agricultural Banquet. For the current year it included: 27 purebred ewes, eight grade ewes, three beef steers, 15 sows to farrow next spring, a purebred beef cow, 20 acres of corn and 10 acres of soybeans.

MRS. TYRRELL IMPROVING

Mrs. W. P. Tyrrell was making satisfactory improvement at her home this week following a slight heart attack suffered last Friday morning. The attack was not of a nature serious enough that Mrs. Tyrrell required hospitalization.

SON JOINS BOELMANS

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Boelman announce an addition to their family in the person of seven-month-old Kim Brian, who came last Sunday to make his home with them.

LUDTKE MEMORIAL

A memorial gift to Belmond Community hospital in the amount of $29 is reported by Administrator Stuart Kutz. It was received from Mrs. George Heginger in the name of her mother, the late Mrs. Emma Ludtke.

VERN DIPPEL HOME

Cpl Vernon Dippel arrived home Monday night to spend a 29-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dippel, and renewing old acquaintances. He has been stationed at an Army base at Kenai, Alaska, for the past 15 months.

$175 in Prizes Next Week

Mrs. Claude Johnson picked up $25 Tuesday as the only Cash Gift Day winner this week. That left the $100 prize at 3:00 p. m. and $25 at 2:00 o'clock unscathed. The CGD committee is hanging another $50 on the limb next Tuesday to bring the 3:00 o'clock plum up to $125 and provide for two $25's at 2:00. Christmas shopping is now in order. One of those prizes would help, n'est-ce pas? (That's French for "Ain't it the truth?")

Bulb Sale Makes Lions Club $230

Belmond's Lions club netted approximately $230 on the Bag-of-Bulbs sale it conducted last month, according to Treasurer Clair Hugh. Just short of $650 was grossed from the sale of light bulbs.

Half of the profit is retained by the local club in its community welfare fund The other half goes to the Iowa Lions Sight Conservation fund. A major objective of this fund is establishment of a state eye bank at the University hospital, Iowa City.

Mr Hugh added that another $230 was realized from the broom sale that the Lions conducted last summer All of that amount stayed in the local welfare fund.

GIFT TO HOSPITAL

It is announced by Stuart Kutz, hospital administrator, that the Belmond Community hospital has received a memorial gift of $11 in the name of the late Mrs. Hattie May Weatherly from her son, Robert B Banning.

Mainstreeters Set Up Special Fund To Give Grandad's Clock The Works

"It stopped . . . short . . . never to run again" — not "when the old man died" (as in the familiar song entitled "Grandfather's Clock"), but when the works wore out.

That's the sad story of the handsome, grandfather's clock that for 37 years kept patrons of the Belmond city library posted as to the time of day.

And unless somebody gives the library the works — new works for the clock, that is— it appears that the venerable time piece has ended its career of usefulness.

Librarian Faye Colby reports that the clock has required frequent repairs in recent years. Now its anatomy has reached a state of decrepitude which bars further recovery.

The clock's "had it." Watchmaker Stanley Hill says a vital part now needed is unobtainable because of the obsolescence of the mechanism.

The Mainstreeters view this development with dismay. At the same time, they regard the situation as opening up to them an undertaking that is right down their line.

Having acquired somewhat of a reputation for "giving the works" to selected victims when appropriate opportunity arises, the Mainstreeters have decided to implicate this habit (for once) in a worthy cause.

We ask our readers to help us give grandpappy's clock the works. Mr. Hill informs us that a new mechanism for the clock would cost about $150. That's a bit too rough for the library's budget, on top of the "fixin' up" it's done this year and addition of a good many new books to its shelves.

Originally a gift from the Progress club, that grandfather's clock should be maintained as a permanent fixture of the library, we believe. In hope of making that possible, we are launching this week a Mainstreeter campaign — "To Give Grandfather's Clock the Works."

More than that, we're happy to state that the fund is already "in business." Fact of the matter is, over 10 per cent of the required amount has been pre-subscribed.

BILL McLAUGHLIN INJURED

Bill McLaughlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McLaughlin, was in the Mercy hospital at Mason City most of last week after fracturing several ribs in an accident on Tuesday at the farm of a neighbor near Swaledale. He was riding on the back end of a plow to force it into the ground when a blade apparently struck a rock and caused Bill to fall on the plow.

Harold Simerson Nominated as District Candidate For Director of Iowa School Boards Association

Harold Simerson, member of the board of directors of the Belmond Community School district, last Thursday at Des Moines was nominated as a candidate for the board of directors of the Iowa Association of School Boards. He was one of two official Wright county delegates to the 9th annual state meeting of the organization.

Other members of the Belmond school board who attended part of the convention were President Robert Garms, Mrs. Lee Mussell and Carl Green, Goodell. Attendance of 1,000 was anticipated, but the current, keen interest in reorganization and new school legislation resulted in more than 1,500 persons registering for the parley.

11 Counties in District

Mrs. Mussell was a member of the nominating committee from the 2nd district of the IASB, which chose Mr. Simerson and William Vandervelle of Emmetsburg as candidates for the directorship. Winner between the two will succeed Perry M. Collins of Algona on the board.

There are 11 counties in the 2nd district: Cerro Gordo, Emmet, Franklin, Hancock, Humboldt, Kossuth, Palo Alto, Pocahontas, Winnebago, Worth and Wright. Ballots were to be mailed out last weekend to the various county superintendents for distribution to the school boards in their respective counties. No report on the results of the election is expected until the first of the year.

The 2nd district is one of three that are electing a new representative to the board this year. Directors serve for a term of three years. Each school board in the district is eligible to cast a vote in the directorship election.

More State Aid Asked

Major objective of the Iowa Association of School Boards during the coming year is to obtain legislation that will materially increase state aid to the public schools. It was suggested by the delegate assembly, with which Mr. Simerson sat as an official Wright county delegate, that the state sales tax be boosted to three per cent and that 100 per cent of the state income tax be collected, instead of the present 75 per cent.

Purpose of this added revenue would be to provide the funds needed for the increased state aid. It was pointed out by a spokesman for the delegate assembly that while state taxes would be increased, property taxes in the counties should be reduced by a comparable amount so there should be virtually no increase in the over-all tax burden on the public.

SEVERSEIKE, THOMPSON ON WALDORF FUND COMMITTEE

Rev. O. M. Severseike and Gerhard Thompson of Belmond are members of a general committee appointed to promote the Growing Waldorf Fund, which is intended to finance the construction of a new dormitory at Waldorf college, Forest City.

Congregations of 85 Iowa and Minnesota churches, which own and operate the college, will be appealed to for gifts to make the new building possible. St. Olaf and Trinity Lutheran churches of Belmond are in the group. The project will extend over three years, 1955-57.

Brady Announces Saturday Change

Postmaster J. C. Brady announces that, effective this Saturday, window service at the Belmond post office will extend only from 8:00 a.m. to noon instead of until 1:00 p. m. as in recent months.

He says that a department directive required that the office's auxiliary clerical time be reduced by a given per cent. The Saturday noon hour seemed the likeliest period for reducing clerical duty without any serious infringement on service.

A study had been made locally which indicated that relatively few persons were availing themselves of the window service between noon and 1:00 p. m.

The exercise was designed to test the readiness of the fleet to carry out its war-time job of controlling the vital Atlantic sea lanes.

Dolliver on Tour In Europe, Africa

Sixth District Congressman James I. Dolliver of Fort Dodge is one of seven congressmen now on a tour of southern Europe and Africa to study aspects of the United States foreign aid program. All of the congressmen are members of the House of Representatives Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

The group is now in Madrid, Spain, for briefings with the United States ambassador and head of this country's air force mission in that country.

From Spain the congressmen are to go on to Africa, with stops sceduled in Egypt, Ethiopia, and Capetown in the Union of South Africa. The men expect to return to Washington, D. C., in mid-December.

Purpose of the trip is for information gathering and in a letter to friends here, Mr. Dolliver said that the study should provide much assistance to congressmen in their legislative work next year.

Sheriff Blecker Issues Warning On Farm Thefts

Sheriff Bob Blecker has a bit of advice for farmers in this area of Wright county, which he very much hopes they'll take to heart. There has been a steadily increasing number of farmhouse break-ins in Cerro Gordo, Franklin and Hancock counties in recent weeks. Sheriff Blecker can see no reason for hoping that the gang—for it has the ear-marks of an organized operation — won't sooner or later make an appearance in this county.

That's where the advice comes in. Sheriff Blecker says that several precautions can be taken to the end of protecting property and, possibly, apprehending the culprits.

In their earlier raids, the thieves were taking little other than money. Of late they have been making off with jewelry, guns and anything else of value that is reasonably portable. They unhesitatingly force entry if they find a farm home that is temporarily deserted, but locked.

First, Sheriff Blecker recommends, dont keep sums of money concealed around the house. Put your money in the bank where it belongs, he says.

Secondly, when all the family is to be absent at once, leave a light burning in the home. If a house has the appearance of being occupied, the thieves are much less likely to investigate with an eye to robbing the place.

Third, if you see an unfamiliar car at or near a neighbor's place with no apparent reason for being there, jot down the license number and notify law enforcement officials. The best chance of catching the criminals lies in this final suggestion, the sheriff believes.

Mrs. L. Thompson Will Head County Chapter of A.C.S.

Mrs. Lynn Thompson of Clarion was elected chairman of the Wright county chapter of the American Cancer Society as annual meeting of the county organization was held Thursday of last week at the VWF hall in Clarion. She succeeds Mrs. Florence Aldinger of Rowan.

Mrs. James Barry of Belmond will be county vice chairman for 1954-55, Mrs. Glen Wilson of Woolstock township is rural education chairman and Mrs. Arthur Draheim of Clarion will serve as secretary-treasurer and be in charge of mailing New Horizons, the ACS monthly magazine, in this county.

Awards Presented

Wanda Rex of Ames, field representative for the ACS, presented awards for outstanding work in the past year to Mrs. Aldinger, Mrs. Draheim, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Thompson.

Emphasis was on public education as plans were laid for the coming year's activities. Fund-raising will be a negligible problem, since

Broncs Too Tough For Eagles; Chalk Up 74-to-59 Win

If the prediction proves true that Eagle Grove is the class of the North Central conference in basketball this season, then the Belmond Broncos must be a better than fair aggregation again For Tuesday night, the Broncs took the Eagles into camp by the solid margin of 74 to 59. LeRoy Smith poured in 25 points and Ron Hansen, playing as aggressively as he has at any time in his varsity career, laid in 18 to top the victors in scoring.

It was a hard-fought battle for most of the first half In fact, accurate out-shooting on the part of the Eagles sent them into a 14-10 lead near the end of the first quarter. It took a pair of quickies by Smith to draw the Broncs into a 14-all tie just before the buzzer. Early in the second stanza, Belmond drew into a 20-16 lead. The visitors managed to knot the count at 21-21, but never thereafter did they catch the Broncos.

39-26 Halftime Lead

Once Belmond started checking the Eagles farther out on the court to break up their set shots, the winners steadily gained headway. With about three minutes left in the half it was still close — 30-26—but a spurt by the Broncs padded their lead to 39-26 at the intermission. Through the balance of the game Belmond held a 12 to 15-point advantage most of the time.

Eagle Grove was hampered to some extent by that fact that their center, Ray Ellsworth, picked up three quick fouls and Coach Wally Hanson was able to use him only sparingly in the second and third quarters. However, he was still in the contest at the final whistle while John Luthro and Bill Morgan for the Eagles, Keith Madsen and Gene Mehl for the Broncs were all out of action via fouls.

Sunner Stars for E. G.

Although Madsen hit only one field goal, he converted 10 of 13 free throw tries for a 12-point total

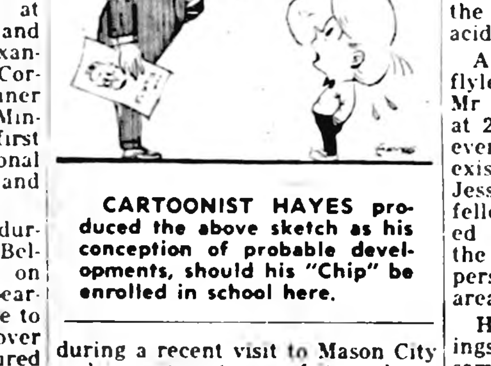
Cartoonist's Pen Has Carried Entertainer Tens of Thousands of Miles

Probably no witch riding a broomstick ever covered more miles employing that unorthodox mode of transportation than Jess Hayes has traveled by means of his artist's pen—with India ink as fuel. The pleasant Mr. Hayes made a lyceum appearance yesterday afternoon before the children attending the Belmond schools.

He's been covering the surrounding territory pretty thoroughly, having already made stops at Thornton, Klemme and Britt and having dates yet to fill at Alexander, Latimer, Kanawha and Corwith. He's a school entertainer booked by the University of Minnesota Program Service; but first and foremost, he's a professional cartoonist who finds much joy and satisfaction in his work.

When we interviewed him during a Sunday stop-over at the Belmond hotel he was at work on cartoon panels that will be appearing the week of Jan. 8th in close to 100 newspaper published over much of the nation He's required by the Bell Syndicate, for whom he works, to keep four weeks in advance. Maintaining a little more leeway than that is his own idea.

"Chip" is the name of his cartoon, and its central character is a mischevious lad of about six or seven who is heir to all the faults and foibles that are usual in a boy of that age. Mr. Hayes confesses that he uses his lyceum travels as a means for promoting the use of his cartoon in additional newspapers. He gave Earl Hall of the Globe-Gazette an earnest sales talk during a recent visit to Mason City and is waiting to see if it produces any results.



I DIDN'T DO IT AN' I WON'T DO IT AGAIN, MR. FARIS'

CARTOONIST HAYES produced the above sketch as his conception of probable developments, should his "Chip" be enrolled in school here.

This is the third year that his eastern booking agent (Mr. Hayes calls Taunton, Mass., "home") has lined up a season of school lyceum dates for him. He's scheduled to continue on the platform trail for another five years after the present one. While doubling in brass as an entertainer as well as a cartoonist, Mr. Hayes has been traveling with USO shows during the summer months.

He's appeared before servicemen in Alaska, Japan, Korea and other points in the Far East. He was in Korea while the war was still raging and was issued an Army "ID" card that identified him as a captain The USO told him encouragingly that this ruse was to prevent his being shot for a spy, should he be captured. The entertainment unit was operating only 10 miles behind the front lines. Jess was just as happy that the card never had to be put to an acid test.

A blackboard and schoolbook-flyleaf artist from his earlier years, Mr Hayes became a professional at 22 and has been in "the game" ever since. "Chip" has been in existence only three years, but Jess has high hopes for the little fellow. The strip is not widely used in the midwest, however, and the cartoonist is hoping that his personal calls on publishers in this area may correct that.

He has 40 weeks of school bookings scheduled for 1954-55 and the same number for next year. His Far Eastern USO stint carried him over 30,000 miles and he added 13,000 more working Alaska and environs. This coming summer he will be with the USO in Germany, Africa and Turkey. With all the "backing and filling" required of him to fill his lyceum dates, it can be seen that his pen IS carrying him over a goodly amount of territory.

He has a daughter who's studying art with a view to teaching that subject. She's a college junior, at present. Dissension in the family threatened some time back when she sent in a "They'll Do It Every Time" that brought a "Tip of the Hat" from Jimmy Hatlo. But when Jess found that the gag wasn't one which was adaptable to his own panel, things smoothed over OK. Ideas are too hard to come by, he admits, for members of a cartoonist's own family to be giving gags away to rivals.

Annual TB Christmas Seal Sale to Start Monday; Wright County Has Proud Record to "Live Up To"

Only 16 counties in Iowa surpassed their goals in the sale of Christmas Seals last year, according to Beverly Scheppler of Clarion, county chairman of the 1954 campaign. Wright county was one of them, and it is the hope of the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association that the citizens of this county will retain this distinction in the seal sale that will be launched Monday of next week.

Since county goals were first assigned in 1935, only six counties in the state have established a better record than Wright in meeting their quotas. Three have reached their goals 15 times and three others, 14 times. Wright is one of seven that have 13 times attained their quota.

A Proud Record

"This is a record of which the county Tuberculosis and Health association is truly proud," says Miss Scheppler. "Our assigned goal for '54 is $4,587—just $45 more than was realized from the sale of seals a year ago. If the generosity of Wright countians matches that of previous years, there should be no difficutly in meeting the quota once again."

This year is the 50th anniversary of the first Christmas Seal Sale in the world, which was conducted in Denmark in 1904. It is also the golden anniversary of the national, voluntary tuberculosis movement. This year's campaign will be the 48th in the United States and will mark the fifth year that Christmas Seals have helped to fight heart disease in Iowa, in addition to tuberculosis.

Double Seals This Year

Seals for the 1954 drive are unique in that they are really double seals. They feature a family of happy children dancing around a Christmas tree, the group being spread across two stamps—one with a red and the other with a green background.

Mrs. Al Mennenga is chairman of the seal sale in Belmond and the Culture Study club is the sponsoring organization. Mrs. Mennenga says, "Because of the need for two seals to show the family group, we hope that people will want to use more seals for each letter and parcel. And with increased use, we hope their will be increased purchase of seals."

Members of the Culture Study club will be busy this weekend placing the seals in envelopes for local mailing so they will be ready for distribution Monday. Mrs. Mennenga urges prompt remittance for the seals, so they won't be forgotten or lost.

Frank Dorr Died Sunday Morning

Belmond relatives received word Sunday of the death early that morning of Frank A. Dorr, former resident of this community who for the past 35 years has lived in Minnesota. He would have been 82 years old on Thursday of next week, Dec. 2.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at the Catholic church at Foley, Minn. Burial was at Foley, also.

Three of the deceased's brothers, A. J., George and Bennie Dorr, all of Belmond, attended the rites. Also present at the funeral were the following nephews: Dwaine, Don, Paul, O'Larry, Clair and Otto Dorr of Belmond and Lauron Dorr of Clear Lake.

A fourth brother, Lawrence Dorr of Waterloo, was unable to attend the services due to ill health.

Seven Tubercular Cases Discovered Via X-ray Survey

During the eleventh annual case-finding program in Wright county, 61 persons were x-rayed, according to reports from the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association and the division of tuberculosis, state department of health.

Findings included seven probable cases. The program was directed by Audrey Engen, public health nurse, who interviewed persons believed to have been exposed to tuberculosis. She took 72 case histories, called in 41 homes, and had conferences with 22 physicians.

The case-finding program is sponsored jointly by the Wright County Tuberculosis and Health association, the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association and the state department of health. It has the approval of the Wright County Medical Society. Local Christmas Seal funds help defray the expenses of the program.

Besides the tuberculosis findings, 14 non-tuberculous findings were also revealed in the chest x-rays, for which further medical study was recommended. There were 37 persons for whom miniature x-ray films showed healthy chests.

The contact program was initiated in Iowa in 1937 and it has gained momentum until there are now approximately 80 counties participating in the case-finding survey to detect tuberculosis in its early stage, when it is most curable. Through the continuous effort to find the case and treat the patient, the eventual goal of the more than 3,000 tuberculosis associations in the nation is the ultimate, complete eradication of tuberculosis.

Tomahawk Rents Martin Building

Need for more space to accomodate its greatly expanded mailing department has resulted in lease by the Tomahawk Hybrid Corn company of the Martin building on Main street, former location of Jensen's grocery.

According to Office Manager Don Bunnell, Tomahawk's print shop will occupy the new quarters, moving in Dec. 1. This will leave the space at present utilized by the print shop available to the mailing department at that time.

Kennedy Furniture has a sublease to use the front of the Martin building for display of merchandise and some of the rear area for storage until the end of the year.

Mr Bunnell explained that much more wrapping-counter space and filing space for the total of 70,000 customers' records has been seriously needed since the recent merger of Carlson Hybrid Corn company with Tomahawk. The space in the Tomahawk headquarters over Woodward's store that is being relinquished by the mailing department is to be partitioned and converted into additional offices.

IF THE LITTLE LADY'S TASTES SEEM COSTLY, TUCK THIS IN HER STOCKING

In The Independent's recent interview with Jean Oberhauser regarding her experiences abroad this year, she noted as one of the more dramatic memories of her travels the sight of women engaged as laborers on Yugoslavian railroad maintenance crews.

That a woman's lot is a difficult one behind the Iron Curtain was similarly attested by the wife of Admiral Alan Kirk in a recent lecture before an audience at the state university. Lydia Kirk was in Russia for two years while her husband was U. S. Ambassador to the Soviet Union.

"I never saw a woman driving a private motor car," she reported. "Although I saw many of them driving buses, steam shovels and tractors. The harder the work, the more the Russians will allow their women to do it."

A noteworthy exception to the rule of permitting Russian women to undertake only the most menial types of work, Mrs. Kirk observed, is the fact that 70 per cent of the Soviet's physicians are women. It is perhaps significant, she added, that U. S. diplomatic officials have so little confidence in the maternity hospitals available in Moscow that they send their wives to America for childbirth care.

Women's social position in Russia seems to decline, said Mrs. Kirk, in relation to the heights attained by their husbands politically and economically. She related, "You never see Mrs. Malenkov or Mrs. Krushchev. In fact, I spoke socially to only two Russian women at diplomatic affairs in Moscow — Mesdames Vishinsky and Gromyko — and these were hardly girlish chats."

The typical Russian has so long been isolated from contact with and information regarding the rest of the world that he has no conception of the heights that living standards have attained — particularly those in the U. S. The Soviet leaders tell their people that the Russian standard of living surpasses that in other Western nations. But according to Mrs. Kirk, Russian industry manufactured only 32,000 motor cars last year and promises of such consumer goods as 75,000 lampshades as the year's production goal — all of the shades green, incidentally — resulted in only 2,000 actually being produced.

Nikita Krushchev, Communist party chieftan, inspires fond dreams of luxurious living in the feminine, Russian mind by predicting that there will soon be one electric iron to every 50 families, one refrigerator to every 650 homes — and that one woman in every 20 will be able to buy a ready-made dress.

So we say to you men, if you can't afford that expensive doodad that the missus has her heart set on for Christmas, just go ahead and buy whatever the budget will allow. Clip out Mrs. Kirk's remarks and tuck 'em in the package. You may make out better than you think!

WOULDN'T BELMOND, TOO, FIND A CLUB FOR THE ELDERLY A USEFUL INNOVATION?

Iowa is in the forefront among states that have reached a realization that the steadily growing number of elderly persons in our country presents simultaneously a problem, a challenge and an opportunity.

The commonly accepted answer to the problem is "gerontology," the study of growing old gracefully, comfortably, healthfully and usefully. That isn't Webster's definition of the word, it's our own. The fact of the matter is, gerontology is such a new concept that it isn't defined in our 10-year-old dictionary — not even in the "new words" section.

Medical advances have greatly extended the American life span. As a result, there are more "old people" than ever before — hundreds of thousands more, compared to only a few decades back. Equally pertinent, perhaps, is the fact that these same advances have resulted in "old people" feeling, thinking and acting younger than heretofore. That fact emphasizes the "challenge" spoken of above, and broadens the "opportunity."

The problem evolves from a fact pointed up by a visiting speaker who addressed an institute on gerontology conducted in October by the Iowa State Department of Health. Said this specialist: "The entire attitude of modern society towards all old people must be given a thorough housecleaning. Ofttimes old people feel and act that way just because society thinks they should."

"My belief is that human life should rise to a majestic climax in the important mature years," declared the guest gerontologist. "The challenge of living longer, it seems to me, is not only of maintaining good physical fitness. It consists of maintaining the ability to enjoy new experiences and new insights into the ways of man and the world today."

What to do after retirement is one of the most challenging aspects of growing older. Without a specific program that gives the individual wholesome satisfaction and justification, he soon comes to feel useless, unneeded — that he's lived "beyond his time."

"There are many problems yet to be solved, and these can best be solved at the community level," those in attendance at the gerontology institute were told. In many communities, a step towards solving part of the problem has been met by establishing clubs for the elderly, bearing such appropriate titles as the Golden Years club, or Do What You Can club.

Such an organization, we believe, would be well worthwhile in a community even of Belmond's size. Proper leadership from some source is all that's required to get such a movement started.

Member of Original Board of Trustees Relates How City Library Was Built Through Gift of H. Christ

(The following historical data regarding the Belmond city library was prepared by R. H. Klemme for reading at the open house held Wednesday afternoon and evening of last week at the library in observance of National Book Week.)

During the first years of its existence, the people of Belmond were busily occupied in establishing a city and the commercial institutions which gave Belmond its foundation. Churches were the first expressions of developing religious and cultural life. But at the turn of the century, the economic and religious foundations of the community having been secured, serious attention was turned toward a deepening of the cultural life of the city.

Shortly after 1910, a group of public-minded citizens informally constituted themselves to examine the feasibility of obtaining for the community a library which would serve as the cultural center for the city. In 1915 out of many meetings of this group, came the Library Board which has given shape and content to the institution which we commemorate today. In November of that year Mayor Walter C. Ramsay appointed to the board of trustees Mrs. W. I. Rosecrans, Mrs. F. A. Stevens, Misses Mae Church and Daisy Cameron, Dr. H. L. Gowdy, Attorney J. M. Berry and R. H. Klemme.

Carnegie Grant Offered

First official board meeting was held the 22nd of that month at the home of Mrs. Rosecrans and the following officers were elected: Mrs. Rosecrans, president; Miss Cameron, vice president; Mr. Berry, secretary. In December of 1915, H. I. Christ purchased the site upon which the library building now stands and donated the property to the town of Belmond for a library. Little did Mr. Christ know at that time just how far his generosity would be extended.

In January of 1916, the Library Board corresponded with the Carnegie Foundation for funds with which to build a library. After investigation, the foundation offered a grant of $7,500. However, it stipulated that the building should be known as a "Carnegie Library," regardless of any supplemented funds used in its construction. G. L. Lockhart of Minneapolis had been employed by the Board as architect. The plans he submitted were those of the building we have today, the estimated cost was $15,000.

Christ Finances Building

Mr. Christ learned in April of 1916 about the Carnegie Foundation offer and its stipulations. Mr. Christ was ill at the time and confined to his bed. From his sick room, he directed his banker—A. L. Luick—to meet with Library Board and present his request that the Board drop all negotiations with the foundation. A contract was signed for the construction of the building as a private deal, Mr. Christ assuming the complete cost of the library's construction.

Mr. Christ's modesty would not permit the Library Board to use his name in connection with the building. He did, however, consent to the dedication of the library to the memory of his mother, Sarah Christ.

Only Three Librarians

During construction of the building, citizens of Belmond were solicited for funds and several thousand dollars was raised. This money was used in buying furniture, equipment and books.

The library was dedicated May 23, 1917. Timothy Harrington, an attorney and at that time a political figure in northern Iowa, was speaker of the day.

During the history of the library there has been three librarians. First was Mrs. Anna Case, who held the position from Dec. 21, 1916, until April 26, 1925. Mrs. J. E. Wallace succeeded Mrs. Case, cotninuing her faithful service until July 1, 1952. Since that time, Mrs. H. E. Colby has presided at the librarian's desk.

Assembly Room Useful

Worthy of mention is the fact that immediately following the opening of the library, the assembly room downstairs played an important part in the social and religious life of the community and has continued to do so. It has been used by churches, the Red Cross, Boy Scouts, by clubs and for various other types of meetings.

Institutions such as the library naturally have their difficult years. This was true with the library operation in its early years and again during the depression years of the thirties. Records show that in 1932 the library spent just $889.09—it's available funds. In the following year, its request for funds was only $1,040. However, the public was understanding and accepted the necessary curtailment in service.

Present Condition Healthy

The writer of this brief sketch wishes to add a few words in regard to the library as of today. It has never been in as healthy a condition as at the present time. We are indeed fortunate to have our present board of trustees. They are a group of interested individuals who are giving this instituiton their best efforts. In addition, Belmond is doubly fortunate in having Mrs. Colby as librarian.

In its quiet and unspectacular way, the Belmond library has served the social and educational needs of Belmond for two generations. Given the support of the community, along with the unselfish devotion of the board members, the library can look forward to serving the needs of generations to come.

In these troubled times, when conflicting idealogies are competing for the minds and souls of people, the library is a citadel of truth and freedom. "Ye shall know the Truth and it shall make you Free."

ACS Announces 50 Scholarships For Nurses Again

Continuation in 1955 of the nurse's scholarship program of the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society was announced today by Dr. S. F. Singer of Ottumwa, president. For the seventh consecutive year 50 nursing scholarships will be made available to young Iowa women. This represents six per cent of the annual, Iowa first-year nursing student classes.

First in the nation to set up such a program, the Iowa division now has 140 nurse trainees attending 23 nursing schools in Iowa. In addition, 118 nurses granted scholarships in 1949, 1950 and 1951 have been graduated and are now practicing their profession in Iowa.

Grants Come to $500

Aimed at relieving the critical nursing shortage in Iowa, the scholarships are part of a long range program to expand the Society's service for needy cancer patients.

Those who have graduated, or are now in training from this area, include: Mary Negrete and Betty Lou Dempsey, Belmond; Bettie Lowenberg, Goodell; Ruth Thompson, Margaret Thul and Cheryl Schultz, Clarion.

The awards grant tuition, fees, books and uniforms (but not to exceed $500) for three full years of training, beginning in the fall of 1955, at any accredited Iowa nursing school.

Requirements Listed

Applicants must meet these requirements: rank in upper third of class scholastically; be high school graduate of '55 or earlier; be at least 17 years of age at date of entrance to nursing school; pass pre-nursing tests; must be accepted by approved Iowa nursing school; promise to practice the nursing profession in Iowa for two years immediately following graduation; need financial assistance; and possess personal qualities essential to becoming a good nurse.

Applications must be received by March 21, 1955. Pre-nursing tests must be taken so that results will be available to the scholarship committee prior to April 1. Complete information regarding these scholarships may be obtained by contacting the Wright county ACS chapter chairman, Mrs. Lynn Thompson of Clarion, or by writing to the Iowa Division, American Cancer Society, Mason City.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Tom Kelly, Emmetsburg Reporter, Quits (?) Smoking;
Don Reid, West D.M. Express, on "How to Get Wife Up."

OFF THE WEED—

We stopped smoking this morning. (This is being written Monday.) We don't know how long it will last. If it doesn't last until next week's Reporter, we won't mention it. If it does, we'll brag about being on the wagon for a week.

We're going to use some self inflicted psychology to help us along. We borrowed a good book "How To Stop Smoking" from Father Cain who read it and stopped. It's got some good heavy arguments.

On our own, we've typed a list of all the things we don't like about smoking. Yellowed fingers, stinging eyes, bad taste in the morning, burned holes in clothing and rugs, pains in throat, chest and head. We could list the expense but we didn't.

We could figure that we've spent five or six thousand dollars on cigarettes in our lifetime, but frankly we don't regret a penny of it. We've always enjoyed buying a pack here and another there, you meet a lot of people at the counters that you wouldn't otherwise. We'll miss that, for the time being, if we continue our fast.

We'd like to have a bet up with someone who would stop with us—a forfeit deal for the first one that broke under the strain.

But there wasn't anyone handy when we decided to make the big try, so here we are, all by ourself. We're a little jittery, shows how much of a hold the stuff had on us, maybe it still does and we can't give it up, been 12 hours since our last puff, last night, maybe the first day's the worst.

Still wish someone would bet us we can't last a week, then we'd do it that long, for sure, never cared for gum, but we're chewing it today, might help, might get us on the track for today, or a week, or a month, a year, or forever. Anybody wanta make a bet?

SUDDEN AWAKENING—

Every generation thinks the new crop "has it easier nowadays." And we're no exception.

We were reminiscing the other night, about how WE got started at housekeeping.

Dorothy used an orange crate for a dressing table, covered it with something frilly and it looked right pretty.

The only bed we could afford was one of those narrow iron things, known in those days as a "sanitary cot." It had wings on each side you could raise up, thus making a full width bed. But it was mighty tricky to get into, due to the narrow foundation, it was top-heavy and mighty easy to upset.

otho

And getting up was even worse. For months and months I would crawl out drowsily to shut off the alarm clock and the bed would immediately tip over like a see-saw when one person jumps off.

If Dorothy looks a little frustrated at times, it's because for years that was the only way she got up, pitching out on the floor and fighting her way out from under the mattress and covers.

But kids nowadays have a tough time, too. EVERY NOW AND THEN THE TELEVISION BLOWS A TUBE.

SPORTS

After watching the Bronco basketeers open their 1954-55 season at Hampton last Friday night, the large crowd of fans that followed the team still hadn't very much basis for judging how good the BHS team is. There seemed to be a civil war of sorts in process amongst the Bulldogs, which unquestionably was in part responsible for the miserable showing that they made in the course of bowing by a 72-18 margin.

In the opening moments of the game, before the Broncs settled down to business, it appeared briefly that they might get a fairly good workout. But after the score was knotted at 2-all, Belmond steadily went ahead until the spread was 38-4 near the end of the second quarter. At halftime the count was 44 to 9

Eight Bulldogs Bounced

During the intermission, some disagreement developed between Coach Wes Sharp and a part of his squad. The end result was that eight of the varsity cagers were ordered out of uniform and Sharp dressed some of the Hampton sophomore players to fill out the bench in the second half. The sophs played the final quarter against Coach Dick Hobbs' reserves, and the game was reduced to more or less of a practice session.

Although guilty of some errors that are logically to be expected in early season, the Bronco regulars made a fairly impressive showing while they were in charge. LeRoy Smith showed the same aggressiveness that characterized his play last season and led in the scoring with 23 points. Balanced offense will clearly be one of the team's major virtues again Ron Hansen contributed 10 points, Gen Mehl and Keith Madsen eight apiece and Jerry Chandler, seven.

Froshmores Look Good

No Hampton player made more than one of the Bulldogs' five baskets and Wayne Dreyer was their high scorer with a total of four points. He also played the best floor game for the losers.

Belmond reserves entered into the scoring as follows: Arlo Stoltenberg, six; Tom Lowenberg, five; "Joe" Smith, four; and Dale Caquelin, one.

The froshmore game saw Belmond chalk up a win in just about as easy fashion as in the varsity contest. With Larry Schimp pacing the winners with 19 points, the Junior Broncs led 14-4 at the quarter and 20-7 at the half Coach Bob Kratke made generous use of reserves in the last half or the final margin would have been considerably greater than the 41-22 that graced the scoreboard at the final whistle

A good deal of promise was shown by the Bronc froshmores and they should record a generous share of conquests during the coming campaign.

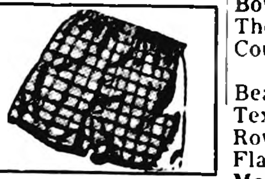
SPORTS SHORTS



When the NIC sports writers assembled to make their annual pick of all-conference starts, the Buffalo Center scribe volunteered the information that John Drugg, the Bison coach, regarded, "Lake Mills the luckiest team in the conference, Forest City the best and Belmond the most under-rated."

All-state teams and honor rolls published last weekend by the Iowa Daily Press association and the D. M. Register substantiated at least the last two descriptions. Four F.C. Indians made Register honorable mention—and nary a Bronco. Lake Mills' champion Bulldogs earned a couple of mentions and Garner got one one the honor roll.

It's going to be the self-assigned task of this columnist—if the Broncs do as well next fall as he hopes—to see that SOMEBODY gets some all-state mention. It may require writing weekly blurbs to Brad Wilson of the R&T and Jim VanHeel of the Globe-Gazette. Publicity does it!

—PSS—

Through last weekend, the North Iowa conference cage teams had not exactly been setting the world on fire. Could find no record of Forest City having played yet, but all the other teams had had their baptism of fire—and several surprises were produced. For instance, Fertile tripped Garner, 60-54—and then Lake Mills shocked the Indians 69 to 60. At the jamboree, spectators were impressed with the way Garner laid it on the Bulldogs, 28 to 15, in TWO quarters. How do those Fertile games figure?

Garner's adversaries-to-be, nevertheless, will find little joy in the fact that Daryle Jass rammed in 37 points while his team was bowing to Fertile. A scoring record for Garner's new gym.

Northwood is the only other loop team, other than Lake Mills and Belmond, that's seen action and remained unscathed. Just what the Vikings' 45-41 conquest of Osage and 38-35 win over St. Ansgar signifies can't be told at this stage. Obviously, though, Northwood isn't as weak as it appeared against Klemme in the jamboree. Britt was beaten 51-44 by Crystal Lake; and Buffalo Center bowed to Rake in the Bison opener, 62-52. At least, it seems reasonably certain that Eagles and Bison will continue to be "have nots" this year

—PSS—

P. S. — Since writing the above review of conference games to date we discovered the score of Forest City's starter last Saturday at Des Moines against D. M. Tech. The Indians joined the winners' circle with a 53-48 decision.

—PSS—

Donny Hoppel, erstwhile Bronco cage star, is making a rapid conquest of Webster City basketball fans as a regular on the junior college team there. In the Indians' opener last week against Mason City J. C., "Hoppy" led his team to an 83-77 victory with a 24-point scoring performance. Donny, whom the W.C. Freeman-Journal described as "five foot six inches of perpetual motion," put the Indians ahead to stay by hitting three quick ones just before the intermission to establish a 46-39 lead.

GRIDDERS AT BANQUET TO HEAR BOB FLORA, IOWA'S LINE COACH

Football's His Game

Coach Dick Hobbs is hoping that some of the wisdom of Bob Flora, recognized as one of the finest line coaches in the football business, will rub off on his returning Broncos when the University of Iowa staff member speaks at next Wednesday's Gridiron banquet. Each of the three years that Flora has been at Iowa, he has produced several linemen recognized as among the best in the nation

Besides Flora's talk, a major highlight of the annual feast put on by the Gridiron club for members of Belmond High school and junior high gridders will be presentation of letters won by varsity and froshmore team members during the past season The banquet will be held at 7.00 p. m. at the school hot-lunch room

Was WWII Naval Officer

Flora has been strictly a one-sport athlete. Football has been "his game" since he played on the high school team at Muskegon, Mich., in the early 'thirties. He worked for three years after getting his diploma and then enrolled at the University of Michigan, where he was a member of the same team that brought lasting fame to SUI's head coach, Forest Evashevski, and to Tom Harmon. Flora was a varsity letter-winner at tackle for three years.

An interruption in his collegiate career after his freshman year resulted in his graduating in February of 1942 and he promptly entered the U. S. Navy. Some of his service time was spent at Iowa Pre-Flight at Iowa City.

"Evy's" Aide Since '50

He was discharged in 1946 with the rank of Lieutenant-Commander and the '47 football season saw him coaching at Niles, Mich., High school. The following year he was named freshman coach at Michigan State college. His success in developing fine players induced Evashevski to take Flora along with him to Washington State as an assistant when "Evy" went west in 1950. He accompanied Evashevski to Iowa three years ago.

Although known primarily as a line coach, Flora can—and does—help out on the practice field wherever needed and has won a reputation among the Hawkeyes as a very hardworking but friendly mentor.

Following the ceremony, a reception for approximately 150 guests was held at the Thompson town hall. The tables were decorated in the bride's colors, bule and white. The three tiered wedding cake, which was topped by a miniature bride and groom, was cut and served by Mrs. Sylvan Awe of Forest City, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Raymond Ehrhart of Humboldt, aunt of the groom.

Mrs. Chloe Sweet of Wells, Minn., aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Tice Brack of Ledyard, aunt of the groom poured. Carmen Awe and Jeanette Mitchell, both of Forest City, and Irene Redmond were in charge of the gifts. Dorothy Hays of Le Mars, sister of the bride, presided over the guest book.

For going away, the bride wore a navy blue suit with brown accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Thompson High school and has been employed at the Karlberg Music Store at Albert Lea, Minn. The groom graduated from Belmond High school and has been serving in the U. S. Navy the past two years stationed at Norfolk, Va. at present.

13 Wright 4-H'ers Depart on Annual Trip to Chicago

Thirteen 4-H members and two leaders from Wright county were to leave Mason City this (Thursday) evening on the KGLO-North Iowa Fair special train for Chicago. They are among nearly 300 4-H'ers, plus chaperones, making the annual five-day award trip to attend the International Livestock Exposition and view other Chicago sights. No Belmond or Pleasant township club members were included.

4-H members from 14 north Iowa counties are making the trip on the special train, leaving Mason City on Thanksgiving Day at 9:30 p. m. and returning next Tuesday morning.

Selected on Records

Besides the livestock show, the north Iowa party will visit the plant of R. H. Donnelley corporation, world's largest printing establishment, Chicago board of trade, the Science and Industry building, and enjoy a tour of such Chicago points of interest as China Town, Hull House and Maxwell street.

Members of the Wright county delegation were selected by the county 4-H committee on the basis of their outstanding club records as revealed by project work, record books, club and community activities. The trips by the 4-H'ers were made possible by business firms of the county each of which donated money to cover the train fare and hotel lodging of one delegate.

Sponsors Named

Eagle Grove business concerns were not solicited, because of the large contributions they made to support the Eagle Grove district junior fair, to the benefit of the 4-H movement throughout the county.

Sponsors of the trips were: Bank of Galt; First National bank, Clarion; Wright County State bank, Clarion; Holmes Farmers Co-operative Elevator; Goldfield Farmers Elevator Co-operative; McNeal Grain company, Clarion; Rowan Lumber and Grain company; Byron Meyer company, Dows livestock buyers; Kanawha businessmen; Whyte Motor company, Goldfield; Jack Brenny, Clarion; Clarion Farmers Elevator Co-op; Dows Farmers Elevator.

KGLO to Make Reports

Recipients of the award trips were: Jeanine Hardy, Grant Go-Getters; Kay Whitten, Iowa U-Go-I-Go; Beth Robie, Dayton Dandies; Connie Jergensen, Norway Jolly Joy Makers; Melvene Weld, Lincoln Lassies League; Patricia Baldus, Eagle Red Peppers; D. Aldrich, Iowa Hawkeyes; Ken Jury and Beverly Draves, Blaine Livewires; Douglas Bosworth and Marvin Reichter, Liberty Pathfinders; Bob Brisbin, Eagle Grove Eager Beavers; Leslie Mechem, Lincoln Leaders.

Mrs. Ed Campbell of Clarion and one other leader not yet named last weekend were to accompany the group as chaperones. Radio station KGLO will broadcast news of the group direct from Chicago each morning during the trip period.

BRONCOS—

and played a fine floor game. Jerry Chandler, considering his inexperience, performed commendably. Roger Smith and Tom Lowenberg fit into the Bronc combination nicely as reserves.

Kurt Sunner, Eagle Grove's nifty guard, led the losers with a 22-point performance. He received very capable assistance from Guard Bob Smith and Forward John Luthro.

Larry Schimp was the big gun as the Belmond froshmores chalked up a 36-23 win. The smooth-working Junior Bronc guard accounted for exactly half of his team's scoring, 18 points.

Eaglet Rally Buckles

The Eaglets came back from a 14-4 deficit at the quarter to make a game of it during the balance of the opening half. They trailed only 19-16 at the buzzer.

But the winners got back into gear after intermission to gain a 28-18 edge at the three quarter mark and easily kept matters under control in the final period. Starters, besides Schimp, were Bill Murray and Larry Kinseth at forward, Gary Ersland at center and Dave Long at the other guard.

Completing the froshmores' game roster are Jon Green, Marlyn Mehl, Tom McNulty, Duane Lowenberg, DaDean Obrecht, Gordon Sandman and Dean Pruisman.

ANY RESEMBLANCE between the smiling soldier above and H. E. Colby of the local General Mills staff is more than coincidental; for the gentleman proudly having a general's star pinned on his shoulder is "Hub's" brother, Joseph M. Colby. His wife is doing the pinning. Just lately elevated in rank from colonel to brigadier general, Mr. Colby also was assigned to a new post of high responsiblity. He is now in command of Frankford Arsenal, Philadephia.

Cancer—

practically the entire county now gives to the cancer society through the Community Chest.

A recently purchased movie projector and screen are expected to play a major role in the chapter's educational work during the year. This equipment will be available to any group that might wish to borrow it, with the agreement that an appropriate film on cancer be made a part of the meeting program.

Films Available

Mrs. Thompson says that a wide selection of cancer films is available, appropriate for men's, women's or mixed groups. All women in attendance at the annual meeting were given instruction on operating the projector. Groups wishing to borrow the machine, for which there will be no charge, will also be furnished with an operator if that is wished. The educational films which will accompany the projector run about 12 minutes in length.

As part of the chapter's educational campaign, some excellent material will be available to high school science and physical training classes and Red Cross home nursing groups. There is special material for service groups, too, and literature suitable for any type of gathering that wishes to take part in the cancer education program.

Speakers' Bureau

A speakers' bureau has been set up, also. It was stressed that speaking engagements should be arranged for evening hours, though, when doctors will be able to appear without any conflict with their professional duties.

Complete cancer programs will also be available to groups that wish to undertake a series of lessons to cover several meetings or the entire year. Rural groups should contact Mrs. Glen Wilson, through the Eagle Grove post office or Woolstock phone exchange, if a cancer chairman has not been obtained in their township.

Reports Given

After a luncheon served by the VFW Auxiliary, the afternoon session of the annual meeting was devoted to reports, as follows: secretary-treasurer, and mailing of New Horizons, Mrs. Draheim; home service, Mrs. Thompson; Rural Community Chest, Mrs. Leo Woodley; campaign, Mrs. Aldinger; education, Mrs. Wilson. The new officers were then introduced by Mrs. Aldinger and Miss Rex presented the awards.

Educational chairmen and co-chairmen for the new year are: Belmond—Mrs. Carol Miner, Mrs. James Barry; Clarion—Mrs. Don Bowman, Mrs. Ted Jorgenson; Eagle Grove—Mrs. M. B. Crabbe, Mrs. C. G. Loux, Mrs. Cornell Denny; Dows—Mrs. W. G. Knox, Mrs. Harley Hill; Goldfield—Mrs. Orvel Griffith, Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mrs. John White, Jr.; Galt—Mrs. Ralph La Barr; Rowan—Mrs. Aldinger, Mrs. Floyd Allen; Woolstock—Mrs. R. W. Graves.

At the annual meeting, Mrs. Donald Markham represented Belmond township; Mrs. J. H. Winter, Iowa; Mrs. Grant Jergenson, Norway.

1954 Corn Borer Infestation 2nd Worst for Iowa

The annual fall survey of European corn borer infestation shows that Iowa cornfields now contain the second highest infestation on record for the state. But the infestation ranks well below the record year of 1949.

This annual survey by Iowa State college and the state department of agriculture gives an indication of damage in the past season and the threat to the crop next year.

On a statewide basis, according to the report of H. M. Harris, state entomologist, this year's count of 483 live borers per 100 plants ranks second to the all-time high of 802 in 1949. Other average counts for the seven years in which surveys have been conducted are: 1947, 119; 1948, 202; 1950, 138; 1951, 61; 1952, 91; and 1953, 163.

Heaviest Infestations

The heaviest infestations were found in counties extending roughly across the center of the state. That included 32 counties bounded by Plymouth and Harrison on the west and Butler and Poweshiek on the east, plus an area of nine counties in southeast Iowa including Benton, Iowa, Johnson, Cedar, Scott, Muscatine, Keokuk, Washington and Louisa counties.

Lowest counts were made in six northeast and seven southeast Iowa counties. Of all districts, Harris says, only two— one in central Iowa and one in the southeast—had a higher count this fall than in the survey in the fall of 1949. This fall's count in the central district was 890 borers per 100 plants; in 1949 it was 746. The southeast district had a count this fall of 579 compared with 301 in 1949.

"Bigger Than Normal"

Harris says the survey indicates a bigger than normal population of corn borers going into the winter with about normal chances of survival. Right now, he adds, that means more than an average threat for next year. However, many factors will affect the borers' winter survival and development next year. As has been done in previous years — including 1954 — entomologists will make surveys of borer activity in the spring and during the season to keep tab on the borers and advise the farmers accordingly.

Most losses suffered this year, in Harris' opinion, resulted from the failure of the farmers to accept the seriousness of the threat in some areas and failure to make the necessary effort to combat the borers. Farmers who did follow recommended control measures were able to net real savings.

Businessmen Will Hold Gift Festival as Highlight of Yule Season

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Mr. and Mrs. (nee Joyce Waddington) Foster Castleman had the happiness of their honeymoon brought to an abrupt and sad conclusion a week ago Sunday on their return to Minneapolis following a stop-over here. After arriving in Minneapolis about 10:30 p. m., they parked their car at a filling station while dropping in for a visit with one friends. When they returned to the car only a half hour later, they discovered a thief had broken one of the windows and made off with all of their luggage.

Total loss was estimated by the newlyweds at close to $1,400. Missing was clothing valued at nearly $1,150, about $150 worth of jewelry and miscellaneous items to a value of $75.

As luck would have it, the car was a new one on which Castleman had not yet obtained extended insurance coverage so the lost property was not insured. It could have been worse, though. The young ball player's N. Y. team mates had sent wedding presents to the couple while they were honeymooning in Florida. They'd brought the gifts back by car, but Joyce had arranged by phone to store them temporarily with a relative at Faribault. They would undoubtedly have been part of the loot, had they not been dropped off en route to Minneapolis.

—M-S—

Castleman, who earned quite a reputation for himself as an infielder with the Minneapolis Millers, a farm team in the Giants' system, probably is figuring it's about time his luck took a turn for the better. Shortly after being called up by the Giants last summer to finish out the season with them he suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury. That kept him out of action the rest of the season He reports for spring training with the Giants at Phoenix, Ariz., on March 1 and he's hoping Dame Fortune will give him a beaming smile and lend a little cooperation toward helping him land a regular berth with the big league outfit.

—M-S—

While doing some delving into records at the city hall recently, Ed Bailey ran across the contract for construction of that edifice back in 1915. A buck was certainly worth a buck in those days. What would it cost to erect a similar structure today—$40,000? Maybe $50,000?

Belmond Lumber company was the contracting firm that bid in the job. It's figure? A modest $7,412! Of course, the heating contract ran the final cost up by an additional $385 and the plumbing nicked the taxpayers for $463 more. That made the hall cost $7,990, all told!

Ed also turned up the contract for Belmond's original sanitary sewer system. It covered pretty close to four miles of sewer line and a gent by the name of McElliott put it in for $16,814.70. Engineering fees $500, septic tank $578.88—total $17,893.58. Those were the days!

—M-S—

Currently, the city fathers are trying to figure a way to get a sewer extension out to the east part of town. Footage will run about 4,400 feet, regardless of what alternative route they finally settle upon. And the cost estimates range from $25,000 to $28,000 or more, according to the route followed and the potential volume to be accomodated. McElliott, Where art thou now?

GMI Plant Here Cuts Back Work Week to 40-Hrs.

On Monday of last week the Belmond General Mills plant cut back to a six-day week and a 40-hour work week in place of the seven days a week and 48-hour operation that had prevailed for the past 10 years. Walt Hotvet, plant superintendent, says the step was dictated by current conditions in the soybean industry.

"For two years," he explained, "margins in soybean processing have been extremely tight due to a combination of circumstances. The market price of beans has stayed at a high level—from the processor's standpoint at least, whereas we've had to meet sharp competition from products comparable to those we produce."

Mr. Hotvet stated that a number of soybean processing plants have chosen to simply shut down, instead of cutting back on their operations in order to keep going.

He declared there was no way to tell at this time how long the shortened schedule might have to be maintained It might be adhered to for no longer than six weeks. On the other hand, the reduction might have to be continued for an indefinite time.

New work schedules required by the cut back have been set up at the local plant only on a temporary basis, Mr. Hotvet added, in hope that a return to the former operating basis will be possible before so very long.

All Classes Now Start Same Time

Effective Monday of this week, starting time of all classes in the Belmond schools were made the same. High school and junior high, as well as elementary grades, will commence the morning's work at 9:00 o'clock.

For the past five or six years, junior high and high school classes have started at 8:40 a. m. so that extra-curricular activities could be worked into the regular school-day schedule. In the lower grades, classes took up at 9:00 o'clock.

Supt. Don Faris says that since reorganization has made it necessary for a good many more young children to ride the busses, the old arrangement hasn't worked out so well. Standardization of the starting time of all classes was decided upon so the busses won't have to make their farthest pick-ups quite so early in the cold and dark of the morning.

Kids: Watch For Letter-to-Santa Contest Details

Conflicting circumstances prevented organization of the annual Letters-to-Santa Contest in time for details to be published this week. However, all youngsters up to and including age 10 can be putting their minds to the problem of what they wish to tell Santa. Complete details regarding the contest will appear next week, and in the meantime letters can be addressed to St. Nick in care of The Independent.

First letter of the '54 Christmas season was delivered to the newspaper office Monday, the young writer being Kaye Lynn Dorr. She had the following to say:

Dear Santa:

How are you? I am fine. For Christmas I want one walkie-talkie doll. I love you. Thank you.

Lots of love,
Kaye Lynn Dorr

The children of Belmond and vicinity are urged to get their letters to Santa mailed to The Independent as soon as possible, if they want them to appear in the paper As many as space permits will be published, but late arrivals may have to be omitted.

Bethany Church Marks Milestone

Rev. Ralph Meyer reports that the congregation of the Bethany Reformed church had special reason for thankfulness as it gathered for the traditional Thanksgiving service on Wednesday evening of last week. At that time, Treasurer Alvin L. Halfpap burned the note and mortgage that in 1953 had made possible acquisition of a church parsonage.

Organized in February of last year, the Bethany church purchased the parsonage at 712 Second street NE during May when the Rev. Mr. Meyer answered a call to serve as pastor.

Through liberal giving of the church members, several fine gifts from friends of the church, work of the Helping Hand society and help of the Reformed denomination, retirement of the parsonage debt was achieved in a year and a half of time.

At the conclusion of the Thanksgiving service and the note-burning ceremony last week, a time of fellowship was enjoyed. The men served lunch to women of the congregation in appreciation of the able assistance they had provided toward retiring the obligation Goal of the Bethany church is now to obtain a place of worship of their own. Since the time the church was organized, its congregation has held its services in the city library basement. The board has been investigating various properties as possible church sites but has not as yet decided on a location.

Retiring officers of the county boys 4-H organization, under direction of Ray Aldrich, Iowa Hawkeye leader, conducted the installation of new officers. Officers completing their terms were: Arlen Pals, vice president; Robert Flatebo, secretary-treasurer; Cecil Hill, historian. Wayne Rietema of Norway Ramblers, a former county officer, pinch-hit for retiring president Delos Poolman, who is in the armed service.

Farm Class Will Discuss "Sheep"

Questions that have concerned a good many farmers of this vicinity in recent years will be answered by an expert at next Monday night's meeting of the Adult Education class in agriculture. Francis Kelly, BHS vocational agriculture instructor, says that Dewey Jontz, one of the state's outstanding experts on sheep, will be the speaker.

Mr. Jontz is fieldman for the Iowa State Sheep association. He will provide the answers to such questions as: should every farmer have a few sheep; are sheep more profitable than hogs; and is a sick sheep a dead sheep?

All farmers interested in the subject are cordially invited to attend the class session, regardless of whether they are registered for the course. The class meets at the high school at 7:30 p. m.

Austin in Attorney Post Till January

R. Ralph Austin, Clarion lawyer, was temporarily appointed on Monday of this week to fill the vacancy left by resignation of County Attorney Ben Birdsall. The board of supervisors passed a resolution accepting Mr. Birdsall's resignation and appointing Mr. Austin as county attorney until Jan. 1.

There will be one change in personnel of the board of supervisors the first of the year, Roland Trotter of Goldfield replacing Carl Kelling of Renwick. It was decided by the board to delay an appointment for the 1955-56 term, to which Mr. Birdsall was elected last month, until the board reorganizes the first of the year.

AFRICAN WOMEN GUESTS

Mrs. Deborah Kumi and Cynthia Wood, natives of the Gold Coast in Africa but currently taking home economics courses at Iowa State college, were entertained in several Belmond homes on Thanksgiving Day. They enjoyed dinner at the R. W. Courson home, visited in the afternoon with Dr. and Mrs. S. P. Leinbach and had supper with Mr. and Mrs. Clark McNeal. They were overnight guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser.

Educator, Former Belmondite, Dies Nov. 10th at 81

John Raoul Byers, 81, a Belmond native who 40 years ago moved to Everett, Wash., and in the passing years enjoyed a career of distinction as an educator, died on Nov. 10. His death occurred at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Ottestad of Odessa, Wash., with whom he had been living. Funeral services were held at Everett on Saturday, Nov. 13, followed by burial in Evergreen cemetery there.

Born in Belmond on Nov. 1, 1872, Mr. Byers went to Everett in 1914. After first serving as a high school instructor, he later held principalships of two different schools in the Everett school system. After retiring from public school administration, he was named Snohomish county superintendent and held that post for a number of years.

The Everett daily paper had high praise for his work as a school administrator. He was known for his work with crippled and beridden children, offering his services as tutor.

Mr. Byers is survived by four children: two sons, John Jr., of Rochester, N. Y., and Maurice of Seattle; and two daughters, Mrs. Ottestad of Odessa and Mrs. Paul Ellis of Ephrata, Wash. Also one sister, Mrs. E. W. Klein of Snohomish, Wash.; and seven grandchildren.

Former Resident Dead at Age 94

Funeral services were held Wednesday of last week at the Eastside Evangelical church, Eagle Grove, for Mrs. Bertha Tegland of Kenyon, Minn. The deceased was the mother of Otto Tegland of Belmond and for some 56 years of her life was a resident of Wright county, living at one time in Belmond.

Mrs. Tegland died on Saturday, Nov. 21, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Jennie Bjelland, at Kenyon. Rites were held at Kenyon the day before the funeral was conducted at Eagle Grove. Burial was in Eagle Grove's Rose Hill cemetery, where Mrs. Tegland was laid to rest beside her husband.

Born in Kendall county, Ill., on June 7, 1860, Mrs. Tegland at her death had attained the age of 94 years, five months and 14 days. She was wed in 1880 to Ole Tegland. They moved to Wright county in 1891 and much of their married life was spent on a farm north of Clarion Mr. Tegland died in 1943 and four years later Mrs. Tegland moved to Kenyon, Minn.

Besides her son in Belmond, Mrs. Tegland leaves six daughters: Anna Benson, Northfield, Minn.; Jennie Bjelland, Kenyon; Blanche Lewis, Willmar, Minn.; Sadie Willer, Minneapolis; Lillian Bjerre, Hollydale, Calif.; and Pearl Burress, Los Angeles; also 23 grandchildren, 39 great grandchildren and two great, great grandchildren.

No Money Went

What a pity! Everyone scraping for Christmas-gift money —and nary a cent of the Cash Gift Day fund found a taker this week. Of course, that means there'll be more wealth to share next Tuesday if some number holders can come up with the right combination of the right digits. A total of $225 will be included in next Tuesday's Cash Gift Day awards. The 3:00 o'clock prize will be main at $125; but two more $25's will be offered at 2:00 p. m., making a total of four awards at the earlier drawing. Maybe St. Nick intends one of 'em for YOU.

Arguments Ended In School Dispute

Hearing was concluded in Hancock district court at Garner on Tuesday afternoon in the case of the State of Iowa ex rel Harvey Harberts et al vs. Klemme Community School district. The case grew out of dissatisfaction of several property owners over inclusion of their land in the Klemme district when it was reorganized

The plaintiffs brought a quo warranto action, which means simply that they were testing legality of the reorganization. Eleven points of dispute were argued before the court.

Judge Tom Boynton was the presiding magistrate. Counsel for both contending parties concluded their arguments about 3:30 p. m. Tuesday and Judge Boynton took the case under advisement. His decision is expected within a relatively short time.

Among the points of dispute was inclusion in the Klemme district of a section and half of land in the former Goodell Independent School district. This land had earlier been included in the area of Belmond Community School district, the proposed boundaries of which had been agreed upon by both the Hancock and Wright county boards of education.

Thief Breaks Into Mussell's Garage

A thief or thieves broke into Mussell Chevrolet garage Tuesday night by smashing a window on the north side, but apparently departed without taking anything.

They had attached the cutting tip to the garage's acetylene torch but couldn't put it to use because it was out of gas. The knob was knocked off the safe but apparently no further effort was made to get into it.

Proprietor Lee Mussell admitted Wednesday morning, "Yesterday I was complaining because the man hadn't shown up with the acetylene gas we'd ordered!"

Belmond Shoppers To Share $1,350 In Valuable Gifts

Christmas will come a day early for more than 100 Belmond shoppers this year, by virtue of plans announced this week by the Retail Bureau of the Belmond Chamber of Commerce. One of the biggest give-away events ever conducted here will find nearly $1,350 worth of fine gifts going to lucky winners on the afternoon of Dec. 24 as climax of a Christmas Festival being sponsored by local business firms.

This festival of gifts will be an added holiday attraction, accompanying the traditional entertainment that the Chamber has for many years planned for the children during the Yule season. Santa Claus will be on hand Saturday of next week and the Saturday following, Dec. 11 and 18, when free movie programs for the kiddies will be presented at the New Belmond theater. The special film programs will start at 1:30 p. m.

Treats on Dec. 23

Climax of the kiddies' entertainment will be Thursday, Dec. 23, at 2:00 p. m. At that time, St. Nick will make his last pre-Christmas appearance on the streets of the business district and will oversee distribution of candy to the youngsters.

Fifty-eight business firms are contributing a total of 131 gifts to make the Christmas Festival an event rarely, if ever, matched here in Belmond. Value of the individual gifts will range all the way from a dollar or so up to more than $300. There will be a number in the $25 to $50 price range.

Just Register

These gifts will be awarded strictly on a registration basis. There will be nothing to buy in order to be eligible and there is no rule prohibiting one person from taking home two or even more of the gift items. Any time between now and the Dec. 24th drawing of winners' names, Belmond shoppers may register each time they call at the place of business of any of the participating firms.

Registrations in each case will be numbered consecutively and at noon on the day before Christmas each of the concerns will conduct an individual drawing to select a winner and that person's name will be posted in the firm's window. All that will be necessary for a winner to get his or her gift will be for the individual to enter the store or office and stake claim.

Highway Gets Icy; Result: 2 Mishaps

First "real winter" weather of the season sent out an advance feeler last Friday and then descended with vengeance on Tuesday, producing treacherous driving conditions that forced motorists to keep sharply alert.

A forceful reminder that bridge surfaces are usually the first portion of a highway to become dangerous was provided by two mishaps Friday noon, not long after the weather took its abrupt turn for the worse.

During the noon hour Don Hood, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Hood, lost control of a car he was driving across the first bridge south of town on Highway 69 and the auto rolled into the 15-to-20-foot ditch on the east side of the road. He was headed south at the time.

Don was taken to Belmond Community hospital, suffering from shock and multiple bruises. He was held for observation until Sunday afternoon. It was feared at first he might have suffered a hip fracture but x-rays showed there was no break.

About 1:30 p. m. an almost identical accident happened to Carmen McLaughlin, daughter of Jack McLaughlin. She was driving south and went into a skid when she reached the first bridge to the north of the city limits on No. 69. Her car, too, plunged into a deep ditch on the east side of the road just after she'd passed over the bridge. She was unhurt except for a bruised and lacerated ankle.

Hood's car was wrecked beyond repair. Several windows in the McLaughlin auto were broken and the top was quite badly mashed but it was estimated that $200 would probably take care of the needed repairs.

City Will Dedicate New Sub-Division Before Long

When the new residential subdivision that has been platted by Clarence Kirkendall is formally dedicated by city officials in the near future, it will mark the first offical addition of city lots to the town of Belmond since dedication of Barry Addition back in 1916.

In today's issue of The Independent, Mr. Kirkendall advertises that sale of lots in Kirkendall Addition is now being promoted. Actually, seven lots have already been purchased, but little effort has been made heretofore by owner of the addition to push the sale of property in the new development.

Includes 56 Lots

With a great deal of building in prospect next spring, Mr. Kirkendall decided that the time has arrived to publicize the development and acquaint potential homebuilders with the plans that have been laid for it. The area of a little over 15 acres was platted not long ago by Rowat-Murray, Engineers. It has been divided into 56 building lots.

Drafting of abstracts is greatly simplified by setting up such a development as a formal addition to an incorporated municipality and dedication by the city is required to give it status as an "addition." That is the reason, Mr. Kirkendall explains, why the city council has been requested to dedicate the sub-division as Kirkendall Addition.

Extensive Interest Shown

When that step has been taken, the entire plat of the development will be recorded at the courthouse and each of the lots in it will be legally recognized as a specific lot within the city of Belmond.

In addition to the seven parties who have already purchased lots, Mr. Kirkendall says that keen interest in the sub-division has been shown by quite a number of potential home-builders currently scouting for home sites. Many have expressed particular approval of the informal arrangement of lots that the plat creates. This follows a trend that has been adhered to in a large majority of residential developments drawn up in recent years.

Moving of old homes onto lots in the addition will not be permitted, according to Mr. Kirkendall, and buyers must agree to build homes costing no less than $10,000 in order to acquire property in the development. These restrictions are being observed, Mr. Kirkendall says, in order that relatively high standards of construction will be met by all homes going up in the sub-division.

Farm buildings belonging to Mr. Kirkendall now occupy some of the lot space in the southeast corner of the development; but these will be removed, the owner says, as soon as sale of properties in that portion of the development makes the step advisable.

Playground Planned

Mr. Kirkendall has endeavored to make the sub-division especially attractive to young people with children by setting aside a sizeable parcel of land for use as a playground. This was not platted into lots and will be reserved for recreational use. He also points out that a majority of the lots will lend themselves to attractive landscaping and that all are sufficiently large to accomodate a garden, if desired.

Average depth of the lots will be 120 feet, though some on the roadways will extend rather deeper than that. Frontages will vary from 55 to 80 feet A number of the lots were left larger than the average to provide ample area for rambling, ranch-style houses.

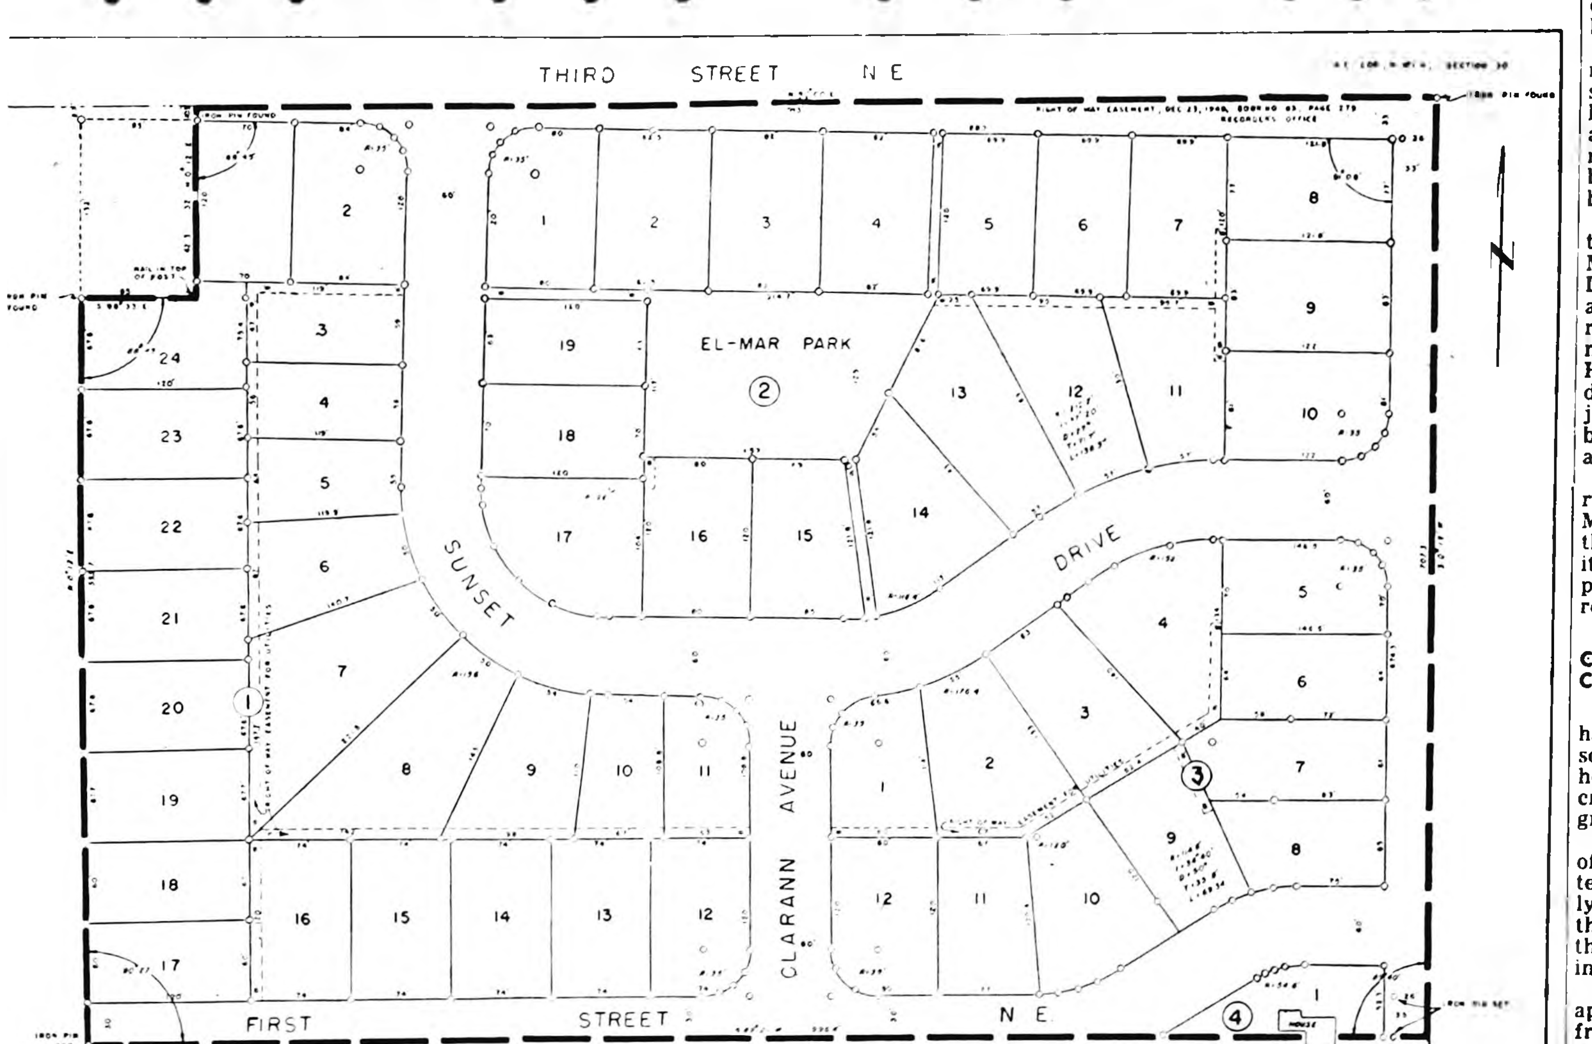
It is the hope of Mr. Kirkendall that at least one of the streets through the development can be cut and graded before the end of the year if circumstances—weather-wise and otherwise—make it feasible.

HAS D. M. POSITION

Mary McKeith, 1953 graduate of Belmond High school, has accepted a position as secretary and receptionist at the Westminister Presbyterian church of Des Moines. She is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. B. McKeith of Earlville. Mr. McKeith was pastor of the Congregational church here prior to answering a call to Earlville two years ago.

CHICKEN-N-BISCUITS

Members of the VFW Auxiliary will serve a chicken-and-biscuit luncheon at Veterans' Memorial hall Saturday noon, starting at 11:30 a. m.



BELMOND'S NEW sub-division, the Kirkendall Addition, presents the above appearance as platted. It is bordered on the north by Third street NE and will be bordered on the south by an extension of First street NE. The gravel road leading to the city cemetery bounds it on the east and the property of the Rock Island railroad on the west. What is shown as Clarann avenue will eventually be extended on south to Main street, just east of the new apartment house being built by Kenneth Kinseth. There will be three blocks in the sub-division, as numbered in the plat drawing. The number indicating Block 2 has been placed in El-Mar Park, an area reserved as space for a playground to serve the children of all families living in the development. Clarence Kirkendall, who owns the sub-division, says he hopes to have Sunset Drive cut as soon as the weather and availability of city road machinery will permit.

23 Bronco Gridders Receive Major Letters; 10 Back Next Season

Twenty-three Belmond High school varsity football players were awarded letters by Coach Dick Hobbs at last night's annual Gridiron club banquet for the high school and junior high players held at the school hot-lunch room. Ten of the letter-winners will be back for further competition next fall, providing Coach Hobbs with a good nucleus around which to build his 1955 team.

In addition to the player awards, manager letters were presented to Pat Smith and Gordon Sandman. Minor B's were awarded by Coach Bob Kratky to 27 froshmore gridders. Of this number, 14 will advance to the varsity ranks next fall as juniors.

Keith Madsen earned his fourth varsity letter for football, Phil Schmitz and Perry Ersland each his third. Seven other seniors lettered for the second time—Dwight Beavers, Ron Hansen, Marlin Jenison, Bob McLaughlin, Kyle Mennenga, LeRoy Smith and Ron Steenblock; and three earned major monograms for the first time—Eugene Nicholson, Harold Steenblock and Jerry Quigley.

Two-time letter-winners among the juniors were Marlan Cunningham, Gary Meyer, Roger Smith, Tom Stadtlander and Arlo Stoltenberg. Third-year men lettering for the first time were Tom Lowenberg and Harold Tendall. Sophomores Gary Ersland and Bill Murray each won a second, major B. Tom McNulty was the lone freshman to qualify for a varsity letter.

McNeal, Toastmaster

Clark McNeal served as toastmaster for the Gridiron banquet. Major speaker was Bob Flora, line coach at the University of Iowa, whose remarks were of an inspirational nature and directed primarily to the athletes. R. W. Courson, newly elected president, took over the duties of his office from Cecil Carstens, retiring head of the Gridiron club. Dick Gowdy succeeded Ellis Elliott at vice president and Lloyd Cunningham moved into the secretarial post vacated by M. B. Dannewitz.

Besides Coach Hobbs, the club members and their guests also heard from Assistant Coaches Bob Kratky and Bob Wilson and from Dick Evenson, coach of the junior high squad.

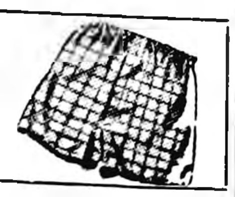
—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS



Haven't heard a single basketball fan express approval of the new freethrow rule that permits an extra try at the hoop after the first toss following a single-shot foul has been made. In a way, it's odd, for certainly the Broncos benefited more than their opponents in the first two games.

Against Hampton, Belmond was allowed 49 charity attempts to only 21 for the Bulldogs. The Broncs accounted for 20 of their 54-point advantage by converting 28 times from the freethrow line while Hampton made good on only eight tries.

It was a little evener proposition against Eagle Grove, because the Belmond boys did almost as much fouling as the Eagles. Still, well over half of the Broncos' 15-point winning margin came on freethrows. They counted on 30 out of 47 chances while the visitors hit on only 21 out of 36 tries.

—PSS—

That Eagle Grove game ran much longer than usual, and time spent on foul shots was clearly the reason. In Belmond's four games in district and sub-state tournament play last season, the Broncos AND their opponents averaged a total of 41.5 free tosses per contest.

In the first two games this season, the Broncs ALONE have averaged 48!

Maybe the Hampton and Eagle Grove games were exceptional from the standpoint of fouls committed; but regardless of that, we suspect that the new freethrow rule has introduced an element into the game which the rule-makers didn't forsee and will find extensively criticized.

—PSS—

That the RULE is at fault, and NOT primarily the number of fouls called is plainly demonstrated by comparing the two games played this season with a "roughie" that was governed by the freethrow regulations in force last year. Hampton and Eagle Grove were guilty of 28 fouls apiece; and, as we noted the result was 96 charity chances for the Broncs. When Clarion played here last season, the Cowboys were called for 30 infractions yet Belmond's cagers toed the line only 37 times.

—PSS—

CAGE NOTES in general: Without delving too deeply into the files, we suspect that the total score in the Eagle Grove fracas (133 points) was next to the highest ever produced in a game involving the Broncos. The only bigger one (147) came out of that 94-53 win over Britt last winter. . . . Unless NIC foes work out some system for putting a collar on Garner's Daryle Jass, the Cardinal star appears headed for an all-time scoring record this season. In his first two starts he amassed 82 points, harvesting 45 against Ventura after that 37-point performance against Fertile. . . . Although Forest City won its opener with Des Moines Tech 53-48, the Indians suffered a third-quarter relapse that made a tough job out of an easy one. At halftime they led 39-17. At three quarters it was FC (still), DMT 35!

—PSS—

Last season, the BHS froshmore cagers lost only four out of 17 games. This year's Junior Broncs have already avenged two of those defeats, suffered at the hands of Hampton (which was victor in a return battle, also) and Eagle Grove. It must be very consoling to Varsity Coach Dick Hobbs to see those Junior Broncs perform. They leave little reason to believe that Belmond's basketball fortunes are due for anything like a serious slump in the near future. Nice stockpile of stuff building up there! Coach Bob Kratky's doing a fine job with those underclassmen.

—PSS—

Not much importance should be attached to comparative scores, but the difference between Forest City's winning margin over Des Moines Tech and the 24-point advantage (66-42) that Eagle Grove established over the same team unquestionably indicates that the Eagles "have something." At the same time, it lends a little added significance to the Broncs' conquest of the Eagles.

Forest City kept its record unmarred by slipping past Alberta Lea last Friday night, 65-63.

Other action involving NIC teams saw Britt nosing out Kanawha in a triple-overtime affair, 63-61; and then losing to Klemme in an extra period, 48-47. Daryle Jass's one-man show enabled Garner to swamp Ventura, 89-49. After leading by only a point at halftime, Lake Mills finished strong to whip St. Ansgar, 73-55; and Northwood suffered its first loss, bowing to Holy Family (MC), 65-50.

—PSS—

Only a mediocre (for her) 140 second game last Tuesday night prevented Leona Suntken of the Flanagan Realty bowling team from joining the 600 Club. That 140 was bracketed by a 246 opener and a 200 wind-up game, leaving Leona only 14 pins short of a really super-series. Even so, her 246 and 586 for high game and series will give members of the Women's Bowling league a couple of tough targets to shoot at.

Bronc Cagers Face Two Loop Rivals; Lake Mills in Pair of Key Battles

CONFERENCE GAMES
Belmond at Britt
Forest City at Buffalo Center
Garner at Lake Mills
Next Tuesday
Northwood at Belmond
Buffalo Center at Garner
Lake Mills at Forest City

Belmond's Broncos will get their conference campaign launched this coming Friday and Tuesday with a pair of games against teams not rated among the top contenders for the title—Britt and Northwood. They will travel to Britt tomorrow and meet the Vikings here Tuesday night. Northwood, particularly, provided plenty of opposition last season and it can be counted on that the Broncs will be prepared to "put out" in both contests to assure getting their title defense off to a winning start.

Two highly significant games will figure in the first two rounds of North Iowa loop play, involving three teams that are unquestionably hoping to figure in the battle for the conference crown. Friday night, Garner goes to Lake Mills for what promises to be a real scrap. The Cards completely outclassed the Bulldogs when they tangled in the NIC jamboree, but Lake Mills has improved rapidly since then. If the rangy Lake Mills aggregation can find a way to control Garner's high-scoring Daryle Jass, it should be a touch-and-go contest.

Bulldogs vs. Indians

On Tuesday evening the Bulldogs square off with Forest City. Although the Indians have not been overly impressive in their early games, Coach Norm Jesperson is one of the loop's best cage mentors and can always be counted on to produce a better than fair team. Playing at Forest City, Lake Mills will find the Indians a tough assignment, but the Bulldogs' height advantage might turn the trick.

Only a major upset could produce a defeat for the Broncos in their first pair of NIC tests. Britt, led by Jim and Dale Nielson, has a fast aggregation; but the Eagles are inexperienced and average much shorter than the Belmond crew. Britt has been finding plenty of tough sledding against mediocre foes in its early games.

Coach Lyle Bestul at Northwood has both height and seasoned men in key positions, but the Vikings haven't appeared as strong in their starts so far this season as they were a year ago. With 6-5 Norris Julson at center, Northwood boasts a height average well in excess of six feet.

The joust with the Vikings will give Belmond fans their first opportunity to see the Broncs face a conference opponent on the home floor, so another standing-room-only crowd can be expected. There will be a froshmore curtain-raiser at 7:00 p m.

He was rushed to the Belmond hospital, where Dr. S. P. Leinbach at first feared for one of the child's eyes. However, after stitches had been taken and necessary medication applied it appeared certain the eye would be alright.

MATTER OF SOLDIERS RELIEF RAISING QUESTIONS ELSEWHERE BESIDES WRIGHT

It was with some satisfaction that this writer noted that soldiers relief was one of the subjects that came in for major attention at the annual state convention of the Iowa Taxpayers association held a couple of weeks ago at Des Moines. As several editorials during the past half year have indicated, The Independent regards that the matter of soldiers relief is one that Wright countians might advisedly concern themselves with. In view of the drastic increase in soldiers relief expenditures in the past 10 years, some consideration of the exact causes of the burgeoning costs would seem not amiss.

One thing that has particularly disturbed The Independent is the fact that outlays for soldiers relief next year promise to outstrip the cost of general county welfare aid for the first time. More than that, the steady upward trend in aid to Wright county's ex-servicemen and their families suggests that the end is by no means in sight.

Below we present a comparison of soldiers relief and general welfare costs in Wright county for the past 10 years, along with the appropriations made for those two purposes in 1955:

Year	Soldiers Relief	Poor Fund
1955*	$30,000	$28,000
1954*	17,500	35,000
1953	21,516	24,362
1952	19,190	29,873
1951	17,633	31,527
1949	15,697	23,339
1948	13,729	24,124
1947	9,203	24.085
1946	4,465	28.170

* Figures for 1954-55 are "proposed expenditures;" for the other years, actual expenditures. For the current year, an additional $10,000 has been transferred to soldiers relief, over and above the original appropriation.

Surely no taxpayers is going to debate the justice of seeing that an ex-serviceman who is in financial straits should be given assistance for such period as might be necessary for him to get on a steady footing again. There would appear to be some question, however, whether as much stress is put on rehabilitation by the soldier relief commission as is endeavored by the welfare office.

It may be that the rising cost of soldiers relief is entirely defensible. We would by no means insist the contrary is true. On the other hand, soldiers relief costs in counties comparable to Wright have not sky-rocketed in corresponding fashion, and it is difficult to understand why the problem here should be so much more severe.

Fred Fulton, local member of the soldiers relief commission, has kindly assured The Independent that any non-confidential information it might wish will be made available if it wishes to go into the matter. We hope, when time permits, to analyze the situation and see if some explanation for Wright's higher than normal costs can be discovered.

S-D DAY PROPOSITION CHALLENGES US TO BE SMART FOR A DAY—IF POSSIBLE

You'll be reading a good deal between now and the date of Dec. 15 regarding S-D Day, which has been declared by the President's Action Committee for Traffic Safety for that date. Purpose of the Safe Driving Day is to demonstrate that traffic accidents CAN be reduced materially if all motorists and pedestrians do their part.

It's an intriguing idea—this proposition of inviting all persons who must subject themselves to the hazards of traffic to actually THINK about what they're doing for one, 24-hour period. And it will be highly interesting to see just what success the intensive period of publicity will produce.

All of us know that thoughtlessness is the No. 1 villian, where this nation's outlandish traffic toll is concerned. Just plain thoughtlessness, expressed in the form of excessive speed, heedless chance-taking, indulging in "one for the road." Even placing too much confidence in "the other fellow" can be a fatal error.

Actually, all that the President's Action Committee is asking of us is that for a 24-hour period we behave ourselves as if life were of some importance to us. Doesn't sound like an out-of-the-way request, does it? Certainly Iowa would benefit by cooperating wholeheartedly in the undertaking. As of last Friday, this state's 1954 traffic toll was outstripping last year's by a margin of 34 lives. The total stood at 575.

So let's all get in the proper frame of mind for being "smart" for a day. It may be quite a strain, in some instances. But the pay-off's good!

Local Minister Tells Impressions Based on Recent Inspection of State Mental Hospital at Cherokee

(Last week, Rev. William Schorman, pastor of the Congregational church, visited the state mental hospital at Cherokee in the company with eight other ministers. The Independent invited him to put in letter form such observations as the visit might have prompted They appear below.)

Belmond, Iowa
Nov. 26, 1954

Editor,
Belmond Independent
Belmond, Iowa

Dear Sir:

I recently visited the state mental hospital at Cherokee along with a group of eight other ministers, and I would like to share with you some of my observations. Mental illness and its treatment becomes important to us when we have a relative or a loved one who needs treatment—and figures show that one out of 20 will spend some time in a mental institution.

My general reaction to Cherokee was a favorable one. Recent years have seen many improvements in the care of mental patients. During 2½ years in which I worked in hospitals in other states some years ago, I witnessed abuse of patients that was hard to imagine in a so-called civilized country. There was neglect, abuse, filth and such poor facilities that even the best attendants could do little for the patients.

Cherokee is much different. The wards were clean; the beds had clean linen; the equipment was in good shape; every ward seemed to have a TV set. Still, in every ward there were signs of serious overcrowding with beds set up in corridors and hallways.

Although the hospital is way understaffed according to the minimum standards of the American Psychiatric association, the hospital is trying to cure the patients rather than merely care for them for life. Not counting the senile patients, a high proportion of patients being admitted for the first time are able to go home within a few months' time.

Again, on the whole I was impressed with the hospital and with the staff. Yet, while the days of abuse and neglect seem to be passing, there are still terrific needs shown by the following deficiencies:

(1) Iowa has no place for psychotic (mentally disturbed) children! They are thrown on the wards with adults in our mental hospitals; or at times sent to Woodward, where they do not fit into that institution, which is designed for the feeble-minded and not for the psychotic. (Children don't vote, you know.)

(2) For lack of money, the occupational therapy department for men is closed. For lack of help, many patients in good health have not been able to go outdoors for many weeks or months.

(3) Trained attendants are scarce and will remain so as long as the starting salary is $115 a month. If you live off the grounds and thus do not receive board and room, you get an extra $36 a month At this salary, stable, reliable family men cannot take a job as attendants. As a result, many of those hired are floaters, drifters and alcoholics who work for a few weeks or months and then move along.

There are older men working who are not of this sort, and there are some younger men who are dedicated to their work; but by and large, Cherokee has the same problem as hospitals all across the country — underpaid and untrained attendants. Along with a sizeable increase in salary, better living for the workers would attract more and better help.

It is difficult to paint an objective picture of Cherokee. Those persons who have relatives at Cherokee can be assured that they ore receiving decent care — and in view of the large number of patients who are discharged, it could be called adequate care. Yet, as one who has worked around hospitals, I regard that a serious need is still there.

I noticed a few weeks ago where a Taxpayers' League had met somewhere in the state and advocated a "hold the line policy" in regard to increased taxes. It may be economy to skimp on our care of the mentally ill, but it is not Christian economy. Too, I believe that those of the Taxpayers' League would have a different attitude if their wives became ill and had to go to one of our institutions.

Increased appropriations today could save us money in the long run. With more appropriations making it possible to give more adequate treatment, more patients could be treated and returned to society.

All too often, the mentally ill are forgotten, or as the saying goes "out of sight, out of mind." Without a vote, and without a voice, they are dependent upon us for enlightened, adequate treatment. The responsibility is ours for giving them the care they deserve.

Sincerely yours,
William R. Schorman

What Other Ed's Are Saying

James A. Campbell, Spencer Daily Reporter, Praises Husband's Protective Association

For some unknown reason this writer has been awarded a membership in the Husbands Protective Association.

I received a handsome blue (an appropriate color) card which entitles me to "one night out each week, and one kind word from my wife every month." And, in addition, a year's subscription to a wonderful little paper, the Husbands Home Journal, (The publishers point out that the Husbands Home Journal should not be confused with the Ladies Home Journal).

oOo

For years we men have been subjected to all types of inhuman treatment, such as washing dishes, etc., at the hands of the "little woman." This organization proposes to put an end to such nonsense and return the male animal to his rightful position as master of his home.

What an ambitious, worthy goal!

There are all types of helpful hints in the Husbands Home Journal which will help husbands attain this goal. Among them is an entire section devoted to a new science called "Alibiology." This deals exclusively with surefire answers when your spouse, her hair done up in pin curlers and clad in bathrobe, slippers, and rolling pin, greets you at the door and demands, "Where have YOU been?"

A couple of choice selections:

The old school pal story: You prudently phone your wife ahead of time to let her know that you've run into an old pal of your school days. Let her know what's happened and tell her you are spending the evening with him (be sure it's somebody she doesn't know). This works swell if you pick the name of some kid you used to know, because you can always imagine what it would be like to meet him again, and you can tell your wife all about it afterwards.

Here's one than can guarantee you a night out every week for that poker game with the boys: Tell the little woman you are taking a night school course. Make sure it is a subject with which you are familiar, so you can relate little incidents that could have happened in class to substantiate your story. Better attend an obscure school not listed in the telephone directory.

One of the cardinal rules of this new organization, and one we're particularly fond of, is the ban against husbands washing dishes. The club has a way of stopping such inhuman treatment, too — they simply publish the name of wives who persistently pressure their mates to do such menial tasks.

Another piece of sage advice imparted by the Husbands Home Journal is for men, instead of trying to argue with their mates, give in to her on all the little things and on none of the big ones. If you use this system, she'll be happy because she has her own way most of the time, and you'll be satisfied to have your way on the things that really matter.

For instance:

If she tells you to move the furniture back where it was last week before she had you move it where it is now, move it. If she wants candy and flowers, buy them. BUT if she wants to travel half way across the country to visit Aunt Minnie or wants you to buy her a fur coat, use your own judgment.

Personally, although this organization has merit, it is doubtful if it ever achieves widespread acceptance. Men are men and women are still women, and to borrow a phrase from the LADIES Home Journal, "Never underestimate the power of a woman!"

Formal Opening Of Marie's Store Friday, Saturday

Marie Albers is holding the grand opening of her new general store in Meservey this Friday and Saturday and in this issue of The Independent issues a cordial invitation to all her friends and patrons to come in and inspect the new super-market.

Her business is now known as Marie's General Store, that title replacing the "MBA Store" that identified the business previously. In order to share with the public her pleasure over transfer of the business to its new quarters, Miss Albers plans to give away more than $100 worth of door prizes. Also, she will serve free coffee and doughnuts all day Saturday.

Business Growing

Building of the fine, new store accurately indicates that her business has grown steadily since she came to Meservey in August of 1948 to operate the MBA store, Miss Albers says. She adds that she is deeply grateful for the excellent patronage that made the new business site possible.

Constructed mainly by Enno Ostendorf, Lowell Gatzke and Ronald Ruiter, with the help of several other workmen, the 30x90-foot building was especially designed for self-service. Miss Albers expects that she and Alvina Kuhlers, who has been clerking for her, will be able to handle the business nicely between them.

Toys, Gift Novelties

New equipment and fixtures include brand new counters and shelving throughout the store, a new dairy case and new fluorescent fixtures for lighting. Miss Albers actually moved into the new location two weeks ago, but has meantime been arranging her departments in preparation for the formal opening.

Besides the groceries, meats, dry goods and similar wares carried before, Miss Albers says she is now stocking a wide line of toys and gift novelties for the Christmas trade.

Hensels to Open Thirtieth Season With Open House

Alexander Hatchery will launch its 30th hatching season on Thursday of next week with a repetition of the annual open house that has become one of the real highlights of the holiday season for Alexander and the considerable territory that the hatchery serves.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hensel, the proprietors, and their son Ed have made the customary plans to provide all poultry raisers of this vicinity with a good time during their open house. Throughout the day a free smorgasbord will be set up at the hatchery.

In addition, 10 guests of the Hensels will win free turkeys during the open house and there will be other gifts for general distribution.

The Hensels have taken advantage of the "off season" lull in their business to extensively rearrange the hatchery and have also purchased all new incubators for the coming season. They point out that this will mean better service for their customers, which is their constant objective.

In case any of our local advertisers are thinking of throwing over the good ol' Independent for a four-color page in the Reader's Digest, now that that eminent publication is about to accept advertising, we'd like to warn them that the tab runs a bit high.

Of course, the Digest has circulation that has ours (3,350 homes, in combination with the Belmond Buyers Guide) beat by a few million; but the price of $31,000 for a single 7½x5¼-inch page gives one to think.

For the same amount, we'll give you a weekly full page in The Independent AND Buyers Guide for just 12 weeks less than seven years; great big 22x16½-inch pages. In fact, we might even consider making it seven FULL years. Come on in and let's dicker.

Hospital Administrator "Stu" Kutz asks us to express the hospital's appreciation for the prompt and generous response of the public to its recent plea for magazines. He reports the magazines and comic books really poured in—so much so that a near over-abundance has been collected. "We have a great plenty for now," Mr. Kutz says, "So PLEASE call 'em off. There'll no doubt be other times later on when we issue the request again. Until then, though, we have all we can possibly use."

Those envelopes that were to receive donations to the cause of muscular dystrophy apparently were either lost in transit or were never mailed from the office of the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America.

That's the explanation offered by Postmaster J. C. Brady for failure of the local MD fund campaign to take place as publicized.

Several volunteer contributions for muscular dystrophy research have been delivered personally to Mr. Brady. He says he'll be happy to accept any additional donations and will see they're forwarded to the MDAA headquarters.

We regret to say that in the rush of contacting Meservey friends of Marie Albers who wished to congratulate her on the formal opening of her new store last week, lack of time made it impossible for Advertising Manager Dick Gowdy to see all he wanted to.

As a result, there were some persons missing from the list that WOULD have been there, had they been queried in regard to co-sponsoring the congratulatory message.

Those omitted were sorry about it; and we're sorry about it. All Meservey is rightfully proud of Marie's fine, new general store. It's a very noteworthy addition to the business district of our up-and-coming neighbors to the east.

Looks as if we'll never lay "the Rowan story" to rest. Mary Calhoon Polmateer recently dropped us a note saying that she was born at Fryburg, when there WAS a Fryburg down in the Horse Grove neighborhood, on Oct. 4, 1880.

"When I was about four or five years old," she relates, "my oldest brother and I used to walk down to see these old folks (the Robert Rowens, we presume) and sit in the evening and watch him hit bats with his cane. My youngest brother was named after him."

Mr. Rowen may have been "old folks" at the time, but if he could clip a passing bat with his cane, he still had a considerable degree of agility left. Or maybe Mrs. Polmateer means, bat AT the bats. We thought they were radar equipped.

Received a note from Mrs. Winston Weber, Odessa, Wash., containing a clipping about the death of former Belmondite John R. Byers. Mrs. W., who was Catherine McLaughlin before her marriage, has one of the neatest script, handwriting styles we've ever seen.

She inserted in her brief message, "Congratulations to the Lions for getting a swimming pool project started."

Then she added, "I grew up in Belmond without learning to swim and regret it each time I go salmon or trout fishing. Fortunately, my husband has been both a lifeguard and swimming instructor and I have much confidence in his aquatic ability." Always nice to hear from friends afar.

Body of Private Tony Jones, Casualty of Korean War, Recovered

Home Decorating Contest Planned

As inspiration toward inducing Belmond residents to give their homes and lawns the "holiday look," a Christmas-lighting contest is planned by the Civic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce. Prizes will be $25 for first, $15 for second and $10 for third, providing enough "capital" that families can afford to spend a bit on appropriate decorations to really produce a gala appearance in the residential area. There are no restrictions on the type of decoration that may be undertaken. Len Collier and Dr. P. A. Rietz, the bureau co-chairmen, urge only that decorations go up as soon as convenient. Judges will be announced next week. Some fine contests of a similar nature have been held here in past years, and the civic bureau hopes that public response will make this one among the best.

PVT. ANTHONY JONES
Coming Home to Final Rest

En Route to This Country; Funeral Rites, Burial Here

Word has been received from the office of the U. S Army Quartermaster General at Washington, D. C., by Mrs. Grace Jones that the body of her son, Anthony J. Jones, is en route to the United States from Korea. The message was received via telegram delivered Wednesday of last week.

In mid-November, Mrs. Jones reports, she received a communication from Col Roy A. Wall, chief of the Memorial Divison of the Quartermaster General's office, stating that the body of Private Jones had been recovered from a shallow grave near Tumil-li, North Korea.

Colonel Wall informed Mrs. Jones that identification had been conclusively established by specialists at an Army laboratory located at Camp Kokura, Kyushu, Japan.

Locale Clue to Identity

The grave was found in the immediate vicinity where "Tony" Jones was reported to have lost his life. The body of another boy who had been killed in the same action was recovered nearby, substantiating identification of the Belmond soldier's remains.

It was explained by Colonel Wall that detailed comparisons are made with missing soldiers' medical records as to height, weight, age, hair color and other physical characteristics and also with dental records to assure accurate identification.

This information is then compared against the records of all unresolved casualties from the general area where a body has been recovered

Killed July 22, 1951

Private Jones was killed in action on July 22, 1951, just 26 days before his 20th birthday. He had been in Korea since the previous May. Burial in a national cemetery of the family's choice was offered by the Quartermaster General's office, but Mrs. Jones has made arrangements with Fulton Funeral Home for service to be conducted here, with burial in the local cemetery.

No information was received regarding the ship aboard which the body is being transported to the States or its scheduled time of arrival. It is assumed, though, that the body will arrive here with military escort very late this month or, more likely, sometime after the first of the year.

BAKE SALE SATURDAY

Members of the Congregational church Women's Fellowship will conduct a bake sale at the Tip Top grocery this Saturday morning, selling to start at 9:00 o'clock.

Local Unit of GOC and State Radio Station Take Part in Defense Test

Both the Belmond unit of the Ground Observer Corps and the radio station of the State Department of Public Safety, just south of Goodell, cooperated yesterday in "Operation Smoothout," an air raid warning exercise involving the entire eight-state area that falls in Federal Civil Defense Region 4.

This exercise extended from 2:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon until 10:00 o'clock last night. It represented a distinctive "first" for the Iowa Civil Air Patrol when that organization was the first of its kind in the USA to participate in a night mission in a standby area of the GOC. It was also the first time the Iowa GOC has had a statewide night alert.

Ed Reasoner, supervisor of the Belmond unit of the GOC, and "Bud" Packard, chief observer, had the local Ground Observation post manned during the exercise to report to Des Moines filter center on flights detected during the test period. The test was designed to increase operational capabilities, give additional training and smooth out weaknesses and deficiencies discovered during "Operation Alert" last June.

Supervisor Emmett King at the state radio station said that the radio communications division of the public safety department was alerted to cooperate in a check of communications equipment that was a phase of the exercise.

The state office of Civil Defense ran equipment tests in conjunction with the State Highway Patrol facilities to develop a secondary communications plan to be used in event other facilities should fail. Supervisor King says the state radio station monitors three frequencies in addition to the one it transmits on and could be used for emergency communication purposes in case of failure of Civil Defense facilities.

New Cook Book Placed on Sale

Favorite recipes of scores of Belmond's finest cooks, along with a scattering of time-tested favorites contributed by women of neighboring communities, have been gathered together in a brand, new cook book.

This 100-page treasure trove of good eating was compiled by the Esther Circle of the Methodist church and its publication was especially timed so that copies might be purchased for Christmas gifts.

The Belmond Community Cook Book is priced at $1.25 and copies can be obtained by a phone call to Mrs. Dick Middleton, Mrs. George Jenison or Mrs. L. M. Helland. The supply is limited, so the women suggest that any persons wishing to obtain some of the books should order promptly.

$150 PAID OUT

Christmas came early for a couple of lucky ladies Tuesday afternoon as $150 in Cash Gift Day money found claimants. Mrs. Tom Toft walked off with one of the four $25 awards at 2:00 p. m.; and at 3:00 o'clock Mrs. George Waddington turned in the number that was worth $125. Departure of all that cash calls for retrenchment next Tuesday. The prizes will still be well worth a trip downtown, though. There'll be two $25's drawn for a 2:00—and the 3:00 o'clock prize will be $100.

Plant Operation Down to 5 Days

Last weekend, a further cut-back in the operating week of the General Mills soybean processing plant saw the days cut from six to five. A cut-back from week-around operation to six days had been put into effect just two weeks earlier

At that time, the work week of plant employees had been reduced from 48 to 40 hours. The work week remains the same, under the latest change. The plant is now idle from 8:00 a. m. Saturday until 8:00 a. m. Monday.

Walt Hotvet, plant superintendent, says that plans tentatively call for continuation of the five-day week through the month of December. Whether it will be necessary to continue on that operating basis for a longer period of time depends upon what the situation in the soybean industry is the first of the year.

Despite the additional cut-back in plant operation, lay-offs have been kept to a minimum, Mr. Hotvet says. Last weekend's action made it necessary to drop six men for the time being, the victims being the half dozen men who'd been most lately added to the payroll.

Postmaster Brady Asks, "Mail Now"

Postmaster J. C. Brady urges patrons of the Belmond post office to get their Christmas mailing done just as soon as possible. He says the postal service makes every effort to assure delivery of Christmas parcels on time; but the public's cooperation is needed.

"We suggest you complete your shopping for distant friends and relatives as early as you can," says Mr. Brady, "so you can get your packages into the mail before the peak of the holiday rush begins.

"With your help, all deliveries will be made in good time—and everybody will be happy."

School Vocalists In Yule Concert

Annual Christmas concert of the Belmond High school and junior high music groups will be presented this Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock. David Weltha is director of the high school mixed chorus, girls glee club and small groups that will take part and Donna Doeringsfeld is director of the junior high chorus.

Selections both traditional and modern, and in the religious and popular vein will be included on the varied program. Favorite Christmas carols will be featured as musical accompaniment to narration of "The Christmas Story" by Pat Smith. The small vocal groups of the high school music department will be heard in this number.

Accompanists for the Christmas concert will be Carolyn Classick, Shirley Pals and Bill Halfwassen. Special scenery for the holiday music fest has been prepared by Art Instructor Don Carnahan and Pat Smith.

WESSELS SALE TODAY

This (Thursday) afternoon at 1:00 o'clock, Fred Wessels is holding a closing out sale on the farm located three miles east, two north and three-quarters east of Belmond. He is closing out his entire holdings of farm machinery and equipment. Fred is quitting farming, his decision being prompted by sale of the farm he has been tenanting.

Three Burglaries Committed Here Within One Week; School Safe Broken into Monday Night, $193 Taken

Belmond's third burglary within the period of a week resulted in the high school safe being tapped for $193 sometime between 11:00 p m Monday and 6:00 a. m. Tuesday. It is suspected by Sheriff Bob Blecker that the same thief, or thieves, were responsible for all three safe jobs.

On Tuesday night of last week, the offices of both Mussell Chevrolet garage and Followwill Implement and Feed company were entered. As reported in last week's Independent, Mussell's safe was damaged but the attempt to open it was unsuccessful.

Same "M. O." Each Time

Followwill's belatedly reported to Sheriff Blecker that on the same night that store was entered by means of a window on the south side and the safe broken into. It was secured by a hasp and padlock. A bank sack containing a small amount of change was ignored and there was no other money in the safe.

Sheriff Blecker says the same mode of operation was followed in all three cases, lending weight to the belief that one party was responsible for all three entries. He added, though, that the success met in opening the high school safe suggested either that the thief had improved his technique in a week's time or that he was luckier in his efforts.

Shop Room Entered

In addition to Supt. Don Faris' office, where the safe is located, the intruder also broke into the industrial arts shop at the high school. There is a possibility that some tools were borrowed there for punching the safe lock. But if so, they were carefully returned, as Shop Instructor Bob Kratky could find nothing missing.

Because of the thief's apparent familiarity with the whereabouts of the shop room, Sheriff Blecker is inclined to suspect that "home talent" has been responsible for the break-ins.

No Clues As Yet

Investigation shed no light on how the thief got into the school. No outer doors or windows had been forced. Since Monday is Adult Education night at the school, the sheriff regards it possible that the culprit hid in the building during the evening while the front door was unlocked.

Sheriff Blecker admits that at this point he has no clues as to the thief's identity. He plans on further investigation, though, and is hopeful that a lead may be turned up that will prove helpful in apprehending the guilty party.

Could Have Been Worse

Mr. Faris reported that $60 in bills and $133 in change was taken. It belonged to the student activity fund and had been kept on hand for the purpose of making ticket change at Tuesday night's basketball game with Northwood. On Monday afternoon, $700 in cash had been banked; so the loss could have been considerably heavier.

Burglarly insurance is not carried by the school, because losses over a span of time would almost inevitably be so small as to not justify cost of the protection.

Don't Use Sleds On Icy Streets, Hokel Requests

Mayor Hokel publishes a request in today's paper asking parents of local teen-agers to warn them against sledding on icy streets—and especially against "hooking" rides with passing cars.

He says he has received numerous complaints against this hazardous practice and warns that some child is almost certain to suffer serious injury unless it is stopped.

One sled—fortunately unoccupied at the moment—has already been smashed by a passing car, Mayor Hokel reports. A tragedy could just as well have resulted, however, he points out

A youngster "hooking" a ride by grabbing the bumper of a slow-passing auto is no less than taking his life in his hands, Mayor Hokel stresses. He hopes that parental cooperation will bring to a stop indulgence in this dangerous "fun."

Safety Chairman Asks Cooperation Of All Motorists

Mayor Don Mitchell of Eagle Grove, safety chairman for Wright county by appointment of State Safety Commissioner Pearl W. McMurray, appealed to all Wright countians this week to help establish "a perfect record of no traffic accidents next Wednesday, Dec. 15."

That date is "Safe-Driving Day" in Iowa and the nation, a 24-hour period in which safety leaders hope drivers will give all past achievements in traffic safety an unforgettable beating.

"If we can help keep one complete day free of traffic accidents in this state, we will have taken a tremendous step toward better accident prevention," Mr. Mitchell declared.

No Accidents Year Ago

Safety Commissioner Murray expresses the hope that even one accident-free day in Iowa "will make drivers realize that they, personally, can beat down this traffic menace that yearly kills some 600 of our citizens and maims many times that number."

Mayor Mitchell is happy to report that Wright county was one out of 63 counties in Iowa that had no traffic accidents within their borders on Dec. 15th of last year. The other 36 counties were not so fortunate. Their combined toll that day was six killed and 41 injured as 73 passenger cars and 23 trucks were involved in 60 accidents.

50 Cities' Records Marred

These accidents were all out on the highways or country roads. In addition, 50 communities reported traffic mishaps that injured 21 persons and damaged 231 cars and 29 trucks. No fatalities resulted.

The Independent joins with state and county safety officials in urging all-out cooperation of its readers on S-D Day. The publishers suggest you take note of this newspaper's own remarks in relation to Safe-Driving Day, to be found on the editorial page.

HOSPITAL GIVEN WALKER

Administrator Stuart Kutz announces that the Belmond Community hospital has received a walker, donated by Mrs. Carol Miner as a memorial to her mother, the late Mrs. Mabel Kachelhoffer. This piece of equipment will be of great value, he says, to patients recovering from leg injuries or ailments and to ambulatory patients still too weak to walk well entirely under their own power.

Broncs Defeat Northwood, 44 to 33; Share Conference Lead with Indians

After a dull first half that saw the Broncos let the visiting Vikings set the pace most of the way, to Northwood's obvious advantage, the Belmond High basketeers broke loose after intermission to post a 44-33 victory here Tuesday evening. The Broncs' passing was not up to par and their rebounding, especially in the first half, left a good deal to be desired. But they had what it took to win—and that's what counts during the early-season shakedown period.

The first half was played virtually in waltz tempo. The fact that only two fouls were called against each of the teams accurately suggests that neither team was especially strong on aggressiveness. Belmond had only three chances from the free throw line in the first two stanzas and missed on all of them. It was unquestionably the first time in years that a Bronco team has failed to score on a single charity toss in the course of an entire half. Northwood had four free throw chances and made each of them count.

18-All at Halftime

It took a fairly long shot by Keith Madsen just ahead of the first quarter buzzer to give Belmond a tie with the Vikings at 10-all as the period ended. The Broncs built up an 18-14 advantage near the end of the second quarter, but Northwood pulled even at 18-18 before time was called for the intermission.

After the Vikings went ahead by scoring the first basket of the third period, the Belmond crew took command and by end of the quarter possessed a relatively secure 33-22 advantage. The Broncs ran their margin to 15 points, 40-25, in the final canto before the Vikings again reduced it to 11 in the fading moments of the game.

Julson High Scorer

Towering Norris Julson was mainly responsible for keeping the visitors within hailing distance of the Broncos as he racked up 15 points. Guard Mace Reyerson played a good floor game for the losers and contributed six points.

The tall and the short of it—Ron Hansen and Keith Madsen—shared scoring honors for Belmond by hitting for 12 apiece. LeRoy Smith was good for eight, Tom Lowenberg for six, Gene Mehl for four and Jerry Chandler for two.

Froshmores Win Easily

The Belmond froshmores kept pace with the varsity by chalking up their fourth win in a row, although without the services of Gary Ersland, their regular center. Ersland was home sick and the post spot was taken over by Tom McNulty. The Junior Broncs dominated play throughout the contest, holding a 24-11 bulge at halftime and going on to an easy 46-31 conquest.

Larry Schimp was again the stand-out scorer, whipping the net for 20 points. McNulty donated six to the cause, as did Dave Long and Bill Murray. Lee with 12 and McHenry with 10 carried the load for Northwood.

When The Independent was given the names of local relatives who attended the recent funeral for Frank Dorr at Foley, Minn., that of Leo Dorr, Sr., was omitted. He drove a car, taking half of the Belmond group that went up to Foley for the rites.

Sheller Building New Barber Shop

Work was started this week on razing the Earl Sheller barber shop on Main street to make way for construction of a new building on the same site. The contractors, A. R. Dorr Sons, expect to get the footings poured this week.

Previous obligations will prevent the Dorrs from erecting the new shop until January Mr. Sheller hopes it will be ready to move into soon after the first of February. Meanwhile, he is occupying shop space just south of Dougherty's jewelry store.

Tearing down of the old shop does away with one Main street's landmarks. It's age isn't exactly known by Mr. Sheller, but he says it dates back to the 1880's or before.

It was the law office of an early Belmond attorney, "Bill" Bullard, for many years. Mr. Sheller bought it from the Bullard estate last year.

The 12x24-foot frame structure will be replaced by a tile block building 22x30 feet in dimension. This will provide space for the barber shop in the west half and the east half will be designed for office use. Mr. Sheller plans to rent the office.

Accepting Rides With Strangers Foolish: Sheriff

Sheriff Bob Blecker issues a request to all parents to warn their children against accepting auto rides with strangers. His reminder that this advice cannot be too strenously emphasized was prompted by an experience to which a 16-year-old Goldfield girl was subjected on Monday of this week.

About 5:30 p. m. she was stopped by a man driving a late model, two-tone Cadillac and asked if she would be interested in a baby-sitting job. Desiring to make some Christmas money, she accepted his offer of a ride to his home and got into the car.

After driving about a mile into the country, the stranger threatened to kill the youngster if she refused to submit to his improper advances. In panic, she opened the car door and jumped out. Fortunately, the auto was traveling at a slow speed and she was not hurt.

The man—described as about 40 years old, dark-haired and distinguished by a large nose—sped off.

Social Security, Taxes Scheduled As Class Topics

Farmers who would like to know more about the Social Security program, which includes them after the first of the year, are urged to attend the Adult Education class in agriculture next Monday evening at the high school.

Francis Kelly, "voc ag." instructor, says the class starting time will be set back to 8:00 p. m. so men can attend the Sportsman's club dinner and still be in time for the special class session on Social Security and income tax.

Both topics will be discussed by a three-man panel consisting of: Luin Cox, cashier of the First State bank; W. W. Simms of Simms Bookkeeping Service; and Jack Lansing, agent for Northwestern Mutual Life insurance.

Missionary's Wife Back Home Again

Word has been received by Belmond friends from Rev. Emory Van Gerpen that his wife Phyllis is now back at the Sudan Interior Mission, Wagini, Northern Nigeria, where the young couple are serving as missionaries.

At the time an account of her illness appeared in The Independent a number of weeks ago, she had been taken to the city of Jos for hospitalization during a bout with infectious jaundice. Emory reports that Mrs. Van Gerpen is "able to be up and about but isn't back to work yet."

He added that word was receiver on Armistice Day to the effect that another missionary worker was being assigned to Wagini for six months, while Phyllis is recuperating from her illness. "We'll be happy for her coming," he wrote, "because it will mean doing things that have of necessity had to go undone for some time."

Letters-to-Santa Contest All Set

Six youngsters in Belmond and surrounding vicinity will be awarded prizes in the 8th annual Letters-to-Santa contest that is being sponsored by The Independent and 10 other local business firms. First prize winner will receive a check for $15, second place will bring $7.50, third $5, and $2.50 will be paid to winners of each of the next three places.

Co-sponsors of the contest, in addition to this newspaper, are Belmond Co-op Creamery, Mello Maid Ice Cream shop, Farmers Grain company, Farmers Implement store, Iowa Electric Light and Power company, First State bank, Rowat-Murray Engineers, Belmond Greenhouse, Meints Produce and Followwill Implement and Feed company.

Boys and girls up to and including 10 years of age are eligible to take part in the contest. All letters should be addressed to Santa Claus, in care of The Belmond Independent. To receive consideration in the judging, letters must be received at The Independent office by 6:00 p. m. on Tuesday, Dec. 21. Any child within the age limit who lives in the Belmond trade area can compete for the prizes.

Originality will count heavily in picking the winners. They will be scored on neatness, too. Tiny tots too young to write may be assisted by their parents or another relative; but children who are old enough to write their own letters will stand a better chance if they do so Letters should not be more than 100 words in length.

All letters will be forwarded by The Independent to St. Nick, himself. The contest ends only 12 days after today, kiddies, so get at those letters right away!

ELECTRICAL JOB LET

Packard and Jenison, Belmond electrical firm, last week was awarded the contract for electrical work on the new General Mills feed plant. Work on the job was started a week ago Wednesday. The contract figure was not divulged.

Tape Recorder Permits Students of BHS to Hear Theirsel's as Others Hear Them

> "O wad some Pow'r the giftie gie us
> To see oursels as ithers see us!"

While Belmond High school students don't have a mirror held up to them in the manner asked by Robert Burns in his immortal lines, nowadays they ARE provided with an echo of their own voices. And the speech, English and music students find the experience most enlightening, Principal Clair Hugh reports.

This "echo" is provided by a tape-recorder, which is being put to continually more extensive use as a teaching aid. Entire class periods in speech and English are recorded, from time to time, so recitations can be played back to reveal weakness in grammar, diction, pronunciation and speaking style.

Helpful to Musicians

Band Director Roland Brom and David Weltha, vocal music instructor, make frequent use of the recorder to demonstrate faults they detect in the performances of their instrumentalists and singers. It proves of great assistance to the musicians in helping them sharpen up on tone and technique.

Tapes for the recorder (the school owns five) are 1,200 feet in length and each record up to two hours of recorded matter. A recording is made on one-half of one side of the tape at a time. An entire tape is rarely, if ever, wholly filled. But two hours is its potential, maximum running time.

Recordings Erasable

A control on the recorder "erases" recordings which are no longer of use, and a single tape can as a consequence be used over and over again, almost indefinitely. This gives tape recordings a distinct advantage over disk recordings, which are permanent—and which present a storage problem and continual expense that a tape recorder avoids.

Another advantage of the tape recorder, says Mr. Hugh, is the fact that it makes a wide range of recordings available for class use at very nominal cost. The University of Iowa maintains a large library of educational and musical recordings for classroom use that would cost heavily in the form of permanent recordings. The school, however, can send in a tape of its own and have any of the numbers recorded thereon at a charge of only 50 cents, plus postage.

Students Enjoys Using It

In this way, the school can offer for class instruction excellent literary recordings, dramatic productions and musical masterpieces in wide range and variety When the recording has served its purpose, it is simply erased and the tape is ready for other uses.

Mr. Hugh says the students seem greatly to enjoy using the recorder, and they find in play-backs of their own efforts a great challenge to improve their abilities. It is one study aid, he adds, that never seems to lose its appeal

Teachers like it, too. They say it is of questionable use to recall faults in an English recitation or msuical performance when a student is only half convinced he committed them. But the recorder "tells all;" and the instructor need only interrupt the play-back at a pertinent place and observe, "See what I mean?"

It clinches the point.

TEN TIMES the number of old-fashioned phonograph records that Larry Stadtlander holders above (or 20, in all) would be required for a two-hour program such as a single spool of recording tape—in his left hand—can provide. James Schmidt, English instructor, looks on.

Community Chest Of East Hancock $1,900 Over Goal

By the time all pledges have been paid, East Hancock County Community Chest will have exceeded its initial goal of $14.000 by a margin of nearly $1,900. B C. Berge of Garner, president of the Chest, announced last week that cash donations to the amount of $14,477.08 have been turned in and that $1,419 in pledges is still outstanding.

Mr. Berge pointed out that the success of the campaign will assure full payment of all appropriations and leave a helpful balance toward next year's drive. In view of the uncertainty attending the first fund campaign of a newly-founded Chest, the directors held appropriations in this year's budget down to a minimum. It is expected that allowances to some of the affiliating agencies will have to be increased next year

More Agencies Want In

In addition, it is certain that more agencies will be affiliated with the East Hancock Chest by the time of the 1955 drive. Two more organizations have already made application for inclusion in the budget for next year and there may be others.

Mr Berge expressed enthusiastic praise in behalf of himself and the entire board of Chest directors for the fine work of Campaign Chairmen Ben Greiman and W. L. Baggs and all their solicitors. Members of the board regarded the campaign as a remarkable success and feel that its outcome augurs well for the future of the East Hancock Chest

Wright's Compliance Exceeds State Average in Corn Acreage Reduction

Compliance with corn-acreage allotments in 1954 ran considerably higher in Wright county than in the state as a whole, according to a report released this week by the Wright ASC committee. While slightly over 45 per cent of the cropland in Iowa was operated in compliance with allotments, the corresponding figure in Wright county was 68 per cent.

Corn allotments were fully observed on 94.164 of the 216.876 farm units in Iowa, representing 43.4 per cent. These farms constituted 45.2 per cent of the state's total cropland. In Wright county, 2,118 farms—64 per cent of the total number—comprising 68 per cent of the cropland, stayed within their corn acreage allotments.

Reduction Goal Missed

Under the 1954 corn allotment program, a total reduction in planted acres of 1,934,071 was sought. On the basis of the latest official estimate made by the Agricultural Marketing Service, the number of harvested acres in the state this year will be 768,000 less than in 1953.

Corn allotments were proclaimed last February for this crop year and only recently for 1955, as a step required by law to encourage production adjustment in the face of near-record supplies on hand in the nation. Compliance with allotments is required to qualify for price support loans.

Northern Compliance Higher

The highest percentage of compliance in Iowa in 1954 was reported principally from north central and northwestern counties commonly known as the "heavy corn producing areas". Lower compliance was found mostly in southern Iowa, but three northwestern counties were the lowest in the state.

Many farmers in southern counties hit by drouth in 1953 planted about their normal corn acreage this year in an effort to replenish local feed supplies. Generally lower compliance was the rule in areas where a substantial percentage of farmers produce no more corn than they feed and consequently are not influenced by the allotment compliance requirements to qualify for price support.

Emmet County Leads

Emmet county led the state with 72 per cent of its farms and 74 per cent of its cropland in compliance. Eighteen counties had over 60 per cent of their cropland in compliance while only three counties had less than 20 per cent.

The 1955 corn acreage allotment program will be effective in all Iowa counties, the same as in 1954. Detailed information is now being assembled by the department of agriculture in Washington for use in determining the 1955 allotments for the commercial corn producing areas.

When that is done, the individual counties will be notified of their allotments so that they may fix individual farm allotments and notify all operators during the month of February, according to O J Hanson, county ASC office manager.

County REA Picks Out New Manager

Ray M Willemssen is the new manager of the Wright County Rural Electric Cooperative, Clarion. His appointment was announced recently by Oscar J Hanson, president of the cooperative. Willemssen succeeds the late George C Kirstein, who had been manager of the cooperative since it was first organized in 1937.

A native Iowan, Willemssen was born in George in 1919 and reared in Rock Rapids. He received his public school education in Rock Rapids and received his electrical engineering degree from Iowa State college in 1942.

During World War II he served four years with the US Army Signal Corps and was stationed for three years in the Panama theatre, where he commanded various radar installations. Upon separation from military service in 1946 he returned to Iowa State college for further education and later that year accepted employment as an electrical engineer on the Washington, D C staff of the Rural Electrification Administration.

In 1950, Willemssen was assigned duties as a field electrical engineer in the state of Iowa, his territory being the eastern half of Iowa. In 1953 he moved from Waterloo to Fort Dodge when his territory was changed to the western half of Iowa. Willemssen will assume his new duties on Dec. 6, and his family will move to Clarion as soon as a residence can be secured.

CLARION MEETING DEC. 16 ON BEST SEED VARIETIES

Seed varieties recommended for Wright county will be discussed Thursday evening of next week by Ed Dyas, Iowa State college agronomy specialist, at a special meeting to be held at Hagie's conference room in Clarion. The meeting is scheduled for 8 00 o'clock.

Aaron Bowman, county extension director, says special attention will be given to varieties of seed oats recommended for this area on the basis of testing. New and recommended legume varieties will also be reported on.

Anyone interested in seed varieties most ideal for this area is invited to attend the meeting. Mr Bowman says it is especially important that certified seed producers of the county be present to hear what Mr Dyas has to say.

NOTICE

TEEN-AGE CHILDREN

PLEASE inform them that they MUST NOT coast on ice-covered streets.

Many complaints have been turned in to me that youngsters are hooking rides on car bumpers.

This is an extremely dangerous type of fun. It MUST be stopped!

Won't YOU Please Co-operate?

The exciting new idea behind the motoramic Chevrolet

The Bel Air 4-Door Sedan—one of 14 new Fisher Body beauties in three new series

This is the true story of how Chevrolet and General Motors shaped a new idea in steel.

Like most good ideas, this one is pretty simple. Chevrolet and General Motors set out to build the first low-priced car that would:

- bring you the very freshest and finest styling.
- bring you the most advanced engine design and engineering features.
- bring you the performance and ride never before available in a low-priced car.
- bring you the finest workmanship and materials.

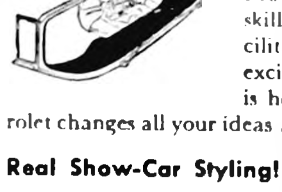
All this in Chevrolet's price field? That did take some doing! And isn't it logical that only Chevrolet and General Motors have the people, skills, resources and facilities to carry out this exciting new idea? Here is how this new Chevrolet changes all your ideas about cars!



Real Show-Car Styling!

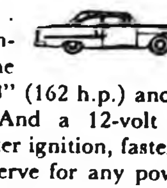
Your eye tells you the Motoramic Chevrolet is no styling "patch-up" job. A rakish, low profile . . . soft swiftness from its sleek rear fenders to its wide-eyed Sweep-Sight windshield . . a new outlook for motoring.

A Sensational Ride!

You live the new idea instantly . . . you glide . . . actually glide because spherical joints "roll with the punch" of the road in Chevrolet's new Glide-Ride front suspension. And outrigger rear springs mean new balance in turns . . . turns made so effortless by new ball-race steering.

And when you stop suddenly, new Anti-Dive braking control checks that nosing down in front . . . you get more level stopping. Tubeless tires mean much greater protection against blowouts. And with new high-level ventilation there's fresher air.

Power Beyond Compare!



You also feel the new idea quickly . . . quick power like a panther's paw with the new "Turbo-Fire V8" (162 h.p.) and two new "Blue-Flame" 6's. And a 12-volt electrical system gives you better ignition, faster starting, greater electrical reserve for any power assists you might desire. You have a transmission choice of Overdrive and automatic Powerglide (optional at extra cost) or standard shift.

Won't You Try It?

Here, we can only tell you how successfully the Motoramic Chevrolet expresses the new idea behind it. But the car itself can quickly show you! Come in for a demonstration drive, won't you, first chance you get.

The Pledge for S-D Day

"I shall drive like the adult I am. I shall be especially alert and courteous to other drivers and to pedestrians. In all events, I shall take time to be careful. And I'll continue to drive like that every day!"

This is the pledge for Safe-Driving Day, December 15, when President Eisenhower asks each community to turn in an accident-free day—or as near to that as possible.

Let's all make the pledge for our town. Let's show we know the secret of saving lives, avoiding sorrow, for the good of all!

Repast for Game Connoisseurs On Monday Evening

Connoisseurs of roasted game will eat high off the moose—also high off the elk and deer—Monday evening when Belmond Sportsman's club puts on a public "feed" at Veterans' Memorial hall. Serving will be from 5:30 to 7:00 p. m.

Anyone who'd like to partake of the unusual fare should see the Sportman's secretary, Frank Lone promptly; for a maximum of 300 tickets is being sold and at mi week close to the entire number had been bought.

The venison, moose and elk meat was contributed to the club by Jim Mariga, John Chapman and several Eagle Grove companions who enjoyed a recent hunting trip in Wyoming.

Ray Brewer is serving as chief premier in preparing the repast—which persons who have partaken of Sportsman's fare in the past will regard as a guarantee of some mighty fancy eating. He'll be assisted by a crew of fellow club members, all adept at the culinary arts.

The Pledge for S-D Day

"I shall drive like the adult I am. I shall be especially alert and courteous to other drivers and to pedestrians. In all events, I shall take time to be careful. And I'll continue to drive like that every day!"

This is the pledge for Safe-Driving Day, December 15, when President Eisenhower asks each community to turn in an accident-free day—or as near to that as possible. Let's all make the pledge for our town. Let's show we know the secret of saving lives, avoiding sorrow, for the good of all!

ROBERT ROWEN ADDS LAST WORD ON SUBJECT OF OLD HOMESTEAD

From Robert W. Rowen of Oakland, Calif., whose generous gift to the Belmond Community hospital late last summer launched a series of stories in The Independent regarding the Rowen family and the early settlement at Horse Grove that ultimately led to establishment of the Rowan community, contributes a last word on the original family homestead.

The Independent was misinformed on the subject, and in a recent letter Mr. Rowen had the following to say in way of final clarification:

"The frame house (which this newspaper was told included what remains of the old homestead) had nothing to do with the original log cabin which Grandfather Robert Rowen first built.

Creek "Is" No More

"This log cabin was built on the west side of the road and the south side of the creek, some 300-400 or 500 yards from the location of the celebrated hardwood frame house, not far from the creek which was quite a little stream when I was a boy. We caught fish in it. I caught a pickerel of about 3 lbs. in a hole a few rods above the bridge which crossed the creek. The creek is now dry, I presume, except for spring run off.

"Your reporter was probably misinformed about the log cabin being remodeled. My cousin, Charlie Rowen, is correct regarding the construction of the frame house—even to the "cat hole," which had a swinging gate hinged at the top so the cats could push it open and come and go at will

Uncle Built House

"My uncle, Alpheus D. Hiams, built the house and I always understood the lumber was sawed from native trees in Horse Grove. It is not my purpose to stir up any argument on this matter as it is of no import; and I thank you for giving me considerable publicity, which was unsolicited but pleasing, of course."

The Independent thanks Mr. Rowen for his comment; and hopes that its readers have enjoyed the give and take on this bit of historical lore.

High School Has 25 Getting Ready For Speech Trials

Belmond High school aspirants to state honors in speech have begun preparation for appearances in the preliminary contest that will be held sometime in February. Belmond speakers will compete in five of the seven contest divisions.

Twenty-five students have indicated their intention to take part in the 1955 state competition, with dramatic and humorous declamation attracting the most entries. Nine are preparing dramatic pieces: Carole Chinberg, Connie Hill, Maryellen Johnson, Joan Kriens, Marlene Smith, JoAnn Steenblock, Mary Alice Studebaker, Sandra Swenson and Sharon Thompsen.

Eight have entered the humorous division: Kathy Dorr, Betty Eccles, Margaret Eccles, Marlys Howell, Carmen McLaughlin, Pat Smith, Arlene Stoltenberg and Kaye Wagner.

Oratorical declamation was chosen by Alice Koppernagel and Caren Coulson; interpretive reading by Neva Kyser; and radio speaking by Bradley Hammond, Mary Hill, Monica Jones and Bill Murray BHS will have no entries in extemporaneous speaking or original oratory.

Farm Equipment Dealers Heard Talk by McNeal

Representative Clark Mc Neal was one of the major speakers addressing the annual convention of Iowa Retail Farm Equipment Dealers association held last Thursday and Friday at Des Moines. He advised the equipment ment what progress has been made toward equalization of tax assessments in Iowa, a topic that has been of major interest to the group for some years past.

In accordance with precedent, Thurman DeNo of Dows was advanced from the position of vice president into presidency of the equipment dealers association during the annual election of officers. Another Wright countian, Gaylord Jones of Woolstock, was a member of the RFED sergeant-at-arms committee.

Census of Farms In This Vicinity Nears Completion

Now in its final stages locally, the 1954 census of agriculture can be completed within the next two weeks if farmers of ths vicinity will fill out their questionnaires and have them ready for the enumerator when he calls, according to Field Supervisor W. A. Rekers of Fort Dodge.

Farm census questionnaires were mailed in advance of the start of the field enumeration for the purpose of giving farm operators time to consult their records and fill out the forms before the enumerators began their rounds. This procedure was planned to insure greater accuracy and to save time for both the farmer and the enumerator. Completion of the [illegible]sus on time will not [illegible] keeping costs down but will [illegible] prompt publication of the results.

These goals cannot be reached, however, unless farmers assist, the supervisor pointed out, urging local farmers to fill out their questionnaires and have them ready when the enumerator calls. To date approximately 45,033 farms have been enumerated in the 29 counties under the supervision of the Fort Dodge office, Wright being included among the counties

Although looking somewhat less than sensational and being definitely outplayed by their opponents in the first and last quarters, the Belmond High school Broncos started their conference campaign last Friday night with a 63-53 desision over Britt. It was the winners' height advantage that was the margin of difference, rather than any marked superiority in skill or polish.

Coach John Holman's fast but undersized crew couuldn't keep Ron Hansen under control, and the lanky Belmond center poured in 25 points— 19 of them coming in the two, middle quarters when the Broncs were the most effective. LeRoy Smith hit for 10 of his 14 points during the same span of time and Keith Madsen for eight of his 11-point total.

Britt Leads at Outset

Britt's scrappy crew started out in determined fashion and led during much of the opening period. It was Tom Lowenberg who kept the Broncs in the running at this stage of the game. Playing for Gene Mehl, who was unable to see action because of an ankle sprain, the Goodell junior netted nine out of his evening's total of 11 points in the initial stanza. One of his baskets sent Belmond ahead 18-17 just seconds before the quarter ended.

In the second and third periods, the Broncs raced into a lead that clinched the ball game in spite of their miserable fourth-quarter showing. They ran the count at halftime to 41-27 and padded the margin to 58-40 in the third period. Only two baskets were made in the final quarter, one by each team; but Britt took up eight points of slack on free throws as the Broncs committed nine of their 18 fouls in the concluding eight minutes.

Frosmores Win Thriller

It seems likely that Britt will give more than one adversary plenty of trouble before the season is over—particularly on the Eagles' midget-sized home floor. Holman has a pair of sharp-shooters in Harold Wallen and Jim Nielson, who hit for 16 and 14 points, respectively. This pair was given able support by Dale Nielson and Marlin Hefti, who each contributed 10 to Britt's total.

Belmond's froshmores very nearly came a-cropper in the curtain-raiser but finally eked out a 46-45 decision. Troubled even more than the varsity by Britt's pint-sized court, the Junior Broncs trailed by anywhere from three to six points during more than three fourths of the game. It wasn't until well along in the last period that they edged in front and the outcome was continually in doubt during the last two or three, wild and wooly minutes.

SPORTS

Dave Long was the key man in the Junior Bronc victory, playing a good floor game and accounting for 15 points. Larry Schimp wasn't up to his usual staandard but helped out with 12 points. Dennis Clark was big gun for the losers and high-scorer for the game with 16.

A pretty good line on what teams in the North Iowa conference are slated to be basketball championship contenders this season will be offered when the next two rounds of play are completed tomorrow and next Tuesday. Despite their rather mediocre showing against Britt, Belmond still shapes up as the king pin.

This is being written in advance of Tuesday night's Lake Mills-Forest City fracas, but regardless of that game's outcome the Bulldogs and Indians stack up as chief threats to the Broncos' repeat aspirations. Both the Bulldogs and Indians entered the fray undefeated. Lake Mills' height is plainly going to be a factor that wasn't given sufficient consideration in the pre-season evaluation of prospects.

Garner, thus far, has proved a disappointment; but the Cardinals' NIC rivals no doubt appreciate from past experience that, led by Daryle Jass, Garner should at no time be taken lightly.

After traveling to Buffalo Center tomorrow night, the Broncos will tackle their second loop foe at home next Tuesday evening in what may well be their most crucial contest of the pre-holiday portion of their schedule. Coach Dick Peterson's Lake Mills outfit has shown the greatest improvement since the season's start of any team in the loop, and the Broncs have a real battle in prospect. A frosh-soph curtain-raiser, as usual, will precede the varsity fray at 7:00 p. m.

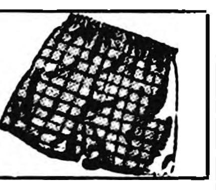
—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS



Prompted by Hampton's success last week in snapping the shackles of defeat (the Bulldogs' 51-47 win over Clarion was their FIRST in 39 games) we checked up to see what the Broncos' record has been over the span of time that Hampton was futiley pursuing a victory. We question that there's a half-dozen schools in the state that can surpass — or even match — the success of the Purple and White.

In their past 39 games, the Broncs have come out on top 35 times! Only two of the defeats were registered in regular season play; the other two were in tournament competition.

Say what you will about "winning" being secondary to "playing the game;" it's a lot more fun to WIN. And as has been repeatedly pointed out, life treats habitual losers rather unkindly. There's a lot more to recommend "gracious winning" than "graceful losing." Incidentally, the last regularly scheduled opponent to trip up Belmond was Manning, last Christmastime. Before that it was Forest City — two years ago next month.

—PSS—

Have you noticed what the effect of the new freethrow rule has been in college basketbell? Scores in the nineties were a dime a dozen, as the new season got underway; and tallies over the 100-mark were by no means a rarity. Fans like a lot of scoring — but where's the thrill in watching the players spend a third of their time toeing the freethrow line?

—PSS—

If John Holman ever gets some better than average material at Britt, you can expect an upsurge in the Eagles' fortunes on the basketball court. He invariably turns out a well-coached outfit; but apparently there hasn't been a tall boy enrolled at Britt High school in years. Given a little more height, this year's BHS cage crew would be a power to be reckoned with.

Three of the Eagles' starters this season are transfers from LuVerne—the Nielson brothers, Dale and Jim (forward and center), and Marlin Hefti at guard. Must have made the LuVerne coach more than a little glum to see that trio depart.

Britt accomplished one thing that few Belmond adversaries have been able to do the past couple of seasons. They out-performed the Broncos at the freethrow line. The Purple and White cagers converted on only half of their 22 chances, while the Eagles cashed in 15 of 27. Harold Wallen was largely responsible for Britt's good percentage, hitting six tries without a miss.

—PSS—

Currently there is a movement afoot at Britt to build a new school; but up to the present, it's a coin-flip proposition whether the money will go for a grade school or high school Without question, all the Eagles' basketball adversaries would cast a whole-hearted vote for the latter—complete with GYMNASIUM. Britt's the only school in the North Iowa conference with a Gay Nineties gym and visiting teams find themselves at a distinct disadvantage due to its cracker-box dimensions.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa:

Please bring me a sword and doctor set and carpenter set.

Gregory Kessler

Dear Santa Claus:

I want a doll that walks and my little sister wants a doll that can walk. We would like an iron like my mommys, some clay, some paints, some guns, a doctor set and anything else you want to leave. Thanks from Sheila and me for what you gave us last year. My love to you Santa.

Twyla Gae Stadtlander, 8 yrs. old—2nd grade.

Dear Santa:

Merry Xmas! My name is Cynthia. I am 6 yrs. old. I have a sister that is three. We would like dolls and suitcases. If you have cowgirl suits we would like those too. We will leave something for you to eat.

Love,
Cindy and Marsha Lowenberg

Dear Santa:

Hi!!!! I can't write like you can but someday I can. I want a doll with hair on and a blanket too. One that I can wash its face. My brother Vernon wants a corn picker but one where he won't get his arm in it! My two sisters Jeanne Anne and Lois MaDonna, one wants a teddy bear and Lois wants a rattle.

Bye now,
Vivian Leigh Christie

Dear Santa:

Please don't forget my two little brothers. Clark, age three, wants a pocket knife. Craig, age one, likes a toy he can pull. My big brother, Curtis, would like an air rifle.

Would you please bring me a camera for Christmas? I am a Camp Fire Girl and I would like a camera so I can take pictures at Camp Hantesa next summer. Also I like to take pictures of my friends and teachers.

Thank you so much.
Love, Carnita Trager

Dear Santa:

Please bring me a knife for my pocket because I'm bigger and older now. I am three years old. Thank you.

Lots of love,

The Pledge for S-D Day

"I shall drive like the adult I am. I shall be especially alert and courteous to other drivers and to pedestrians. In all events, I shall take time to be careful. And I'll continue to drive like that every day!"

This is the pledge for Safe-Driving Day, December 15, when President Eisenhower asks each community to turn in an accident-free day—or as near to that as possible.

Let's all make the pledge for our town. Let's show we know the secret of saving lives, avoiding sorrow, for the good of all!

ANOTHER REMINDER THAT WEDNESDAY'S THE DAY WE'RE ASKED TO DRIVE SANELY

It's a smart bunch of people that's been planning next Wednesday's S-D Day at the behest of the President's Action Committee for Traffic Safety. The idea—which we told you about last week—is a good one. What better time could you choose for an all-out effort to cheat the Man with the Scythe than just before Christmas, when needless death is apt to cast a particularly tragic pall over a household?

We believe, though, that if they'd asked us about it (which they didn't think to do) we'd have recommended S-A Day (Stay Alive Day) in place of Safe-Driving Day. For the primary objective of the project is to keep highway mayhem to a positive minimum for 24 hours. The sponsors aren't going to worry too much about dented fenders. Fatally dented craniums and caved in thoraxes (means "chest cavities," we looked it up) are their major concern.

We'd have made "Keep Alive for Christmas" the slogan. We'd also have stressed that, despite President Eisenhower being a guiding spirit behind the deal, it's a bi-partisan undertaking. Democrats and independent voters are cordially invited to put their gray matter into the act, just as much as straight-ticket Republicans. Don't you Stevens and Herring admirers go passing on the yellow line just to spite "Ike."

Seriously, we hope all America will take S-D Day to heart—including every mother's son and daughter who reads The Independent. Maybe—just MAYBE—the result will be so startling that a fair share of the public will decide to make EVERY day an S-D Day. Remember, Next Wednesday, Dec. 15 is test day. Don't YOU flunk!

THOSE GARNER FOLKS ARE STEALING A MARCH ON US ON POOL PROGRESS

At the risk of raising goose pimples on the hides of our readers, we find it necessary to insert the chilling term, "swimming pool," into the general train of thought this week.

This unseasonable subject was thrust upon us by a brief item in last week's Garner Leader to the effect that Garner's swimming pool committee lately held a meeting. And a general meeting on the Garner project was called for Monday of this week at which time definite plans were to be formulated and committees appointed.

Since we did a bit of bragging not long ago to the effect that we felt Belmond would get a swimming pool before Garner, we view with misgivings the complete lull into which the local pool planning seems to have entered.

There's no doubt but what those Garner folks are following the right track. What gives with the Lions? And has the C-of-C Civic Bureau died a-borning? The time is NOW to get first-of-the-year action in behalf of the swimming pool project PLANNED.

A nice head of steam was generated by the home talent show and Louis Tokman's generous contribution to the fund. Let's not permit it to condense into a mere puddle of luke warm water. Let's get some wheels into action!

WHO WAS HICKENLOOPER VOTING FOR IN OPPOSING CENSURE OF McCARTHY?

Last week's censure action against Senator McCarthy was no doubt greeted with enthusiastic approval by the vast majority of American citizens who regard that unworthy means aren't necessarily justified by a worthy end. Even defenders of the Wisconsin senator can hardly deny that McCarthy unquestionably could have achieved his originally praiseworthy objective by fair methods and without resort to bigotry.

Presence of Senator Hickenlooper's name among those who voted against the censure must leave a good many Iowans curious as to what prompted his implied approval of McCarthy's actions. This was no partisan issue, despite the united Democratic stand against the defendant. It is obviously certain that Hickenlooper's motives did not include a will to reflect the sentiments of a majority of his constituents.

Unless we miss our guess, there is a good many Iowa voters will feel their senator would have done better to speak forthrightly for his state by joining in condemnation of his Wisconsin colleague.

Rev. Herbert Nelson Tells Some of His Experiences As Lutheran Missionary Among Natives of Zululand

(Following is the first installment of a letter recently received by friends of Rev. Herbert Nelson which was passed on to The Independent for publication because of its general interest. The Rev. Mr. Nelson and his family are stationed at a Lutheran mission at Hlabisa, Zululand, in South Africa. The rest of the letter will be published in a subsequent installment appearing in this space.)

Hlabisa, Zululand

Dear Friends:

We have been here in South Africa less than a year, yet we have had many experiences which we would like to share with you. Perhaps this letter will help you to understand our work and what life is like here in sunny Africa.

We have seen so much raw heathendom and hunger for the "Truth" that a call to serve a congregation in Ameria with three times our present salary wouldn't be sufficient reason to move back. Here there are so many with so little in material means and so few opportunities that one's heart simply goes out to them. We just must stay here and work, the need is so great. Perhaps we could give you a first-hand glimpse of the suffering and need here as we have met it among these Zulu people.

Over 40 Missionaries

At present we in our Zulu Lutheran church have over 40 missionaries, counting wives. Then there are 14 native ordained clergy and about 50 native lay-evangelists. This sounds as if we are very well staffed, but our prayer is that we can have more workers in order to carry on the work effectively.

You might ask the question, "What are your schools and churches like in Zululand?" Well, many of our churches are also schools. Not having enough money to launch on a large building program, we must use what facilities we have in order to do the bare necessities of teaching reading, writing and arithmetic, and to teach the Way of Salvation. With some 70 schools and churches you can see the tremendous task we have before us.

Natives Fine Singers

We have about a dozen churches and schools which are made from brick or wooden frame. The rest are made from mud [illegible] with only a couple of windows on each side. The floors are [illegible] with [illegible] which makes [illegible] surface [illegible] easier [illegible] USA.) In our churches we do not have any organs or pianos, but that doesn't mean these Zulus can't sing. The harmony is really something to hear in our churches. They are [illegible] singers. Wherever two people are singing, there will be harmony.

There are benches in nearly all of our churches, but not with comfortable backs to them. Even in our schools we do not have any type of desks to write on. The children just turn around and kneel, putting their paper on the bench they were sitting on in order to write or color.

Paper Expensive

Paper is expensive, so slates are more practical in the long run. Paper is more effective, though, because it gives the children something to take home to their parents, and if we have a Christ-centered message on it — as we always do — it brings the written word of God into their homes.

This week instead of having our regular Zulu language school, the whole class went to one of our out stations about 15 miles from here and conducted a Bible school all week. We drove out there each morning in two cars. Fifteen miles doesn't seem far to you people there, but here over these hills and curves and stones, it is quite a jaunt.

Use Zulu Language

At our Bible schools, all class work was conducted in Zulu. Both Laurine (Mrs. Nelson) and I talked in Zulu. I preached on the text from Mark 2:1-12, "ofe uhlangothi," (healing of the paralytic). The Zulu title literally means, "The man who has dead on one side." The word "ofe" means "dead," "uhlangothi" means "on one side."

Laurine's text was Luke 19:1-10, the story of Zachaeus. Each of us used the flannelgraph and pictures to supplement our talking. We had our texts written on mimeographed sheets of paper with pictures of the text, the Zulu Bible verses, plus questions and the closing prayer. We gave each person there one of these sheets of paper after we had given our talks, taught them the memory verses and had them color the pictures.

Travel Difficult

Many of the heathens present couldn't even pick out the objects in a picture and, of course, they didn't know who Christ was. One middle-aged man tried to color, but he didn't even come close to the picture. He had never seen a picture nor color before, so we couldn't expect much. But it's to people like this that we are trying to bring the Gospel of Christ. We think it's worth it. Don't you?

We went a little early each day in order to visit the native kraals and invite them to our Bible school. Of course, we couldn't drive our '54 Chevrolet to all these kraals, so Laurine and I went "by means of our feet," as the Zulus say.

Paper Highly Prized

We went down into the valleys and up to the tops of the high hills visiting and inviting people to come to the church on top of the mountain. We had pictures and tracts along to give them and were they ever zealous to get any type they ever zealous to get any type

We were well received wherever we went, even though our Zulu isn't too fluent. They would help us to say the right things and then they'd laugh. I had along the picture of Christ knocking at the door and here I always got the opportunity to ask questions and tell them the way of salvation. Then I would read from Revelations 3:20 and tie this up with the picture.

(To be concluded next week)

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Marion Sentinel Offers Some Gift Suggestions; Northwood Anchor Discusses County Managers

"JUST THE THING!"—

We have been pestered lately by people who wanted suggestions for Christmas presents. It has become necessary to devise a list which should be of inestimable assistance in arriving at the proper gift.

A fur-lined holder (years ago called a pot holder) with silken tassels.

A monkey wrench, appropriately embossed with the family coat of arms. If your family doesn't have a coat of arms, we suggest using a picture of a monkey.

oOo

A hammer with a soft rubber head. Guaranteed to keep tempers even at all times. It doesn't hurt to hit your thumb with a soft rubber hammer.

A stove poker. We don't know many places that still use stove pokers, but it is an idea you can use if you can't think of something else.

oOo

An ironholder. Very few people use them any more, but they will bring back memories.

A 1953 Christmas tree. When you give this you can say that sentiment, not momentary value, is the true test of a gift. Very economical.

A 1928 license plate. Has little use but it might stir the recipient to start a collection.

oOo

A lead pipe cinch. We never saw one, but it should be handy to keep the kitchen door open on hot days.

A mustache cup. Not much use, but a good place to store second hand tea bags.

A 13-inch ruler. Never heard of one, but about as practical as 18 per cent of the gifts.

A helium plant. You can use this to blow up balloons. If you don't have balloons, you can use it to blow up yourself.

oOo

A Geiger counter. You probably won't know what it looks like, but then, neither will your friends. Handy for raking leaves.

A coffee strainer. Haven't seen one for years, but it must be about time for them to be included in the antique class.

If these suggestions don't help, then we suggest you contact Santa Claus.

WORTH TRYING IN IOWA?—

Many cities have city managers —men who are hired by the city council to act as the executive head of the city organization and give it the same sort of trained co-ordinated management which industrial managers give to factories.

But did you ever hear of a county manager? There are such things, not in Iowa, but in at least two eastern states, New York and Virginia. About 17 counties in the United States have them.

It should be worth considerable study to see if county managers might be useful in Iowa.

oOo

At present there is no single administration officer for a county; various county departments are quite independent of each other and only nominally responsible to the county board of supervisors.

Under a county manager plan the board of supervisors would probably hire a county manager and he could be held responsible for all phases of county government (for co-ordination of work, for greater efficiency and economy, etc.

It might well be that permanent employees could then be appointed to such positions as sheriff, recorder, auditor, etc. (much as the county school board now appoints the county superintendent).

This would save county officers the expense and uncertainty of having to run for office every two years and could insure that good men could be attracted to and kept in the county offices on a career basis.

Worth county is fortunate that it has experienced and capable personnel in county offices and that the voters generally return them to office each year regardless of party affiliation. Some counties, however, are not so lucky.

Taking county offices out of politics would be a major forward step, employment of county managers might do even more to give Iowa counties the best possible government.

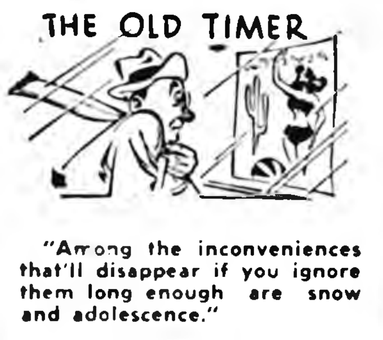
Mr. and Mrs. Harley Thompson visited weekend before last in Marshalltown with their daughter and family and their son Don.

Sunday dinner guests a week ago in the Norris Soma home were Mr. and Mrs. Amos Wagner of Eagle Grove.



"Among the inconveniences that'll disappear if you ignore them long enough are snow and adolescence."

...AND I QUOTE

"Guess the honeymoon's over," says a not-too-long-wed friend of ours, telling how he tried unsuccessfully to phone that he'd be late for supper — only to find a note on the kitchen table saying it was in the refrigerator.

A young lady who has her own apartment reports, "I've GOT to sing in the tub. The bathroom door lock's busted."

"When my son quit thinking that kissing's for sissies and decided it's for boys and girls, then I decided he was growing up," relates a philosophical mother-about-town.

A local teacher offers this definition: "An adolescent — one who's well informed about anything he doesn't have to study."

MAIN STREET

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Supervisor Emmett King, who's in charge of the state police radio station north of town, says the facilities of that station are always accessible to the public and he hopes that residents of Belmond and vicinity will not hesitate to use them if the need arises. The station has a Belmond phone number, dial 511, so assistance is as close to you as your telephone in case of emergency.

The boys at the radio shack can't help you find a lost dog; but they can and will readily volunteer their services if you ever critically need to make immediate contact with a relative who's whereabouts is only generally known.

They're always in a position to summon the sheriff on a moment's notice, too—in case of an accident or a crime. You might say that in any kind of emergency, you'll find them eager to be of service if they can. If they can't help, they'll tell you—and no harm done. At any rate, that's a good number to jot down in the phone book. Can't tell, it might come in mighty handy sometime.

—M-S—

One of our good friends from Goodell, Steve Dorenkamp, dropped into the office last weekend to inquire how Mainstreeter No. 3 was getting along with his proposed abstinence from smoking. Ye Ed promptly made it clear that his recent editorial on the subject was strictly idle contemplation of the wisdom of such a step, not a declaration of resolve. Our will power is a lot stronger than our won't power, and we know it.

Steve, on the other hand, smugly informed Ye Ed that HE had given up smoking four months ago—AND made it stick.

All we can say is, our hat's off to him. . . Which reminds us that Steve always bowls with his hat on—which would be an insuperable distraction to Ye Ed, proving further that Steve's the better man. One thing we ask all smokers to remember (as we remind ourselves, in all honesty), when something like the TB Christmas Seals comes along that calls for a buck or two—you CAN "afford it." It adds up that way.

—M-S—

Supt. Don Faris says he's had an extra topcoat at the schoolhouse ever since the Gridiron Banquet. Apparently must belong to some fellow who's got three or four and hasn't missed it. Don will hand it over, though, upon proper identification.

—M-S—

Santa Claus (Belmond version) made the first of his perennial holiday visits to Main street last Saturday afternoon. He's apparently been putting in some pretty long hours and drawing time-and-a-half, because he was togged out in a spanking-new outfit of red velvet.

Asked by a friend if his job didn't entail some occupational hazards that detracted from the pleasant task of spreading Christmas cheer, Santa admitted that once in a while a tyke might prove a bit of a problem. "BUT," St. Nick pointed out, "on the other hand, Santa's expected to throw his arms around all the pretty girls—and they love it!"

He added that he faces an unusually busy holiday season hereabouts this year. He's booked for public appearances at Goodell and Rowan, as well as here; and has been engaged for command performances in a steadily growing list of private homes, here and elsewhere.

—M-S—

Jim Cairns, proprietor of Jim's Paint and Wallpaper store, reports that some bills were found on the floor of his establishment the early part of this week. He suspects that their loss is going to seriously hamper the Christmas-shopping plans of the person who dropped them and he wants to see them returned to their proper owner. If the loser will identify the number and denomination of the bills to Jim's satisfaction he'll be happy to hand them over.

—M-S—

The minute hand of that clock measuring progress of the Mainstreeters' TGGCTW Fund was given another twist this past week—not a big one, but it MOVED. We're creeping up on the 20-minute-after mark in our campaign To Give Grandfather's Clock The Works. That's the big clock at the city library, you know, whose 37-year-old mechanism gave up the ghost some months back. Here's the present score:

Amount Needed		$150
Previously received	$30
Latest contributions:
Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Schall	5
Mrs. F. O. and Thera Fitts	2
Received to date		$ 37
Amount to go		$113

It would hardly make you dizzy, watching that minute hand spin, would it? Any of you old-timers who sufficiently enjoy seeing some valued relics of bygone days preserved to scare up a dollar or two? Might inspire some others.

CLARION GUESTS

Sunday dinner guests of Mr and

Hazel Thomas Chappell, 63, Former BHS Superintendent, Dies Sunday

Death came suddenly last Sunday evening at her Mason City home to Hazel V. Chappell, former superintendent of the Belmond schools who for the past 18 years had been Cerro Gordo county superintendent of schools. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Mason City at the Major Memorial Chapel, conducted by Dr. Lloyd A. Gustafson, pastor of the First Methodist church. Burial was a Memorial Park cemetery, Mason City.

Born Nov. 16, 1891, at Goodell, Mrs. Chappell was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas. The family moved to Belmond in 1908. Hazel Thomas was a graduate of Belmond High school and later earned Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees at the University of Iowa.

Headed Belmond Schools

After completing her education she taught at Estherville prior to returning to Belmond in 1922 to assume the position of high school principal.

She served in this capacity for 11 years and then filled the post of superintendent. In 1936 she accepted the position of superintendent of schools for Cerro Gordo county. She was married in August of 1945 to Dr. Walter C. Chappell, an osteophatic physician, who preceded her in death, Feb. 4, 1948. She was also preceded by her parents and a sister, Alta, who died in girlhood. Surviving is one brother, T. C. "Cal" Thomas of Belmond.

Started "For Iowa" Clubs

In reporting on her death, the Mason City Globe-Gazette stated: "Through the 'For Iowa' clubs, sponsored by Mrs. Chappell, rural children learned their citizenship. Current events were introduced and members decided on their schoolroom duties. Mrs. Chappell was active in Junior Red Cross work, purchase of war stamps and milk projects in the schools.

"She was on the board of directors of the Cerro Gordo Society for Crippled Children, the Red Cross and Tuberculosis Association for the county. She was a member and past president of the North Central district of the Iowa Association of Education Administrators and was a member of the North Central District County Superintendents club and a life member of the National Education association.

Earned Many Distinctions

Other distinctions that came to Mrs. Chappell during her professional career were: membership in Delt Kappa Gamma, national honorary education society; and membership in the American Association of University Women, the American Association of Professional Women and the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

She was a member of the Department of Rural Education and was delegate to that organization's national convention at Washington, D. C., this fall; she served on the board of the National Rehabilitation association; and she held membership in the National School Public Relations association.

City Dump to Get "Dose" of Poison

A warning is published in today's paper that a highly toxic poison will be distributed at the city dump ground on or about Tuesday of next week by the exterminating company that conducts the city's rat control program.

Norm Benton of Cedar Falls is the representative of Lystand and Redick, Inc., Minneapolis, who will be in charge of the poisoning job. He asks that parents give their children stern orders to avoid the dump for a period of time after the fresh bait is placed there.

It is also brought to the public's attention that neither the exterminating firm nor the city of Belmond will be responsible for the death of any pets or other domestic animals that results from coming in contact with poison at the dump.

VERDA MENNENGA PROMOTED

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mennenga that their daughter Verda, who is in the WAF of the U. S. Air Force, has recently been promoted to the rating of Airman 2/c. They report that her current address is: A2/c Verda Mennenga AA8509391, 3201 WAF Sqd., Box 114A, Elgin AFB, Fla.

ONLY LOCAL hunter to get a deer since the season opened last Friday (we're confident we'll be corrected if we're wrong) was Ted Behrends, who displays his eight-point buck, above. Shot just west of Pilot Knob state park near Forest City, this fellow weighed a bit over 200 pounds.

Rural Chest Falls Short of 1st Year Budget by $2,750

Wright County Rural Community Chest's first campaign was in some degree a disappointment to the Chest's organizer's, failing by approximately $2,750 to raise enough funds to meet all appropriations fully. Mrs. Glen Wilson of Woolstock, publicity chairman, reports that contributions came to $9,450.37, compared to $12,200 that had been budgeted for affiliating agencies.

Since the goal was not reached, the amount of $1,650 that had been ear-marked for operating expense and community welfare was released for distribution to the Chest agencies—except for $500 retained to meet current and anticipated campaign costs and for contingencies.

Of the total received, $4,422.82 was allocated to specific agencies in accord with preferences expressed by the donors. The remaining $5,027.45 was shared proportionately among the Chest affiliates in accordance with the percentage of the proposed budget that the appropriation of each represented.

Mrs. Wilson reports that the annual meeting of the Wright County Rural Community chest will be held on the third Tuesday of next month, Jan. 18. It is tentatively planned to hold it at the district courtroom at Clarion. All persons interested in continuation and the future success of the Chest are urged to attend. Further details will be published later.

At that time, members of the board of directors who had been elected for a one-year term will be replaced. Named on the nominating committee to recommend directorship candidates are: Marc Ihm, Rowan, chairman; Jay Legvold of Eagle Grove, Cliff Bosworth of Goldfield, Mrs. Clarence Johnson of Kanawha and Ed Nelson of Galt.

$200 Next Week

Mrs. Cleo Nicholson was the only Cash Gift Day number-holder to strike "pay dirt" Tuesday afternoon. She picked up a $25 grub stake at 2:00 p. m. That left $125 untouched —to which the CGD committee is adding another $75 for next week. So there'll be $200 "gold" in them thar Main street hills this coming Tuesday, lying in wait for the prospectors who go after it with the correct numbers. At 2:00 p. m., three $25's will be offered; and at 3:00 o'clock the prize will be $125. Better be on hand!

Firemen Reelect Johnson as Chief

A. W. "Doc" Johnson was named to continue as chief of the Belmond Fire department as all officers were reelected at a meeting of the fire-fighters held Monday evening at the fire station.

Other officers continuing in the same capacities in which they served during the current year are: Lem Long, assistant chief; Wallace Cramer, secretary; and George Hansen, treasurer.

The three, retiring directors who served on the board during the past year, along with the officers, also were reelected. They are George Jenison, Ray Davis and Cecil Carstens.

This year was one of the most significant in the department's long history, witnessing successful conduct of the station fund campaing and erection of the fine, new fire station.

Rites Held Wednesday for Pvt. "Tony" Jones

Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at 10:00 a. m. yesterday at St. Francis church as a large crowd paid final respects to Pvt. Anthony J. Jones, Belmond's lone fatality of the Korean war. As reported last week, his body was only lately recovered from a shallow, unmarked grave near the scene of battle where he lost his life in combat action on July 22, 1951.

The body arrived in Belmond early Monday morning, which was much sooner than the family had expected from correspondence with U. S. Army Quartermaster General's office in Washington, D. C.

Officers of Mass

Officers of the mass were: Rt. Msgr. Luke B. Striegel, Garner, celebrant; Rt. Rev. Msgr. W. C. Hradecky, Duncan, deacon; Rev. Maurice A. Mullan, Eagle Grove, subdeacon; Rev. R. A. Ormsby, Belmond, master of ceremonies. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Mullan, who served as a military chaplain during World War II. In conjunction with the burial at St. Francis cemetery, military services were conducted by the VFW color guard and firing squad.

Pallbearers—all friends of the deceased who have worn or are wearing the uniform of their country—were: Jim Thompsen, Roger Cline, Kenneth Lerdal, Duane Tideback, Joe McLaughlin and A1/c Richard Lowenberg.

Escort with Casket

The casket was accompanied to Belmond by military escort in the person of Sgt. Francis E. Kruft of Oakland, Calif. He returned to the coast, after discharge of his escort assignment.

Born in Belmond on Aug. 17, 1931, "Tony" Jones was the son of Mrs. Grace Jones and the late John Jones. He spent his entire life in Belmond prior to enlistment in the regular Army Nov. 15, 1950. He was graduated from Belmond High school in 1949. He had been in Korea for only a little longer than two months when he met his death from enemy fire.

Surviving besides his mother are two brother, Larry and Haydn; and four sisters, Carolyn (Mrs. Robert Summers), Monica, Colleen and Barbara.

BREAKS HIP IN TUMBLE

Mrs. Myrtle Campbell suffered a broken hip on Wednesday of last week when she stumbled down the front steps at the George Heginger home. She was a patient at Belmond Community hospital until Friday, when she was transferred to the University hospital at Iowa City.

BHS Future Farmers Plan to Conduct Queen Contest As Money-Raising Project for Swimming Pool Fund

That the young people of the Belmond community are keenly interested in the Lions club's swimming pool project was made most apparent this week with announcement that some direct, financial assistance from that quarter is to be forthcoming. It is to be provided by the Belmond High school chapter of Future Farmers of America through the medium of (turn that calendar face to the wall) a bathing beauty contest.

Airell Clark, president of the FFA, reports that his organization plans to conduct the election of a Swimming Pool Queen. The public will choose the winner—and votes for a favorite candidate can be purchased either by the bushel, by the dollar or by the nickel.

Candidates Named

Here's how the contest is to run. A bushel of corn will count 30 votes; or votes may be purchased at a nickel apiece. The FFA boys hope that everyone in Belmond and the surrounding territory—man, woman and child—will cast what votes he or she can for the candidate of his or her choice.

Eight queen candidates have been nominated by the Future Farmers. They are Margaret Gabrielson, Marcia Henn, Joan Kriens, Carmen McLaughlin, Sara Simerson, Marlene Smith, Shirley Soma and Shirley Pals.

President Clark says the FFA members—in fact, all the local school students—are enthusiastic over the prospect of a swimming pool of their own, here at Belmond. The Future Farmers want to give the movement their direct support, and they are confident that they'll received thorough-going backing from their school mates.

Canvass Planned

"But we'll need the support of everyone to make this contest the success we hope it will be," Clark says. "We plan to canvass every house in town and every farm in this area for votes, so please be picking out your favorite candidate and be prepared to give her all the backing that you can.

"We Future Farmers regard the swimming pool as a wonderfully worthwhile project. It will provide the young people of this community with many hours of healthy entertainment, give them a means of working off excess energy and perhaps even keep some of us out of mischief we might otherwise get into," the FFA president added.

Starts Saturday

The contest to select the Swimming Pool Queen will be launched this Saturday and will extend through the holidays. Clark stresses that direct contributions for votes should be made only to boys showing current FFA membership cards. A receipt will be given to all donors, signed by the solicitor.

Shortly after the close of the contest, the Future Farmers plan to hold a special ceremony at which the Swimming Pool Queen will be officially crowned.

BIG MACHINE IN PLACE AT MILL, THANKS TO OPERATION 'AIR-LIFT'

An "air-lift," Belmond style, performed Wednesday of last week, accomplished installation of a three-ton chunk of machinery that will serve as "heart" of the new General Mills feed mill. It was a major achievement and made Supt. Joe Flaspohler feel that the construction job is really making headway, despite a series of difficulties that has hampered its progress.

The mammoth Airveyor filter was hoisted to the top of the bin roof by an 80-foot crane, extended to 110-foot length by the addition of a 30-foot jib. Nearly the entire 110 feet of leeway were required to get the mass of metal atop the 89-foot bin structure.

Machinery contained in the filter will unload by suction all ingredients coming into the new mill to be converted into Larro feed. After sucking the soybean meal, minerals and what not to the roof top, the machine will deliver them to the correct bins by screw conveyors. It's all a part of the "push-button system" of operation that GMI says will make the Belmond mill as modern and efficient as any in the land.

It was quite a job raising the filter to the required height and settling it carefully into place, prompting a sigh of relief from all concerned when the deed was done.

Hotvets Elected To Head Belmond Masons and OES

New officers have been elected by King Solomon lodge No. 210 of the Masonic order and by the Belmond lodge of the Order of Eastern Star. Walt Hotvet will continue as Worshipful Master of the Masons and Mrs. Hotvet will succeed Mervis Tideback as Worthy Matron of the Star when joint installation is held by the two lodges on Jan. 12.

Other Masonic officers elected on Tuesday of last week were: Ervin Halverson of Dows, Senior Warden; Harold Haugen of Alexander, Junior Warden; Claude Benson, treasurer; and C. I. Williams, secretary. The latter two were returned to posts they have filled for some period of years.

In the course of the Eastern Star election, held earlier in the month, the following officers were elected for the coming year: Helmer Svendsen of Kanawaha, Worthy Patron; Mrs. H. T. Williams, Associate Matron; Lloyd Cunningham, Associate Patron; Mrs. C. N. Hildebrand, secretary; Rhea Campbell, treasurer; Mrs. C. A. Whitten of Rowan, Conductress; and Mrs. Cleo Wilson, Associate Conductress. Of this group, Mrs. Hildebrand and Miss Campbell were reelected.

Clair Dorr's Car Missing—Briefly

An Anglia auto (English-make Ford) was reported stolen here last Thursday night when Clair Dorr found the car missing after he and his wife had been at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fulton for supper.

Sheriff Bob Blecker is not entirely certain whether an actual theft was attempted, of if the car was moved as a misguided "trick." If the latter, he said afterward, the tricksters were exposing themselves to serious charges. Actually, the car was moved only two blocks from where it had been parked.

An hour or so after the Anglia was reported missing, it was found abandoned at the east end of Second street NE against the bank of the Rock Island railroad tracks. Sheriff Blecker reports that the parties who moved the car apparently were unable to get it started and pushed it to the spot where it was left.

Death of Mourlam Basis of $50,000 Suit for Damages

Suit was filed Monday in Wright county district court by Dr. Alan M. Nelson, executor for the estate of the late Donald Mourlam, asking damages of $50,000 as an outgrowth of the auto accident last July 13 that resulted in Mourlam's death. Defendants are Dorothy May Abels of Kanawha, driver of the car which collided with a gravel truck Mourlam was driving, and Eugene R. Abels, co-owner of the car.

It is contended by the plaintiff that negligence on the part of Mrs. Abels was the sole cause of the accident. The Belmond man, driving a truck owned by Oscar Nelson Gravel company, was instantly killed when his vehicle was overturned by impact of the collision. He was survived by his wife and two children.

According to the petition, the damages asked are to cover funeral expenses amounting to $797.90 and the earnings Mourlam might have been expected to make for the support of his family in the course of a normal lifetime. It was stated that he was 32 years old and at the time of his death had a life expectancy of 36.01 years; and that he was averaging approximately $65 per week income.

Jury trial is demanded by the plaintiff.

VFW Will Again Deliver Baskets

Letters went into the mail this week reminding all members of the Belmond post of Veterans of Foreign Wars that it's Christmas-basket time again. For a number of years, the Vets have followed the annual practice of providing a Christmas feast for such families in the community as might be on inappropriately light rations without the VFW's help.

Keith Chandler is chairman of the project this year and his assistants are Marv Meinders and Ted Volding. They will supervise filling and delivery of the baskets.

As has been the policy the past couple of years, members of the VFW are requested to give a dollar apiece toward purchase of the viands rather than supplying foodstuffs. This prevents waste and duplication, Chandler says, and works out better all the way around. He urges prompt return of donations.

Chamber Boosts Dues to Increase Budget to $3,800

Belmond Chamber of Commerce members have been notified of dues increases which the board of directors proposes to put into effect starting the first of the coming year. Such action had been approved by each of the four separate bureaus of the Chamber, in order to give the organization a greater amount of working capital with a view to expanding the Chamber's activities.

According to President C. C. Hiddleston, proportionate increases in annual dues have been drafted by the members of the board to produce a budget of $3,200, compared to the $1,800 that the Chamber has been limited to for some years past.

It was pointed out by Mr. Hiddleston that a basic membership fee of $15 has prevailed for the past 15 years. In the course of that period of time the purchase value of a dollar has decreased appreciably, with the result that the Chamber has been hard pressed to fulfill its varied functions satisfactorily. Some of the larger business firms have paid for more than a single membership, but even so the Chamber has been seriously hampered by inadequate funds.

Mr. Hiddleston says that a careful study was made by the directors before drafting the schedule of fees which the various Chamber members are being asked to pay. Every effort was made to assure that they be as equitable as possible. However, he emphasized that the figure submitted to each firm is a suggestion, only. Any firm feeling that its dues are out of line is free to ask the board's reconsideration.

Co-chairmen of the various Chamber bureaus, who are also members of the board, are: Ed Gabrielson and Russ Dougherty, retail trade bureau; Len Collier and Dr. P. A. Rietz, civic; Kenneth Kinseth and Lee Mussell, industrial; Don Bunnell and Don Nolan, agriculture.

IOOF, Rebekahs Elect Officers; Install Jan. 10

James McMurray was chosen as Noble Grand of the Belmond Odd Fellows lodge and Mrs. Jack Ketchum as Noble Grand of the Rebekahs at election meetings held recently by those two organizations. Mrs. Russell Porter is retiring head of the Rebekahs and Al Stadtlander of the Odd Fellows.

Other IOOF officers elected on Tuesday night of last week were: Ed Hopkey, Vice Grand; Russell Porter, recording secretary; Floyd Broshar, financial secretary; James Larson, treasurer; and Henry Hokel, trustee. Mr. Hokel was succeeding himself on the board.

Rebekah officers elected last Monday evening, in addition to Mrs. Ketchum, were: Mrs. James McMurray, Vice Grand; Mrs. Duane Thompson, recording secretary; Mrs. Floyd Broshar, financial secretary; Mrs. Donald Braner, treasurer; and Mrs. L. M. Helland, trustee.

A joint installation will be held by the two lodges on Monday, Jan. 10.

3,000 COFFEE CAN STRIPS WILL MEAN $300 IN TOYS

Mrs. Leland Barkema, chairman of the Past Presidents Parley of the American Legion Auxiliary, reports that members of the Auxiliary turned in more coffee can strips this year than ever before. Members of the Parley met Monday at Mrs. Barkema's home and spent a busy afternoon trimming and packing some 3,000 strips.

Manufacturer of the brand that sponsors the can-strip project agrees to purchase toys for Iowa orphanages on the basis of 10 cents worth for every strip turned in. Consequently, members of the Belmond Auxiliary will be responsible for providing $300 worth of toys for parentless youngsters in orphan homes this Christmas.

Belmond Remains At Top of Loop; LM Beaten, 71-64

Although the final score was misleadingly close, the BHS basketeers turned in their best performance of the season Tuesday evening to make Lake Mills their fourth, consecutive North Iowa conference victim. The count at the final buzzer was Belmond 71, Lake Mills 64; but only three minutes earlier, the Broncos had enjoyed a 20-point advantage, 69-49.

With the game apparently safely in the sack, Coach Dick Hobbs ran in reserves to finish out the waning moments of the game. For a brief time, it looked like it might have been a mistake. In the course of little more than two minutes of playing time, the ever-striving Bulldogs slashed Belmond's margin to 69-63.

Regulars Stop Rally

The clock showed about 35 seconds to go when Coach Hobbs rushed his starters back into the battle. They promptly took command, squelching the rally. Earlier in the fray, this same bunch had raced the visitors into the ground to make a run-away of what had been tight game in the opening stages.

Belmond led throughout the contest except for a brief occasion when Lake Mills edged in front, 18-17, in the second quarter. A surge just before halftime set up a 32-24 Bronco advantage at intermission. The winners steadily increased their margin when play resumed, fattening it to the aforementioned 20 points just before play entered the final three minutes.

Credit should be given the Bulldogs for their desperate effort to make up the deficit; but it would have netted them little had the Bronc substitutes not become so helpfully disorganized. It was a well-earned Belmond victory, an no mistake about it.

Moen Scores 28 Points

Ron Hansen and LeRoy [illegible] shared scoring honors for [illegible] with 17 points each. Smith was out for a little more than a quarter with a dangerous total of four fouls, but Ron played the game through. Jerry Chandler pitched in

Radio Station Supervisor Tells About Its Function

When Clair Dorr's Anglia (English-make Ford) was stolen last Thursday evening, a statewide pick-up order was broadcast by the state police radio station just south of Goodell. It doesn't exactly vouch for the efficiency of the radio system, in which the station is a link, that the missing vehicle was found in a snowbank only two blocks from home a relatively short time after the message went over the air.

The point is, the station stood ready to play its part in the prompt recovery of the car. Supervisor Emmett King says that stolen cars account for quite a chunk of the traffic that is handled by the station that went into operation north of town two month ago.

A staff of four mans the station. Supervisor King, who's home is Correctionville but who was transferred here from the state station at Storm Lake, is in charge. Operators are Greydon Jenison of Belmond, Hans Hansen of Clarion and operating 24 hours a day, seven days a week. There are six similar stations located at other points in the state and a central station at Des Moines that is equipped to contact state police anywhere in the United States, directly or by relay.

This state network is in constant contact with the frequency assigned by the Federal Communications Commission to the sheriffs' offices and police departments of Iowa. Consequently, the Belmond station is a link between any police force in the state that is equipped with two-way radio (Belmond's police department no longer has its patrol car radio-equipped) and law enforcement authorities anywhere in the nation.

Most of the local station's traffic consists of contacts with state patrol cars in its area. Last month, 3,150 such contacts were made. Next in volume was 292 items handled in relation to crimes or missing persons. King expects the sta-accustomed to making use of it.

Of last month's traffic handled over the station, it originated 179 messages and relayed 13. The station effectively handles two-way communications over an area of 50 or 60 air miles and its broadcasts can be heard up to 90 miles away. Reception from mobile units and county stations is satisfactory only over the shorter distances mentioned.

Situated between the state stations at Cedar Falls and Storm Lake, the one here is handling more and more communications from the fringe areas reached by the two earlier-established units. King expects his station's traffic volume in December will exceed last month's by 10 to 15 per cent.

Besides the contacts with patrolmen and messages regarding crime and missing persons, the state radio network's traffic includes: relays of information between officers and departments; public service when illness or injury strikes a family, and to locate law officers and military personnel for whom emergency messages are held.

Four summary broadcasts are made daily by the Belmond station. At 12:30 a. m. it brings patrolmen just going on duty up to date on wanted cars; at 8:00 a. m. a similiar broadcast is made for the next shift of patrolmen; at 11:00 a. m. a summary of the previous 24 hours' traffic is given; and at 4:15 p. m. another general traffic summary is put on the air.

King says that the state network still doesn't cover all of Iowa as effectively as law enforcement officials would like. Booster stations, such as was operated seven miles south of Belmond before the new station went on the air, help supplement the broadcast range of the primary stations. (The booster tower where No. 69 turns west toward Clarion is still standing, but will be removed next spring. It's

Iowa Farm Land Value Shows Bit Of Upturn in '54

Iowa farm land values increased an average of $7 an acre in the year ending Nov. 1. W. G. Murray, head of farm economics at Iowa State college, says that land values increased in all sections of Iowa except southern Iowa. The drouth forced the values down in that area.

A significant trend, Murray says, is the widening gap between the prices for the best and poorest farms. High-quality farms are becoming more valuable in comparison with low-quality farms. Murray says this is partly because the incomes from high-quality farms are better and partly because owners of high-quality farms invest more in their homes, buildings and soil productivity.

Trend Reversed

The rise in land values reverses the trend of declining values which started two years ago. Murray says sales activity continued low in all regions of Iowa during the past year, but prices went up everywhere except in the southern counties.

Murray makes this survey of land values in Iowa each year in cooperation with real estate brokers. This year 404 brokers throughout the state replied to the survey.

Until 1954, the upswings and downswings of land values in Iowa had been long-term affairs. Prices went down each year from 1920 to 1933. They went up every year from 1933 to 1951. They started down in 1952 and 1953. The rise in 1954 has broken the downswing.

Land Value Stabilized

Murray says the average value of land in Iowa on Nov. 1, 1954, was $205 an acre. For the moment, he says, it looks as if the average land value has stabilized near $200 an acre.

He says this stabilization probably results from two things:

1. Farm prices and income seem to be holding fairly stable at levels that seem to justify the $200-an-acre average price. Since 1950, the prices received by Iowa farmers have averaged between a low of 270 per cent and a high of 317 per cent of the 1910-14 average.

2. Farm values haven't been bid as high in relation to income as they were in earlier high-price periods.

SPORTS

Although their play still showed moments of early-season raggedness, the Broncos ticked off another easy win Friday night at Buffalo Center, 75 to 54. Inconsistent rebounding continued to appear the Belmond cagers' major weakness. But along with their occasional lapses, the Broncs showed flashes of polished form that gave their fans confidence that the boys will hit their stride before too long.

There was never any doubt of the Broncs' superiority over the Bison, after the early stages of the opening quarter. Midway in that stanza they began to pull away, but at the buzzer they possessed only a modest 16-10 advantage. It was the second period that sent Belmond into command as the host team was held to only five points while the Broncs added 19 to boast a 20-point margin at halftime, 35-15

Last Half Wide Open

After the intermission, the game turned into a free scoring battle that was long on excitement but rather short on finesse. Ron Hansen hit for 16 of his 24 points in those last two quarters. Madsen for eight of his total of 14. LeRoy Smith and Gene Mehl for six apiece. "Smitty" had 18 for the evening and Mehl eight.

Reserve Guard Ed Kahler gave the Bison a shot in the arm when he entered the fray after the rest period. He poked in 16 points, receiving able support from Pivot Don Beste, who got 11 points after scoring only one in the first half. Buffalo Center lost two starters on fouls, but their departure exerted little influence on the outcome of the game. Jerry Gerdis was benched late in the third quarter and Marv Steffensen—who'd tallied 13 ponts up to that time—left with six minutes of the games remaining.

Schimp Plays With Varsity

Belmond outscored the losers 22-20 in the third frame to lead 57-35. Buffalo Center counted 19 to the Broncs' 18 in the concluding period after appearance of reserves in the Belmond line-up disorganized the Purple and White offense. Larry Schimp, promoted from the froshmore ranks, played about half of the varsity game a committed himself well. Due to tenseness, he did not hit the hoop with his customary accuracy but nevertheless contributed five points. Jerry Chandler and Arlo Stoltenberg wound up the winners' scoring with four and two points, respectively.

Schimp's absence from the froshmore game was a factor in the Junior Broncs' first defeat of the season by a 38-36 margin in overtime. After trailing throughout most of the game, the Belmond crew overtook their adversaries at 21-all late in the third quarter and made a nip-and-tuck tussle of it the rest of the way

Long Leads Froshmores

Several dubious calls in the waning moments of the game played a part in the Belmond loss. One of them gave Buffalo Center the ball with nine seconds to go and the Junior Broncs ahead 34-32. The Bison Juniors capitalized on the opportunity by tyng the score and then going on to win in the extra period

Dave Long led the Belmond scoring with 11 points and played an all-around fine game. He was followed by Larry Kinseth with nine points and Bill Murray with eight. Roland Kinseth did a nice job at one of the guard positions.

If any significance at all can be attached to comparative scores, one would be led to predict that the advantage Belmond High's basketball brigade held over Forest City at the start of the season has virtually been wiped out by the Indians' improvement in the past few weeks. And it will certainly behoove the Broncos to face Friday night's game at Forest City with that assumption in mind.

There was no question of the Broncs' superiority when the two teams clashed in two quarters of pre-game play as a feature of the North Iowa conference jamboree. Belmond ended up in front by a decisive 26-19 margin; and it probably would have been more except for free use of reserves in the final two or three minutes.

Indians Undefeated

Since then, though, the Indians have swept past seven consecutive foes without a defeat and have shown evidences of steady development into a typical, tought-to-beat FC team. A tip-off that there is now little to choose between the Broncos and the Indians may have been provided by Forest City's joust last Friday with Britt on the latter's home court.

Ten days earlier, Belmond had battled to a 63-53 win over the Eagles. The Indians slightly better than matched that margin, taking a 63-52 decision.

Hard Battle in Prospect

In Center Layne Haugen and Forward Art Gilbertson, Coach Norm Jesperson has developed a pair of dependable scorers who have been giving opponents "fits." With play-maker Doug Glime, a stand-out from last year's team, to help set up the shots, Forest City has been hitting a fast scoring pace in practically every game.

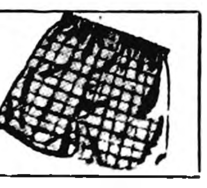
It seems likely that the Broncos will have to show more aggressiveness on rebounding and a generally sharper defense than they've been displaying if they are to keep the Indians under control. So far as the entire first round of conference play is concerned, this game stacks up as "the big one;" and after bowing to Belmond three times last season, the Indians will really be gunning for this one. The winner will be taking an important stride in the direction of the 1954-55 NIC championship.

KGLO Will Broadcast

Several Belmond business firms are sponsoring a broadcast of the Forest City game over radio station KGLO, Mason City. Bud Suter will be at the "mike," so that Bronco fans who find it impossible to follow the team tomorrow night can hear a good account of the battle by tuning in.

Barring belated success in scheduling a contest for the Broncs over the holidays, Friday night's action will be their last until they play host to Garner on Jan. 4.

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS



Having to write this column in advance of the games played on Tuesday nights is a decided disadvantage. Your scribe has to be careful not to include any comments that might be made obsolete—if not completely untrue—by the outcome of those Tuesday battles.

One thing we're sincerely HOPING as we type this is that Broncos won't at any point short of the final whistle get the idea in their minds that they have Lake Mills sacked up. Those Bulldogs are hard to "convince." Certainly no team for an adversary to "rest on their oars" against.

Against Garner, Lake Mills trailed 9-17 at the quarter and 25-35 at the half; but at the third quarter the Bulldogs were in front 43-40 and they won going away—55-48. It was nearly the same story when they played at Forest City. The Indians led 36-19 at the half; than sneaked in by a mere three points, 62-59.

—PSS—

It might be added that Garner had four of its starters benched via fouls in the final period; and the fifth had four marks against him. Garner's sports writer suggested there was a little lack of balance in the way fouls were called. The Cards were tapped for 28 infractions and the Bulldogs for only 12.

There is reason to believe, however, that either the Bulldogs are an exceptionally clean-playing bunch—or else they get in their licks so unobtrusively that they escape the officials' attention. When they played at Forest City, the Lake Mills cagers were not called for a single foul until mid-way through the third quarter!

Of course, by the book you might have thought that the Belmond-Northwood game was an exceptionally clean game—particularly in the first half. The Vikings had NO fouls called on them in the first quarter; and the Broncs none in the second. The officials blew their whistles for fouls only eight times in the first three periods—four against each team

In the opinion of most of the spectators at the Northwood game the play certainly WASN'T that gentlemanly. On the other hand, your scribe must admit that foul-calling in that fray wasn't the distraction it was in the Eagle Grove game. In the latter, the two teams made a total 51 points on free-throws. The Broncs and Vikings, together, made only 11 points on charity chances. The officiating in the Northwood game was pretty poor, in general; but at least it had the merit of letting the boys play some ball.

—PSS—

It was gratifying to Belmond fans to see the Broncos hitting on free throws with more nearly their customary efficiency in their win over Buffalo Center. After a miserable 40 per cent performance against Northwood, the boys jacked their average up to two out of every three tries against the Bison—17 hits against nine misses.

—PSS—

After Clarion had permitted Hampton to chalk up its first win in 39 games, 51-47, a man could have made enough to retire on by correctly anticipating that in their very next game the Cowboys would bow to Eagle Grove—AT Eagle Grove—by only the same four-point margin.

And it was freethrows that gave the winners even that meager margin.

Clarion led 27-26 at the half and 46-45 with only a quarter to go and outhit the Eagles on field goals, 18 to 17. But the Cowboys were guilty of 24 fouls, 10 more than Eagle Grove, and were outscored from the foul line 23 to 17.

Klemme District Ruled as Winner In Court Action

Judge Tom Boynton of Forest City last week ruled in favor of the defendant in the Hancock county district court case of the State of Iowa ex rel Harvey Harberts et al vs. the Klemme Community School district. His decision brought dismissal of the case, at the plaintiffs' cost.

It had been alleged by the plaintiffs that irregularities were involved in the proceedings that brought establishment of the new Klemme district and asked the court to enter a decree finding them null and void.

Among the considerations involved was usurpation by the Klemme district of a section and a half of land in the former Goodell Independent School district that had been annexed by Belmond Community School district. The Belmond election preceded that conducted by the proposed Klemme district by a considerable period of time.

In his ruling, Judge Boynton explained that the law invovled "seems badly written, vague and confusing," but that the court could only assume it to be the lawmakers' intention to leave the matter of redistricting and reorganization in a state of flux. He added he personally doubted the wisdom thereof, but that he regarded correction of the situation lies with the legislature, not the court.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MARGARET BROOKS

Death of Mrs. Margaret Wilson Brooks two weeks ago yesterday was inadvertantly omitted from last week's issue. She died at Belmond Community hospital, having suffered a stroke several weeks earlier. Mrs. Brooks had reached the age of 79.

Services were held at Eyler Funeral Home, Clarion, the Friday following her death and burial was in Clarion cemetery. Rev. Harvey Travis of the Clarion Methodist church officiated.

A native of Clarion, Mrs. Brooks had made Belmond her home following marriage to the late Thomas Brooks many years ago. She lived with her brother, John Wilson, after her husband died. She is survived by another brother, Pete Wilson of Des Moines.

CLIFFORD TOFT INDUCTED

Three young men were inducted into the U. S. Army on Tuesday of this week at Des Moines to fill Wright county's selective service quota for the current month. They were Clifford Toft of Belmond, Mervyn Hilpiper of Clarion and Darrell Whitmer, present address Fort Dodge.

Consultant Cites Belmond District As "Good" Reorganization Example

Belmond Community School district is cited in the December issue of the state department of public instruction's Educational Bulletin as one of the recent examples of school reorganization in Iowa that deserves special attention from other districts contemplating a similar step.

Written by John Shultz, reorganization consultant for the department, the article notes that since 1951, 150 new school corporations have been formed in Iowa. A direct result of these reorganization actions has been to decrease by five the number of high schools in the state and to reduce by 200 the number of school districts.

"Large" Schools in Minority

Mr. Shultz comments: "Twenty per cent of the 150 districts had a total enrollment of 600 pupils or more in the grades kindergarten through 12. One-fourth of them had fewer than 300 pupils in these grades and 55 per cent had fewer than 400 pupils enrolled.

"Eighty-five per cent of the 150 districts had as much as $7,500 in assessed valuation per child enrolled. The lowest assessed valuation was $4,434 and the highest, $19,980. Thirty-five per cent of the districts had an area of less than 50 square miles.

"The 150 new districts were formed within 36 Iowa counties and with only one or two exceptions they are found in the northern two-thirds of the state. In the southern three tiers of counties, there have been but two new districts formed."

Faults Avoided Here

Remarking on the less encouraging aspects of the prevailing trend toward reorganization, Mr. Shultz observed that in too many instances: (1) the districts formed have been too small in terms of pupils; (2) that in the name of reorganization the new districts have too frequently followed the old pattern of consolidation, anticipating that all but one attendance center shall be close and all pupils transported to that one; (3) the majority of districts will be able to do little to improve the breadth and quality of their programs unless they spend more per pupil to do it.

In this connection, Mr. Shultz made a special point of the fact that the Belmond district "easily meets the acceptable minimum standards." He brought out that elementary attendance centers are maintained at both Belmond and Goodell; that the district's area covers more than 100 square miles and has an enrollment in excess of 1,000 pupils; and that the assessed valuation approximates $9,400,000.

On the basis of average daily attendance, which is the governing factor in determining state aid, Belmond Community School district has average valuation of more than $10,000 per child. This places the district among those in the top five per cent in Iowa from the standpoint of valuation per pupil.

Even prior to the reorganization, the Belmond school system was offering a curriculum that compared favorably with those provided by even larger schools; and had been raising the standards that members of its faculty are required to meet.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schilling of Kanawha were Sunday afternoon visitors in the Harry Brooks home.

quacies, the network provides the arm of the law with a weapon that greatly enhances its effectiveness. King cited the example of a recent car theft at Garner, which found the culprits apprehended near Greyhound station little more than 15 minutes after the auto was taken.

A patrolman can check on the ownership of a suspicious car, via the state radio station, and have what information he needs back from Des Moines in a matter of five minutes or less. He can check on the validity and status of a driver's license in the same fashion. And many a drunk driver has been "grounded" before he could do harm to himself or others, thanks to the ready liason between enforcement officials and the public that is provided by the radio network.

Inter-station teletype also links all seven of the state stations, and Des Moines headquarters of the department of public safety. This augments the radio network and assures prompt means of communication relay from virtually any place in the U. S. to the state stations; whereupon these stations can pass information on to any police department that might be concerned.

That is, of course, providing the police department is equipped with two-way radio; which Belmond's department—as previously mentioned—no longer is.

● BRONCOS—

15 points and turned in by all odds his best game to date. Both Keith Madsen and Gene Mehl played important roles in the conquest and tallied 12 and 10, respectively.

Hansen carried on a battle royale with Lake Mills' lofty Loren Moen, but with their totals standing at 17 and 18, the latter went on to net 10 more to lead the scoring with 28. His ablest cohort was Forward Dave Gunderson, who netted 13. Lake Mills outhit the Broncos on field goals, 27 to 25; but Belmond sank 21 of 29 freethrows while the Bulldogs converted on only 10 of 22 chances.

Froshmores Win

Belmond's froshmores got back into winning stride, taking the Bullpups into camp 31 to 24. The Junior Broncos got off to a dismal start, trailing 0-5 at the quarter and 8-15 at the half. But after the visitors had grabbed a 17-8 lead as play resumed, the Belmond boys got down to business. They were in front 21-19 entering the final stanza.

Larry Kinseth, Bill Murray and Dave Long led in scoring, with 10, eight and seven points, respectively.

VICE-CONSUL VISITS

A recent guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simerson was Mrs. Bryan Ostby, who is Norwegian vice-consul at Duluth, Minn. A long-standing friend of the Simerson family, Mrs. Ostby acceded to that post a few months ago upon the death her husband, who had been serving as vice-consul.

● Belmond Locals

Mr. and Mrs. Jelto Beenken and Mrs. Lottie Meinders attended the funeral of Warner Beenken Monday afternoon at Buffalo Center. Warner Beenken was the brother of Jelto and Mrs. Meinders.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Benham visited Mrs. Benham's sister, Mrs. Dora Paulson, in Clarion Friday. She suffered a stroke a week ago and is very ill.

H. H. Larson went to Madison Wisc., Saturday and visited until Monday with two young fellows who arrived from Denmark recently and now are employed at Madison.

Sunday dinner guests in the Francis Ainger home were Mr. and Mrs. Myron Benton of Eagle Grove. Afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Carr of Rowan. Supper guests were Mr. and Mrs. Don Gunderson of Clarion and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ainger.

IOWA'S SCHOOL REORGANIZATION LAW CITES NEED FOR LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL

Two school reorganization court cases with identical aspects were quashed recently in Hancock and Winnebago counties, emphasizing the fact that existing state law on reorganization needs a thorough going over by the up-coming general assembly.

In both cases, districts that had already been consolidated in conformance with the law had a section and a half of land taken from their respective areas by bordering districts subsequently established. Klemme's new community school district infringed on Belmond's area by the amount of area mentioned and Thompson grabbed the same amount of land from Rake.

It will, no doubt, be readily granted by both the Belmond and Rake school officials that the loss of territory wasn't large enough to matter seriously; but the principle of priority that is recognized in most legal considerations gets short shrift from the reorganization law as it now stands. That, very obviously, could lead to some highly reprehensible developments.

Instead of a section and a half, a legally established consolidated district could just as well see itself "raided" for 10 or 15 sections. Granted, such a case is highly unlikely; but the precedent exists for a grab of major proportions.

Judge William P. Butler of the Winnebago district court, ruling on the Rake-Thompson case, was very outspoken in his cricism of the present school law.

"It is pointed out with some force," said this magistrate, "that to permit a newly formed community (school district) to be raided by other surrounding community districts to be later formed is a bad policy. . . . However, there is no ambiguity in chapter 275 insofar as it applies to this situation and there is no ground upon which a court might interpret the section so as to avoid taking of property from a newly-formed district."

Judge Tom Boynton, ruling on the Klemme case, agreed thoroughly with this opinion. He stated, as did Judge Butler, that responsibility for correction lies with the legislature, not with the court.

In our opinion, the situation emphatically points up the need for a legislative council that has the time and the proper training to draft Iowa statutes that achieve EXPLICITLY their intended purpose. Iowa has had foisted upon it altogether too much legislation in recent years that has given rise to confusion and extensive litigation immediately upon its passage. We suspect that the expense that the school law has caused various individual taxpayers, school districts and the state in the recent rash of court cases would have financed the cost of a legislative council for quite a period of time.

It has become highly apparent that, while our legislators may be capable law-makers, they are NOT competent to double in brass as law DRAFTSMEN. If ever they are going to see the wisdom of employing professional advisors to assist them in the technical phases of their legislative responsibilities, they should see it now.

MAN, YOUR "ECONOMIC VALUE" IS UP EVEN IF CHRISTMAS DOES PINCH YOU

"The economic value of man in the United States," observes the Institute of Life Insurance in a recent publicity release, "has risen spectacularly in recent years, thanks largely to the growth of opportunity, the rising educational level and skill of the working population, and the marked increase in the productivity of the whole economy."

To back up this observation, the Institute points out that the average man starting out to earn his living today has a prospective life income in excess of $150,000, based on current conditions of employment, income and survival rates —and their projection into the future. Data compiled by the U. S. Bureau of the Census provides the basis for this peek into an apparently rosy future.

Comparable figures derived from the 1950 census indicated that the prospective lifetime income of the average man figured $133,000 in 1949. Figures upon which to base comparable projections for years prior to 1949 are not available. However, taking into account all general economic conditions today as compared with those existing at the beginning of World War II — including the effects of the intervening inflationary period — the Institute declares, "It is conservative to state that the economic value of man in the U. S. has more than doubled in the last decade and a half."

"Here is dramatic evidence," the Institute summarizes, "of what a free economy can accomplish for the average man in a comparatively short space of time."

Maybe we're acting the Pollyana to try telling our readers how well off they've become, right at the time when they're trying a bit desperately to fit the cost of Christmas shopping into the family budget. But there it is, you lucky people!

Missionary Herbert Nelson Says Reds Propagandize African Natives; Makes Missions' Work Doubly Vital

(Following is the second and final installment of a letter lately received by friends from Rev. Herbert Nelson, a native son of Belmond who is now a Lutheran missionary stationed at Hlabisa, Zululand, South Africa. As this installment starts, he is commenting on Bible classes he and his wife conduct regularly in the hills surrounding Hlabisa.)

At one of our visits we came across an old man. We invited him to come, and gave him one of Laurine's copies of the story and picture of Zachaeus.

He was very proud to receive this and promised to come the next day. Yes, he was there in his heathen garb—only an animal skin around his loins.

All the heathen value tracts, pictures and all literature. A letter to them is like getting something from the Queen of England. I hope to be able soon to write my own tracts and have them printed so I can have them to give out wherever I go. Wish I had my own mimeograph machine to turn out my own materials. Even if a heathen takes a tract or Bible story and is not able to read it, he will call a family council meeting down by the cattle kraal and get one of the children who can read, to read the important paper.

Reds Spread Propaganda

And let me say everybody is present and eagerly waiting to hear what is being said and read. Then a discussion follows. Does it pay to give them literature? The Communists are getting their materials to these people in the form of literature, so why shouldn't we? If some of you people back there have some of the Lord's money hid under your rug or in the bank and you would like to see it used for a good cause, such as I have mentioned above, send it out and it will be used in bringing the written word to the heathen.

In another visit we met a wierd looking woman who is an isangoma (witch doctor). We gave her the story of "ofe uhlangothi" (healing the paralytic), thinking this might fit her profession. She, too, was proud to get some literature and even came the next two days, bringing her son and daughter-in-law along.

123 Natives at Meeting

The last day of Bible school we had prizes for perfect attendance, for those who knew all 12 Bible verses and where they were found in the Bible, and for the neatest bookelts which we had them color each day. Then we gave them all "sweeties" (candy). There were 123, besides nine of us missionaries, on the last day. I took my small, portable light-plant along in the trunk of my car. We started that and used our projector to show color slides and Bible film strips. Many of them said that they had never seen anything so wonderful in all their lives.

The weather looked bad all week. We are in the rainy season, too, but we prayed that God would permit us to get there each day. We knew we were doing His work, so believed He would answer our request.

Natives Cheer Arrival

Well, He did just that. We drove all the way each day to the top of the hill. The last day, Friday, it rained early in the morning so I had to put chains on for the last three miles, which was off the mud road. Here we followed only cowpaths and used our best judgment in dodging rocks in the tall grass.

All the natives cheered when I came up the last half mile, spinning away with mud flying in every direction. Then when I lifted the trunk and took out the portable motor, which gave lights and even had pictures in it, their eyes really popped.

We are all in good health, for which we are thankful. Julene is in school, about 100 miles from here, and is doing real well. She has made the necessary adjustments in fine shape. She was home for her birthday a couple of weeks ago, so we celebrated her 7th birthday.

Children Learning Zulu

Bruce and Brenda are growing and learning to talk Zulu in fine fashion, without going to language school as their Mom and Pop have to do. Bruce is also learning to talk Afrakaans. It's real fun to hear our children converse with our native maids. They seem to get the right twist of the tongue, the clicks that are so prevalent in the Zulu language. Even the tone of your voice can change the meaning of a word. Some words change meaning by only raising or lowering the pitch of your voice.

As for Mom and Pop, we're doing OK too. We're thoroughly enjoying our opportunity to study the language under a competent teacher. But now we are looking forward to the time after Christmas when we will be situated at our mission station, where I will be in charge of 18 out-stations. Some of these are over 50 miles one way from the parsonage where we live. There are five or six out-stations where I will have to walk, as it is impassable by auto.

What I really need, I believe, is a portable helocopter to strap on my back—and fly in and out. If some of you Americans invent one, I'll gladly try it out and put it to good use for a good cause. The parsonage is over 4 000 feet above sea level and most of my out-stations will be close to 1,000 feet—some even at sea level.

Our new address after Christmas will be: Untunjambili Mission Station, via Kranskop Natal, South Africa. Greetings to one and all from your representatives in Africa, to bring the good tidings of God's love in Jesus Christ.

In His Name,
Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Nelson and family.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Neal Stanford, in Christian Science Monitor, Says Columbus Was Second—by 68 Years

It looks as if our history books are going to have to be rewritten. That bit of grammar school doggerel, "in 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue," has been exposed as an historical fraud—unintentional perhaps, but inaccurate nonetheless, if it is quoted to date the discovery of America.

Something like the following may have to be substituted if grade-schoolers are going to continue to pass their history exams by rhyme and rote: "In 1424, an unknown Portuguese touched our shore,"—or, "long before Columbus sailed the Atlantic, a Portuguese charted this route romantic."

My authority for this is some publicity recently received from the University of Minnesota, regarding some rare and early maps acquired for its James Ford Bell Rare Books Library. It highlighted a picture of a 1424 nautical chart acquired by the Bell Library at a fabulous price, so fabulous the publicity wouldn't say how much.

It was a question with me as I looked at it whether the map or its history was the more intriguing. The map is undoubtedely worth its weight in uranium. It looks its age. It is covered with geometric lines that are impressive even if meaningless. It abounds with inked-in islands and a plethora of unreadable names which the cut lines say are in Portuguese "in a Venetian dialect," and in which the name "Antilia" appears clearly and boldly.

Thus the chain of islands off our southeastern coast, that we now call the Antilles, was apparently definitely known to wayfarers at least three-quarters of a century before Columbus "sailed the ocean blue."

This map has been authenticated by none other than Prof. Armando Cortesao, of the University of Coimbra in Portugal, "the greatest authority on maps and charts of the 15th century," the publicity tells me. Incidentally he was recommended, it appears, to rule on the authenticity of this early map by none other than the British Museum, whose rectitude and wisdom I certainly hesitate to question.

Which brings me to the history of the map—rather than the map as a bit of history. My first question, of course, was the same you have undoubtedly been asking: Where has this treasure been, lo, these five centuries?

The map it appears was part of a collection belonging to Sir Thomas Phillips (1792-1872), an antiquarian and rare documents collector of some scope and acumen. His collection, kept intact, was bought in 1946 by the William H. Robinson, Ltd., rare-manuscripts firm in London, "reputedly the largest such purchase ever made by a dealer."

Sir Thomas had collected 60 000 maps, manuscripts, etc., in his day, which the publicity describes as "the greatest private collection of manuscripts in modern times." This brings us down to 1946. Since then the Robinson firm has been busy examining, identifying, listing these treasures and disposing of them piecemeal.

This particular map, dated 1424, happened to be No. 25,924 in the Phillips collection; but it never was identified until recently since the cataloguing of the collection prior to '46 never got beyond No. 23,837! So for years, this nugget of historical gold lay buried in some London vault unnumbered, unhonored, and unsung.

It was only when the Robinson firm bought the collection in '46, got the London Museum to help them evaluate their find, and it recommended that Prof. Cortesao authenticate this document, that its rarity and importance and value came to light. Minnesota bought it with money put up by General Mills founder, James Ford Bell, donator of the rare books library and university regent. And, now, all of us and our children and children's children have to relearn our history and unlearn that old and now unreliable couplet about "1492."

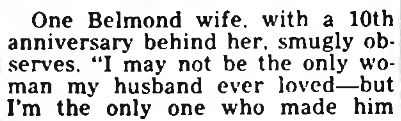
"Some men with big ideas about how to run our ship of state can't even paddle their own canoe."



One Belmond wife, with a 10th anniversary behind her, smugly observes, "I may not be the only woman my husband ever loved—but I'm the only one who made him prove it!"

We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give. — Coffee Cup.

If you lean over backwards in being fair, it's harder for your enemies to kick you in the pants. —Grit.

One fellow who gets a lot done observes sagely, "There is no limit to the good a man can do if he doesn't care who gets the credit for it."

When a chap in the east part of town had a run of misfortune, a neighbor lady told us, "at least he's taking it like a man—blames it all on his wife."

"All men want to succeed," says a Main street employer, "but not enough want to succeed so badly they're willing to work for it."

Then there's the Belmond merchant who says he'll always look back on 1946 as the year when ball point pens sold for $15.

A Belmond insurance man defines a "cautious motorist" as "the fellow who isn't sure whether or not his auto policy has lapsed."

Thomas Huxley said: "The rung of a ladder was never meant to rest upon, but only to hold a man's foot long enough to enable hom to put the other somewhat higher."

A housewife we know says she doesn't really like the soap operas, except it's so wonderful to "come to" and realize the dishes are done.

H&L Will Exhibit New Farmall Line Friday, Saturday

L. M. Helland and L. C. Long of Helland and Long Implement store got a preview of the new, 1955 line of Farmall tractors at a district meeting of International Harvester dealers held Wednesday of last week at Des Moines.

"We are really enthusiastic over those new tractors and the way they've been especially designed to give farmers more 'production line' efficiency to help them solve the problem of rising production costs and declining farm prices," report the partners in the Belmond IHC dealership.

They say that Farmall will offer five new tractors—the one-plow Cub, one-two-plow 100, two-plow 200, three-plow 300 and four-plow 400 These replace the former Cub, Super A, Super C, Super H and Super M-TA

In today's Independent, Mr. Helland and Mr. Long announce that they are holding open house at their implement store this coming Friday and Saturday to give their friends and patrons a chance to see some of these new tractors, personally

Say the IHC dealers, "A farmer can get a Farmall of just the size he wants in a tractor, and equipped with the implements and features that exactly fit his needs. We honestly believe that with a Farmall he can do more work, better, easier, in less time and at less cost."

Frank Long of the H&L force also attending the "unveiling" meeting at Des Moines.

Donkey Ball Tilt Slated Saturday

Ralph Godfrey and his Oklahoma donkeys, known by virtue of baseball appearances in this general vicinity in recent years, will pay a visit to Meservey this Saturday as basketball virtuosos. Their performance here will be under sponsorship of the Meservey Lions club for the benefit of its community welfare fund.

Two teams of Meservey men are being organized to mount the long-eared steeds for as hilarious a game of basketball as local cage fans can ever hope to witness. Names of the players are not being announced in advance, but all will be familiar to the spectators.

The unusual entertainment will be offered at the high school gymnasium, starting at 7:00 p. m. A race involving mechanical donkeys will be a halftime feature and an exhibition by a trick donkey is promised to liven the lull between quarters.

There will be nothing mechanical about the animals the cagers will be obliged to ride during the game. They will be genuine, flesh-and-blood "Rocky Mountain canaries," subject to all the stubbornness and trickery of their species.

Though Yuletide "Fillers" Packed Its Pages

Pre-Christmas Issue of Herald-Press in '14 Carried 1,750 Fewer Column-Inches Than Today's Independent

Forty years ago The Herald-Press, one of The Independent's several predecessors, published an eight-page, six-column issue on Christmas Week. That constituted a total of 960 column-inches of space, compared to the 2,816 included in The Independent's 16 pages being published today—pages that are eight columns wide; columns 22 inches deep, compared to The Herald-Press's 20.

Even so, in the village that was Belmond of that day only enough "local" news and correspondence to fill approximately two and a half pages was available for that pre-Christmas edition.

No Greetings 40 Years Ago

There was not one, single Christmas greeting of the kind with which today's issue of The Independent bulges. In late years, business firms have come to regard a greeting in The Independent's Christmas edition as the ideal way to express best wishes of the season to ALL of their customers. And each year finds more firms being added to the list.

Of course, with news at a minimum and the volume of advertising in no way comparable with that carried by its modern-day successor, The Herald-Press faced somewhat of a problem even to fill the fewer columns of the smaller-sized paper that went out to its readers dated Dec. 23, 1914. But it got the job done. Christmas features was the answer.

(Ten years earlier, The Iowa Valley Press of 1904 wasn't equally successful. It's eight pages on the week of Dec. 22 included four that were simply blank!)

Two, lenghty Christmas stories accounted for five columns in that Dec. 23rd Herald-Press—"A Vagrant Christmas Gift," by one Albert Edward Converse, and "Santa Claus and Little Billee," authored by John Kendrick Bangs. Pathos ran high in these minor, literary masterpieces, and if an eye was dry after reading them it was only because the possessor of that eye was too callous to be imbued with the Christmas spirit.

Another half-column was devoted to a spritely tale borrowed from the Youth's Companion. There's also a touching bit of verse by a Wilbur Nesbit entitled "Little Rastus on Santa Claus." Li'l ol' Rastus wonders how come the white chilluns always seem to get toys that are gay and new, whereas those that come his way at Christmastime seem inevitably to be broken, battered and scarred

Rastus concludes:

I as' my mammy ef Sandy Claus ain' done know jes how Ter men' dem toys, an' fix dey paint, en she say:
"No don' worry chile, 'bout de white folks, 'cause Hit's de good Lawd's plan."
So I guess dat man Mistah Sandy Claus—He secon' han' man!

Shades of Topsy! But philosophical contemplation of the Yuletide seems to run a heavy course through much of the issue's 'filler". Even in a boxed feature entitled, "Santa Claus Says," the series of brief quotes from St. Nick was a step this side of being festive. Quoth the patron saint of Christmas, for example:

"Fortunately for most of us, we don't get what we deserve for Christmas."

"You are living in God's own country. What more do you want for Christmas?"

"If Willie wants to see what's inside the drum, for goodness sakes let him!"

A Bit of Kissing Advice

What a merry old cuss! We did enjoy a chuckle with him, though, when he observed, "It's a wise Santa who keeps his whiskers away from the candles." Then there was another clutch of quotes headed, "Under the Mistletoe." It includes such sage comment as: "A kiss too soon may be a full stop to the tale of love;" and "To ask a girl if you may kiss her before doing it is an insulting way of laying all the responsibility on her."

Your reporter felt he was definitely a better man after reading a column entitled, "True Spirit of the Day," written by Prudence Standish. Prue, apparently, was an earlier-day Dorothy Dix and was just bubbling with advice. She delivered many a gentle wrist-slap to those readers who might feel led to let practical considerations influence their Christmas purchases.

A Card for That Rich Uncle

"In point of mere etiquette," declared Miss Standish (we wondered in the course of reading her essay if it shouldn't have been Miss Stand-offish), "it is thought bad taste for a person of modest means to give presents of value to others of wealth and influence, for this savors too much like currying to continued favor if the giver is already under obligations. But some knowledge of the helpful friend's existence is necessary, and this may take the form of a pretty Christmas card with appropriate greeting.

"That the servant who has given her bodily strength and heart's best interest to the home must not be forgotten, goes without saying; but it is certainly bad form to make the poor servitor's gift an inexpensive trifle when something better can be afforded."

Cut Out That Hedging!

Prue broaches no nonsense in the matter of guarding against giving better than you get. Says she, "Then what woeful want of taste it shows for us to defer buying a friend's or sister's present until we have found out what she means to give us, and so make the exchange a quid pro quo."

After thus demonstrating that even a Latin phrase can ripple lightly off her pen, she puts in a good word for those kiddies who find it difficult to make over their lives for several weeks each year. She declares, "As for the little children, so much are their feelings painfully strained at this time that I would like very much to write a book on the subject. I beg every mother not to threaten the poor little heart that misbehaves sometimes with the eternal word that 'Santa Claus won't come if you do that any more.'

Treat the Kiddies Tenderly

"The dear little kiddie who forgets to be good knows better after a year or two of this harrowing threat, which makes you out a story teller. Meanwhile, there is a little heart staying awake at night with its dreadful anxieties; there are the sudden storms of bitter tears, with all glory of Christmas sunk in the bottomless pit of absolute sureness that Santy—dear, abused, good old fat gentleman—won't come."

Ah, those must have been the days! In the modern household a juvenile misdemeanor is at best apt to draw such a noncommital confession as, "OK! So I goofed!" That Santa Claus threat must have been a lulu, while it lasted And if it worked as well as Miss Standish implies, we doubt that she talked very many parents out of employing it.

Puritans Outlawed Pudding

One item we found of genuine interest. It concerned certain trials and tribulations to which the English Puritans of the 17th century were subjected, and made us understand better than ever why some of them decided to light out for the "new world."

"Because Christmas is really a survival of the Celts' Yule, and is not actually the anniversary of the birth of Christ (something we'd never heard before), they (the Puritans) refused to countenance Christmas festivities. Not only did they refuse to recognize the day, but they made laws to that effect.

"The parliament of 1644 passed an act ordering all law abiding citizens to observe December 25 as a solemn fast, to be spent in silent atonement for previous Christmas days that had passed in riotous living and merrymaking. Naturally, the communty did not share in these hard and fast rules, and many turkey was surreptitiously killed and many a plum pudding quietly boiled.

Bootlegging Pies Dangerous

"But woe betide the unfortunate offender against the act, were he luckless enough to be discovered. Soldiers were sent to search the houses of those suspected of harboring such delicacies as mince pies, etc., and many were the pitched battles between disagreeing sections of the public."

Well, even in this year of 1954, we suspect that some pretty fancy pitched battles could be fomented by a ban on Christmas turkey, plum pudding and mince pie!

Violins, Cracker Jars, Music Rolls Were Gift Suggestions in 1904

Perusing the files for 'Way Back When items during the recent pre-Christmas weeks, your reporter has repeatedly wondered what a Belmond shopper of 1904 would have thought, had she been privileged to browse amongst such wonders as the Main street stores have offered this current season.

So much would be startlingly strange and wonderful! Take two such staple items as socks and dolls. Can you imagine her amazement at being offered a pair of socks ostensibly barely large enough for a grade school boy, with the assurance that her husband need only put them on to have them the RIGHT size? (We're told by the local clothier that some of the old-timers remain unconvinced of the stretchy socks' versatile eccentricity.)

It Was "China" Dolls Then

Dolls of that earlier day possessed heads of china, bisque and metal, the Iowa Valley Press of 1904 informs us. Rag dolls could be had at 10 to 25 cents, china dolls 5c to 25c (ALL china, that is), dressed dolls 5c to $1.50. If you wanted something "different," there were dolls with kidskin bodies.

No doubt they thrilled the little girls of 50 years ago just as much as the walking, talking, wetting wonders that the "little mothers" of today find the next thing to a real baby. Hair that "does up;" real-skin flesh that washes LIKE real skin. . . . Of course, the prices have changed a bit, too.

Carpet Sweeper Suggested

Television has introduced a host of specialized items whose utility would have utterly perplexed the 1904 shopper. TV lamps, TV swivel chairs, lunch sets—not to mention TV itself. What was "the thing" in furniture, back in aught-four? For the children were suggested—rocking horses, rockers, toy dressers, carpet sweepers and stick horses; for "everybody" — parlor tables, rockers, carpet sweepers, couches, pictures, trunks.

Chinaware continues a popular gift item, but today's colorful, modern-styled pieces are a far cry from the stock that McCurnin Brothers boasted of five decades ago: "The best grade of decorated Austrian china, consisting of salads, sugars and creams, cake plates, olive and bonbon dishes, spoon trays, cracker jars, mustache cups."

Hose Not Advertised

It would appear that that present-day stand-by, women's hose, was classified among the "unmentionables" in that earlier era. At least, E. L. Tiede, the leading merchantile merchant of that time, advertises no hosiery. Probably a lady of 1904 would have felt positively unclothed with her "limbs" encased in a pair sheer, nylon stockings.

Mr. Tiede played up his ladies' coats, $6 to $20; ladies' suits, $5 to $7.50; mufflers and handkerchiefs, 5c to $1.50; Christmas furs (scarfs, boas and muffs) 75c to $15; winter shawls at $1.50 to $10 and fascinators at 25c to $3. Oh yes, and candy at 12c per pound — or "our finest chocolates" at 24c.

Musical Instruments Popular

Radio and TV have eliminated the need for people to entertain themselves. But McCurnins' had a large stock of violins ($6 to $15), guitars ($6 to $9) and banjos ($5); also Regina music boxes, Edison phonographs and Victor talking machines. There were games; for the children—jack straws, Buster Brown, Foxy Grandpa, dominoes; for grown-ups—Pit, Flynch, Sherlock Holmes and Spell Bound.

Books cut a small figure on the shelves of Belmond's store today—except for the paper-bound volumes in a few establishments. But back then, there was a good demand for such best-sellers of the day as "The Prodigal Son," "Beverley of Graustark," "The Crossing," "When Knighthood Was in Flower" and "Little Women."

How About a Music Roll?

For that "distinctive" gift you could choose from: albums, music rolls, cuff and collar boxes, glove and handkerchief boxes, mirrors, medallions, photograph boxes, smoking sets.

There were no frozen-food compartments at the grocery stores; relatively few packaged goods You could buy five pounds of rolled oats for 20c, from bulk; a barrel of New York apples for $2.75; and you bought in bulk—sweet, sour and dill pickles, maple sugar, olives, sauerkraut A string of rock candy could be bought for a nickel; soda crackers (bulk, of course) 7c per pound; rice, seven pounds for a quarter.

Ad's Still "Sell"

But the siren call to Christmas shoppers has changed but little with the passing of a half century. The following heading to a 1904 "ad" would still do today, without too much alteration: "A Cheerful Call to Christmas Buyers! Our Bright and Sparkling line of Christmas Gifts is ready for inspection. Come and Look. The Newest Novelties, the Best Selections. The most Appropriate Presents for one and all."

A one-man scoring exhibition by Ronnie Hansen, plus some fine clutch playing by his team mates and generally good defensive work by all hands, kept Belmond on top of the North Iowa conference cage standngs Friday night by virtue of a 42-41 win over Forest City. It was a spine-tingling battle, which saw the lead change hands five times in the final two minutes of play.

Appropriately enough, it was Hansen who delivered the fatal blow to the Indians' hopes with about 30 seconds to go. After being fouled by Guard Tom Bartleson, Ron calmly converted both free-throw attempts to fix the final score after the same Bartleson had sent Forest City ahead moments before on a jump shot.

Lead Changes Repeatedly

During the first three quarters of the game, the lead had been exchanged by the NIC leaders 11 times. Belmond grabbed an early lead and maintained a slight advantage until the closing stages of the 1st period. Forest City went in front at 8-7 and after the Broncs had momentarily edged ahead again 11-10, Doug Glime hit from the side of the floor to send Forest City in front at the buzzer, 12-11.

Neither team ever enjoyed a margin of more than two points during the dog-eat-dog second stanza. Hansen hooked one in to put Belmond in the van, 21-19, less than 15 seconds before halftime. But in the fleeting seconds that remained, Guard Carroll Carson managed to slip in a tying field goal.

FC Scoreless Four Minutes

Both teams played with extreme caution after action was resumed. Belmond set up a virtually impenetrable defense and for more than four minutes, the Indians went scoreless. A pair of hits by Hansen gave the Broncs a 25-21 edge edge during this interval. But Glime and Art Gilbertson each hit for a pair of nice fielders in the balance of the quarter, while Belmond's scoring was limited to one bull's-eye by Jerry Chandler. That left the Broncs trailing 27-29 as the final period got under way.

Forest City pulled gradually ahead in the last quarter until the Broncs found themselves in the unhappy plight of having five points to make up and less than four minutes left. With the count 35-30, it was Ron Hansen who put Belmond back in the running with a couple of nifty hook shots, shortening the deficit to 35-34.

Broncs Edge in Front

Less than three minutes remained when Layne Haugen, the Indian's center, capitalized on a foul by LeRoy Smith to make it 37-34. Once more Hansen came through with the required heroics, first hooking in another two-pointer and then making good on two charity chances after being fouled by Haugen. That put Belmond ahead for the first time since the third quarter, 38-37.

The clock showed 90 seconds of play left when Gene Mehl was charged with a fifth foul and Glime parleyed the opportunity into two points. Larry Schimp, in as a replacement for Jerry Chandler, wiped out the 39-38 FC lead with a basket—but Gilbertson retaliated in kind to make it 41-40 for the Indians Here, it was, that Hansen bagged those last two freethrows—and that was the ball game.

Hansen Out-Duels Haugen

While indulging in his game-winning scoring splurge, Hansen—abetted capably by LeRoy Smith—held the usually high-scoring Haugen to only twc points in the final half. Each of the centers had 10 points before intermission; which figures out 15 points for Ron in the last two quarters, 11 of them coming in the fourth.

Both teams showed evidences of tenseness throughout the game, and Belmond—particularly — was guilty of too frequent bad passes and other ball-handling errors. On defense, though, both aggregatons committed themselves well. But the Indians couldn't handle Hansen, and that was the story.

Froshmores Defeated

LeRoy Smith contributed five points to Belmond's total, Mehl and Chandler four apiece, Keith Madsen and Schimp two each. Madsen helped the cause with an outstanding floor game. Glime and Haugen were good for 12 points apiece toward the Indians' cause, Carson nine, Gilbertson and Bartleson four each. Belmond tallied 15 field goals and converted 12 of 17 freethrows. Forest City hit from the court 14 times and missed only four of 17 charity tries. Both teams committed 11 fouls.

Belmond's froshmores suffered their second loss of the season in the curtain-raiser, 43-35. The Junior Broncs gave one of their most ragged exhibitions, particularly in the second half. They trailed only 22-24 at the intermission, but made too many mistakes to keep up thereafter. Murray led the losers in scoring with 10 points, while Larry Kinseth and Dave Long tallied eight apiece. The winners' slender but aggressive Jack Hanson was top scorer with 21.

—PAT'S— SPORTS SHORTS

In spite of the ragged play that afflicted both teams occasionally during that Belmond-Forest City battle royale last Friday, the boys on both teams exhibited remarkable poise on the foul line. With the continual prospect that a single gratis toss might decide the game, BOTH outfits hit 70 per cent of their charity attempts Each had 17 chances; the Broncs made good on 12, the Indians on 13. That's PRESSURE shooting!

—PSS—

Donny Hoppel, very obviously, has lost none of his marksmanship from the foul line. He led his Webster City J. C. teammates to a 93-86 win over Ellsworth last Friday with 29 points—and 17 of 'em came on freethrows.

—PSS—

Because the North Iowa conference keeps no records on individual performances, it's difficult to confirm when an outstanding feat qualifies in the "best ever" category. However, to the best of our knowledge that scoring rampage of Northwood's big Norris Julson last weekend was "one for the books." He whipped Buffalo Center all by himself. Final score after his one-man spree: Julson 44, BC 43. The 6-5 pivot got enough help from his cohorts to make it 76-43; but their 32 points were strictly "gravy."

—PSS—

Release of first-round pairings for the boys sectional basketball tournaments, scheduled for the week of Feb. 7-12, indicates that not more than two NIC representatives are likely to advance to district play. Five of the loop teams will cross bats at two tourney sites, leaving it certain that only a pair of 'em—at most—can survive.

Belmond plays at Garner on Monday night (Feb. 7) at 8:30 o'clock; and the host Cardinals tangle with Clear Lake on Tuesday. The Class A finals will be the following Friday at 7:30. At Forest City, it will be Buffalo Center vs. Thompson and and the Indians vs. Lake Mills.

Britt and Northwood don't stand to be ousted by a conference foe, but their chance of survival appears highly remote. Britt opens at Algona against West Bend; but if the Eagles get by this one they must tackle the host Bulldogs—who are TOUGH' Northwood should handle Manly, at Manly. But the Vikings will undoubtedly draw M. C Holy Family in the finals, to whom they've lost once, 65-50.

—PSS—

There's no question but what Ronnie Hansen will be a marked man the rest of this season. If ever a player came into his own in a single game, Ron did Friday night. Coach Hobbs—and Crimmings, before him—tried to convince Hansen he could be a major bulwark of the Bronco team if only he'd SHOOT. Against the Indians, shoot he did! He also feinted his guard dizzy, came through under pressure like a real veteran and did a highly competent job on defense. Whatta boy!

—PSS—

BOWLING RUND-UP—Note the absence of run-away races in the Belmond bowling leagues this year. With the season half over, there are teams nipping at the heels of the leaders in every league. . . . All three of the second division teams in the Inter-City league took the measure of a top-division team last week! . . . Was that 1,145 team game turned in by Mello Maid in the Boardsplitters league a new high? Can't recall anything higher. . . . Ed Albers set new "highs" for the season for both game and series with the Tip Toppers last Thursday night with a 247 and 619.

A Gift for Christmas

by Evan B. Johnson

Love is a gift made at Christmas,
By the rich and poor, young and old:
It is not for sale; King Midas
Could not buy it with all his gold,
We know of no other blessing,
On earth or in heaven above,
That cheers a weary heart so much,
As the gift of another's love.
Life's greatest paradox, it plays
A miraculous double role;
The love you give to others brings
Contentment and peace to your soul.

WE'VE SPLIT THE ATOM—CAN OUTSPEED SOUND; YET BOTCH THE MASTER PLAN

Anyone familiar with the Christmas Story will recall that hope rose high in the hearts of his countrymen when Jesus' birth was proclaimed. They assumed that they had been sent a fighting messiah who who help them free their land from Roman occupation. It was a deep disappointment to many when this strange messiah, instead of uniting them under arms to expel the foe, urged them to "go a second mile" with their enemy.

Spread of Christianity during the nearly 2,000 years that have intervened since Jesus preached this philosophy have made apparent that the world NEEDED it to live by. That it has failed, so far, to create anything like a perfect world leaves us only to wonder what our civilization would be like had it not been influenced by His teachings.

Whether we use them much or whether we us them little, we have His standards to guide us. Throughout history, they have been twisted to suit selfish purposes, distorted to hide the truth—and often wholly ignored. But just as natural laws inevitably prevail over all influences, His laws remain basic and incontrovertible.

Civilizations have denied them, and they have crumbled; nations have defied them, and they have fallen; and men's lives have been empty and without significance, or rich and meaningful, to the degree by which they have lived by his tenets.

A whole can be no more perfect than its parts. That, in the last analysis, is perhaps the main reason why Christmas of 1954 will dawn upon a world that is still torn by strife. Granted, we go that second mile, occasionally; but, too often, only if it happens by coincidence to be the direction we were going, anyway.

We have split the atom; we can travel faster than sound. Plans of his own devising, man can follow with an adroitness that at times seems near super-human. And still he lacks the wisdom to follow the blueprints for his own salvation that were drafted with such clarity by the carpenter of Nazareth! But the master plan is there. We have but to build by its instructions. Then, truly, will there be peace on earth—and good will among men.

A RADIO-EQUIPPED PATROL CAR STILL IS AN ASSET OUR COMMUNITY NEEDS

When the city council agreed a couple of years back to have the Belmond police department included in the county's police radio hook-up, The Independent regarded it as a progressive and praiseworthy step. Our patrol car was equipped with a transmitter and receiver and, for a time, good use was made of the apparatus. It served a useful purpose and constituted an important safeguard against the need for emergency communication with the sheriff and with the highway patrolmen.

In these days of high-speed crime and high-speed accidents, loss of a few minutes in summoning assistance or passing along information can easily result in the escape of a culprit who otherwise could be promptly caught—or the loss of a life that might otherwise have been saved. Of course, though, the prompt communication made possible by two-way, police radio is dependent upon keeping the thing in working condition.

It was failure in this regard that led to complete withdrawal of the local police department from the county network that includes the Clarion and Eagle Grove police, the sheriff and his deputy and the highway patrolmen.

Some time back, when a local officer chased a flagrant speeder a number of miles beyond the city limits before overtaking him, he was told by the city officials that this practice should be abandoned in the future. But a pick-up request radioed to the sheriff's office and highway patrol would very likely have led to the speeder's apprehension without our patrol car leaving River avenue.

When that bad accident north of town last summer caused one death, severely injured another principal involved and smashed up four cars, a considerable period of time elapsed before assistance was forthcoming from Clarion. Had our police department had its radio in operation, aid would have been at hand in a matter of minutes. Many a life's been lost by inadequate traffic control at an accident scene. It didn't happen that time—but it could have; with a lack of a police radio as a key factor.

There is no longer a feasible excuse in the explanation that a radio is too difficult to maintain in proper working order. Supervisor Emmett King at the state radio station north of town is an expert technician and states he'd be both ready and very willing to see that a Belmond police radio were kept in functioning condition. He estimates the normal, average upkeep cost of such a radio at about $50 annually—and its useful lifetime at about 10 years.

We hope that our police department will rejoin the ranks of the progressive law enforcement agencies in the county by becoming radio-equipped once more. To have that radio available just ONCE, when means of emergency communication is vitally needed, could well justify its cost.

"Bailey of Britt" Lauded Friends After Visit Here Fifty Years Ago

(While relative late-comers to Belmond may find the following article of interest mainly because of its writing style, old-timers will unquestionably find delight in the reference to many names that were prominent here a half century ago. The piece was reprinted in the Dec. 22, 1904, issue of the local Iowa Valley Press, having first appeared in the Britt Tribune.

It was written by Ed Bailey—no relation to our own Ed Bailey—who earned a wide reputation in his day for his wit and his knack with words. His signature, "Bailey of Britt," appeared on some of the cleverest newspaper columns of the day.)

We have just returned from Belmond, one of the pleasantest visits of many years with our friends, "the best people on earth," the Luicks and the Packards. Fifty years ago they were our playmates and schoolmates in Wisconsin.

For many years they lived on the old farm at Bailey's Grove in this (Hancock) county, finally marrying and moving to Belmond. When we moved from the farm it was to Britt, but every year we get together at either Britt or Belmond, and then work is forgotten and we are all boys and girls together again for a few days.

Praises Banker Packard

D. E. Packard is cashier for one of the most prosperous little banks in Iowa, with a character and acquaintance that is worth more to him than mints of money. His word is a bond, and his face is an affidavit anywhere in Wright county, and was just the same when he wasn't worth $1,000. He is on "Easy Street," first door to the right, and is another patriarch of Iowa at the age of 56.

Ten children have kept his rafters ringing and we don't know how many grandchildren still keep things alive around "Dight's" house when they all come home. A sister, Mrs. Alice Luick, lives on "one corner of 2 000 acres of Iowa land" worth not less than $100 per acre —and a place of good cheer and an elegant home it is, too.

50 Packard Descendants

Alma, another sister, lives in a fine home in Belmond; while others of the old, original Packard family lie peacefully in the Belmond cemetery together with the old father and mother, who have gone to the other land. There are nearly 50 descendants of E. C. and Caroline Packard, who were pioneers on the old farm in Bailey's Grove, Twin Lake township, in this county in 1864; and all showing the "blood will tell" of their worthy ancestors.

A word was a bond with the whole family of the Packard name and a town or a neighborhood was honored by their citizenship. We had a fine time at "Dight's" house. A lot of old-timers who lived in Belmond when we used to go there for mail and to mill and to "meeting" have gone over the divide—but Bill Purdy isn't dead. He proved this to our satisfaction and told yarns of standard weight and fineness. Bills sells land, and says he is honest. We believe it; he is fat, and that is a sign.

S. N. Hinman Mentioned

Billy Packard is also one who hasn't gone and is getting baldheaded and patriarchal. S. N. Hinman, Dave and M. H. Luick all insist that they are alive and exhibited symptoms; and Hubbard, another old-timer, licks stamps and hands out the mail with a serene look that says plainer than words, "Birdsall is O.K." (Hon. B. P. Birdsall was U. S. Congressman from this district and perhaps had played a part in making a stamp-licker of Mr. Hubbard—Ed's Note).

There is a lot of gray hair showing on those old fellows who walked as straight as Indians and had hair "black as a raven's wing" in those days in the long ago. And a better lot of fellows never got together and boosted for the upbuilding of a town.

Old Father Sands (Congregational pastor of the day), the patriarch and spiritual adivsor of three generations, is still living at the age of 91 and retains his faculties to a remarkable degree. It was a pleasant visit.

What Other Ed's Are Saying

Gilbert Knudson, in Emmetsburg Democrat, Insists Small Towns Have No Corner on Gossip

When Duane Dewel, editor of the Algona Advance, returned recently from a trip to Chicago he wrote a story on the Big City and among other uncomplimentary things described it as a "lady in a mink coat with a dirty slip showing."

His story was reprinted in a full page spread, embellished with an artist's illustrations, in the Chicago Daily News. Then, the News sent a reporter, John Justin Smith, to Algona to get a story on the Kossuth county seat. This article also occupied a full page in the News, and now Dewel has run it in the Advance.

Smith called Algona "probably the goodest little town in the United State," and also the "dullest and the gabbiest", quoting a traveling man he found in the lobby of the Algona hotel

Quoting Smith some more:

"The town, 400 miles west of Chicago, has 12 churches, a woman mayor, a new courthouse, almost no crime, a bustling main drag called State street and a population made up chiefly of talking goldfish. These talking fish swim around and around, keeping an everopen eye on each other. Their clacking tongues are the ruling force of Algona. There you have Algona, the goldfish bowl in the cornfield."

oOo

So many of the things said of Algona could apply to Emmetsburg, or any other small town, here's some more, quoting Smith:

"What do they (the people of Algona) say?

"Here are some actual fragments of State street conversation:

—"She's going to have another one . . . in April . . . the last of April."

—"His wife ought to know about that trip to Fort Dodge."

—"They never were meant for each other."

—"He doesn't earn THAT kind of money."

oOo

Come, come, Smith, you aren't telling us seriously YOU never gossip or your fellow Chicagoans don't, are you? How about that wart-headed reporter on the News staff, or that chickenbrained society editor you have no time for? Or the sob sister and her slush? Or that lunkhead at the copy desk who works over your leads?

We have kin living in Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and St. Paul and enjoy visiting them whenever we can.

We've heard all of them gossip, but it's mostly on the telephone. It would take too long to drive miles through city traffic to reach a neighbor there.

We have heard a couple of our relatives in these cities answer the phone and hang on, talking, for 15 minutes. And in many cities there is no automatic cutoff at six minutes so the talk can go on and on without the necessity for dialing back two or three times.

Yackety yack about friends and neighbors has been a human weakness since Cain went trotting to Adam and Eve with tales about his brother Abel. The only difference in goldfish bowls we can see is the one in Chicago is bigger than the ones in Algona or Emmetsburg and it might be easier to hide in it.

PILLS DID HER WRONG

GRIDDERS' REUNION

At Ladora, in Iowa county, recently, there was a reunion of the "Pilot Tigers," who 50 years ago were considered one of the best community football teams in Iowa. Eight of the "Tigers", who played as team-mates from 1902 to 1905, were on hand for the reunion

THE OLD TIMER:

"Work fascinates some people so much that they can sit for hours just looking at it!"

Heard one gent grousing as he eyed new TV sets in a Main street window, "Television's a wonderful thing! You can sit home any night, relax, and watch all your wife's favorite shows."

An there's the confirmed, Belmond bachelor who smugly observed, "I may be lacking buttons on my shirt; but I got no hands in my pockets, either."

The male half of a local couple preparing for a trip to the southland says, "The way my wife packs, the only thing she leaves is the note for the milkman."

A friend of ours points out, "We all agree that the chief menace on the highway is the driver who doesn't drive the way we do."

One lady who's known for her good works urges, "Use what talent you have. The woods would be mighty silent if no birds sang exceput those that can sing best."

If new worries pursue you, just remember that Lloyd George said: "A change of trouble is as good as a vacation."

Fellow we know who's acquiring quite a spare tire tells us, "Anyway, nature's beginning to cooperate. Making it harder all the time to get up to the table"

It was Clarence Darrow who confessed, "I have never killed a man; but I have read many obituaries with a lot of pleasure."

Many a man who is spending that weekly pay check before he even gets it will agree with the sagacious gent who said, "The worst thing about opportunity is that you can't see the darn thing until you look back 10 years."

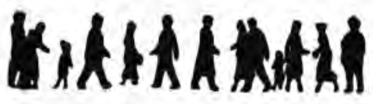
MAIN STREET



BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

On the heels of our recent story about the Goldfield girl who nearly got herself in serious trouble by accepting a ride with a stranger, a local mother phoned us to relate that "it can happen here, too." It was her 12-year-old son who was involved in a highly suspicious incident.

He was stopped in the residential area by a passing car occupied by two men. Both were strangers to him. They asked directions to an eating place in town. After the youngster had replied to their request, they pretended confusion and offered him $3.00 if he would get in the car and personally guide them to the restaurant

Promptly aware that the fee was entirely out of line with the service asked, the boy informed the driver and his companion that his mother had instructed him never to enter the car of a stranger. And that was that. Are you sure YOUR child would be as sensible?

That man who was getting all the requests for autographs up at the high school the last couple of days before classes let out for the holidays was Coach Dick Hobbs. Monday night, Dick was interviewed by Irv Jensen over KGLO-TV (it might be observed that he was as cautious as a congressman being questioned regarding a postmaster appointment). Anyway, the kids kinda gave Dick "the business" when he showed up in the halls of learning the next morning. Old Skin-and-Bones Sinatra, himself, was never more hotly pursued by autograph hounds.

A Christmas letter received by Belmond friends from Mac and Dee Jensen made many of them a bit jealous of the climatic comfort that the two former Belmondites enjoy these days in Haiti. It will be recalled that Mac has an FOA position at the capital, Port-au-Prince. They write: "The climate is eternal summer, from 70 to 90 degrees all day. The mountains are cool at night (they live at Petionville, 1,500 feet above sea level) and we sleep under wool blankets. We are in the tropics, but because of the Trade Winds there is always a breeze to cool the land." . . . Anyone else for FOA?

In case you'd been planning on dropping in at the state selective service headquarters at Des Moines tomorrow (Friday)—don't. We've been asked to give "maximum publicity" to the fact that the headquarters will be closed all day Dec. 24 and from 12:00 noon for the rest of the day on Friday of next week, Dec. 31. You may wonder why we jump to do the draft board's bidding, when there seems remote likelihood any Independent readers would be paying the headquarters a visit, anyway. Well, we mixed with that outfit once before; and we're doing NOTHIN' to rile 'em!

Had a short talk the other day with Russell Pepper of St. Croix Falls, Wis., whose trailer home was wrecked in that highway mishap south of town last week. His wife spent the better part of five days in Belmond Community hospital due to injuries sustained when the Pepper car was smashed up in the collision. Both he and his two sons, who came down to be with their parents, were effusive in their praise of the wonderful treatment Mrs. Pepper—and they, too— had received at the hospital.

Our hospital may have to mind its P's and Q's to make ends meet, but it certainly is earning a reputation as a truly humanitarian institution among wayfarers who have been so unfortunate as to require its services. Time and time again, strangers to Belmond who've been hospitalized here by accidents or sudden sickness, have been inspired to laud the graciousness—as well as the excellent professional care — they've enjoyed at the community hospital.

Could be that some of us privileged to call it "our" hospital are not so appreciative as we should be of the extraordinarily fine care and services that it supplies. Mr. Pepper, incidentally, had been ordered by his family physician to make post haste to Arizona for relief of a bronchial condition he's been battling. While he's enjoyed Belmond's hospitality, he admits he can't say much for the raw weather that was provided during his unscheduled stay in our town.

Those clock hands indicating growth of the Mainstreeters' TGG-CTW Fund hardly moved far enough to tell, during the past week. Perhaps the near approach of Christmas (and the output for gifts) explains it. Still and all, they DIDN'T stand still. And that's what counts. Here's the latest standing of the fund To Give Grandfather's Clock (at the library) The Works:

Amount Needed		$150
Previously received	$37
Latest contributions:
Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Colby	2
Mr. and Mrs. K. Ketchum	1
Received to date		40
Amount to go		$110

Got to figuring the other evening, and we quickly counted up to two dozen folks whom we regarded we could confidently expect to help the cause. If you suspect YOU were one of 'em—how about it?

KINSHIP INCORRECT

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Independent that Albert Rubendall recently returned from Flint, Mich., where he attended funeral services for a brother. He had been called to Flint by the death of his father, Harry Rubendall.

General Committee Appointed to Get Pool Project Under Way

School Reorganization Complicates Distribution of State General Aid

Continuing the trend of recent years toward payment of a diminishing pro-rata share of state school aid applied for, the state last week delivered to County Supt. C. W. Sankey general aid warrants representing 80.76 per cent of what the schools had coming to them by law. The total amount, $105,995.62, was a bit more than last year ($104,229.18), but the amount that had been applied for was more than correspondingly higher.

Iowa's legislature appropriates $12,000,000 per year for the purpose of providing general state aid to the schools on the basis of average daily attendance. Payment is based on a rate of 20 cents per day (for 180 days) for each high school student and 17 cents for each in the grades Average daily attendance from the preceding year, rather than current enrollment, sets the number of children for whom aid is payable.

New Complication

For the 1954-55 school year, claims from throughout the state came to $14, 858, 345.25, compared to the $12,000,000 of available funds. Arrival of the bumper crop of post-World War II babies at school age has resulted in a steady decrease in the pro-rata share allowable on aid applications. Last year claims were paid on the basis of 84.14 per cent.

School reorganization introduces a new complication in distribution of state aid this year, as it is being paid on the basis of independent districts that existed in this vicinity a year ago but have since been consolidated wholly or in part in new community districts.

Shares Must Be Figured

For example, the now non-existent Belmond Independent School district is apportioned $13,200.58 in 1954-55 state aid (compared to $12,776.49 for '53-54). This presents no problem, because the entirety of the former Belmond district is now included in the community school district. The complications arise when a division of the grants to such districts as Belmond Township School district, Pleasant, Iowa, Grant and Norway districts in this county and Twin Lake and Avery townships in Hancock must be made.

Of course, close to 100 per cent of the $3,290.51 in aid granted to Belmond township, in the vicinity of 80 per cent of Pleasant's $3,438.22 and portions of the other townships' grants will go to Belmond Community School district, and presumably all of Goodell Independent's. The former Iowa district was apportioned $1,122.86; Grant, $2,645.64; Norway, $3,682.73. Mr. Sankey had no information regarding grants to those districts lying in Hancock county.

Other Wright Grants

State general aid to be distributed to Wright county districts other than mentioned so far is in the following amounts: Eagle Grove Independent. $18,698.49 (and an additional $2,038.86 due the junior college); Clarion. $15,244.81; Dows. $4,473.56; Goldfield. $4,351.45; Rowan, $3,911.40; Woolstock. $1,716.71; Galt. $984.03.

Blaine Township School district $2,044.96; Boone. $3,686.80; Dayton. $2,795.81; Eagle Grove, $1,616.84; Lake. $2,638.08; Liberty. $1,887.23; Troy. $2,689.25; Wall Lake. $2,708.59; Woolstock, $2,688; five rural independent districts of Lincoln, in aggregate, $1,691.56; and the seven rural independent districts of Vernon, in aggregate, $2,748.13.

Salesman Added By Belmond Auto

Belmond Auto company added a new salesman to its force this week in the person of M. O. Qualen, lately of Monette, Mo. Mr. Qualen has been operating an electrical shop for the past two years in the southern Missouri community. His wife's physician had recommended a move to a milder climate in the interest of his wife's health.

Prior to the brief period in the electrical business, however, Mr. Qualen was engaged in automobile sales work for a number of years and is well experienced in that field. Before his venture in Missouri, he was employed by Central Motors, the Lincoln - Mercury agency at Iowa Falls, for 5½ years. He first started in auto sales as an employee of Johnson Motors, the Iowa Falls Ford agency.

For the time being, Mrs. Qualen is living at Marshalltown until the apartment she and her husband have rented here is ready for them. They will move into the Kinseth apartment building, when it is completed.

Neuman Selected On District Court Grand Jury List

Dr. C. J Neuman's was the only Belmond name drawn as the list of 1955 grand jurors for Wright county district court were selected last week. R. R Reed of Route 2 is the only juror residing on a Belrural route

Completing the list of 12 jurors are: Paul Schueller, Clarion; Burdette Middleton, Eagle Grove; Sumner Schwenk, Eagle Grove township; Theo Koltvet, Lake; Marguerite Russell, Lincoln; Sam Folkedahl, Liberty; Carl Bottoms, Iowa; A. S. Chapman, Woolstock; Lismore Stole, Norway; and Carl Kelling, Boone.

Members of the grand jury have been notified to report on Monday, Jan. 24, at 10:00 a. m. January term of court opens on Jan. 10 with Judge G. R. Hill presiding. It will extend over a four-week period.

Petit jurors have also been ordered to report at 10:00 a. m. on Jan. 24. The following from the city of Belmond were drawn on the petit list: Eleanor Peterson, Genevieve Monson, Ralph Jones, Oren Hanson, Wessel Braner, Jessie Loats, Gerald Whipple, Maurice Dillon, David Sappenfield, Marvis Tideback.

Rural people from the Belmond vicinity whose names appear on the list are: Belmond township—Ben Mehus, Gilman Soma, Shirley Eide, Roger Toft, Hans Ekeland and Dorothy Swenson; Pleasant—Ben Loats, Elmer Waltzing.

From neighboring communities were drawn: John Schulte of Alexander; Herman Frohling, Henry Wenzel, Bernice Biddle and John R. Burt, Rowan.

Packard-Jenison Get ISC Contract

Packard and Jenison, Belmond electrical firm, bid in its second sizeable contract of the current month on Friday of last week when it was successful contender for an Iowa State college wiring contract. Earlier in December, Packard and Jenison was awarded the job of wiring the new General Mills feed plant that is under construction here.

The wiring contract on the ISC campus involves the new veterinary diagnostics building, which is going up adjacent to the veterinarians' quadrangle on the north. The veterinary buildings are in the northeast part of the campus.

If weather permits, the local firm expects to begin work on the Ames job about the first of March. The Packard and Jension electricians are currently occupied with the feed mill job.

And NO Money WENT!

The irony of it! Four days before Christmas and with $200 of potential shopping money hanging in the balance, not a cent of Cash Day money was paid out Tuesday! In hopes that maybe several suffering souls will find balm for their wounded bankrolls next week, the CGD committee is laying $250 on the line next Tuesday. There'll be four $25's at 2:00 p. m. and the 3:00 o'clock award will go up to $150. 'Twould be a wonderful way to recoup, wouldn't it? If only . . .

Tax Levies Here To Run 22 Mills Less Than 1953's

County Auditor Roger Charlson last week released millage figures for 1954 property taxes payable next year, showing a decline in total millage for the city of Belmond from 67.733 to 45.876. Mainly accounting for the drop was the reduction in the school levy from 40.26 mills payable in Belmond Independent School district for 1953 to 19.408 payable on property in Belmond Community School district for 1954.

Making up the total millage in incorporated Belmond are a state (service compensation) and county levy of 5.91 mills (7.599 for 1953) and municipal levy of 20.558 (compared to 19.708 for last year) in addition to the 19.408 school levy.

Clarion Down, E.G. Up

For the corporation of Clarion, the total 1954 levy is 53.456 mills compared to that of 54.038 collected during this year; for Eagle Grove, 59.751 compared to 59.2. School levies in those two communities will be 28.824 and 37.818, respectively.

School levies next year for other districts in this vicinity will be: Kanawha Community 18.337, Alexander 21.525, Meservey 26.647 and Rowan 27.8.

Total levies in other taxing districts in the general area of Belmond are to be: Belmond Community in Belmond township 31.79; Kanawha Community in Belmond township 30.719; Norway township in Belmond township 25.319; Belmond Community in Norway 32.166; Belmond Community in Iowa 32.378; Belmond Community in Pleasant 31.79.

Rural Levy Bit Higher

Norway township 25.695; Kanawha Community in Norway 31.095; Rowan Consolidated in Pleasant 33.907; Meservey Consolidated in Pleasant 39.029

Varition in townships levies—some have cemeteries, some parks, and two have both—cause some difference in millages where parts of a township lie in several taxing districts. And county levies total 12.382 mills outside corporation limits, compared to the 5.91 within. Rural levy this year was 12.294.

GARNER UPSETS F.C.

Garner pulled into second place in the North Iowa conference basketball standings Tuesday night with a rather unexpected 62-51 conquest of Forest City. On Monday evening, Lake Mills strengthened its hold on third place by outscoring Buffalo Center, 68-60.

ERNEST STAPELY DIES

Funeral services were held Mon- at Cable, Wis., for Ernest Stapely, 75, a native of Belmond and for many years a painter here. He died at Cable last Friday after a heart attack. Survivors include his wife, three sons and four daughters, including Mrs. Orvis Shillington of Clarion.

FFA Pool Queen Contest Well Started

Although only a handful of boys had been out soliciting, and they'd been able to get only a few hours in on the job, by Tuesday morning of this week the Future Farmers swimming-pool fund campaign was already off to a fine start.

As announced last week, the high school FFA is conducting a Swimming Pool Queen contest as a venture to raise some money for the Lions club's community pool fund. Votes are a nickel apiece, 20 for a dollar or 30 to the bushel—of corn.

55 Bushels of Corn

FFA President Airell Clark announced Tuesday that the small amount of vote-soliciting that had been done up to that time had already produced the equivalent of about $250. Cash votes had brought in $163, mainly in lots of one to five dollars. One farmer with a favorite among the queen candidates had pitched in $15.

Corn was also coming in. The Future Farmers had collected 55 bushels and there was prospect that grain-votes, in the long run, would wield a heavy influence in selection of the queen.

Only a few rural neighborhoods had been canvassed at the time of Clark's initial report, and the voting reflected the fact. The girls living in those particular vicinities had a nice headstart in the standings. But Clark predicted that a close contest would develop when the Future Farmers get about their intensive canvass of the entire school district.

Marlene Smith in Lead

On the basis of the early voting, Marlene Smith was in first place, followed by Shirley Soma, Marcia Henn and Maragaret Gabrielson. Rankings of the other four contenders—Shirley Pals, Carmen McLaughlin, Sara Simerson and Joan Kriens—weren't made known.

With classes disbanded for the Christmas holiday yesterday afternoon, the FFA boys were planning to be hard at it this morning in their drive to rustle up votes. They'll make a thorough canvass in town, as well as throughout the surrounding rural area.

Elderly Couple's Trip to Arizona Abruptly Halted

An elderly couple's plans to enjoy Christmas in Arizona's warmth were abruptly dashed Thursday afternoon of last week when their car and trailer came out second best in a collision that occurred 4½ miles south of Belmond on Highway 69.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pepper of St. Croix Falls, Wis., were driving south when Gehard M. Anderson, 71, Franklin county supervisor from Dows, started to pass the auto and trailer. An oncoming car from the opposite direction blocked the maneuver and the Dows man tried to pull back into the right-hand lane too quickly.

As he braked his car, its bumper on the front caught the left end of the Peppers' rear bumper, upsetting the auto-trailer combination. Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod, called to the scene of the mishap, haled Anderson before Mayor Henry Hokel on a charge of improper passing and the supervisor was fined $12 and costs.

Mr. Pepper, who is 69, and his wife, 68, were planning to spend the winter in Arizona and had just purchased a $1,600 house-trailer for the trip. Mrs. Pepper ended up in Belmond Community hospital with an injury to her neck muscles; the Wisconsin couple's auto suffered damage estimated at $1,000 and damage to the trailer was figured at $800. It was estimated that $75 would cover damage done to Anderson's car.

Mrs. Pepper was held at the Belmond hospital for observation and treatment until Monday evening, when she was moved to Hill Motel. Two sons of the Wisconsin couple came to Belmond to help their parents get their plans straightened out and have also been staying at the motel, with Mr. Pepper, until such time as the old folks find it possible to continue on to Arizona by other means of transportation.

Julie Eckhoff, 8 Years Old, Winner Of $15 Letter-to-Santa First Prize

If any one thing characterized the majority of entries submitted in this year's Letters-to-Santa contest, according to the judges, it was concentration on the writers' personal wants to the very common exclusion of consideration for others' Yuletide happiness. Nevertheless, some fine letters were written and there was no difficulty in finding more than enough good ones to receive the prizes offered by The Independent and 10 cooperating business firms.

Once again the judges were Viva Parker and Gladys Kline, teachers of fourth and third grade, respectively, at Ramsay Elementary school. By virtue of its all-around appropriateness—and especially its neatness—they agreed on the letter of Julie Eckhoff as winner of the $15 first prize.

Julie is the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eckhoff. She had the following to say to St. Nick:

Dear Santa,

My name is Julie. I'm 8 years old. I want a doll and a cowgirl suit for Christmas. My brother Jimmy wants a farm set. Please see that all the orphans get some toys for Christmas too. Thank you very much. We read your letter in the paper every day. See you on Christmas Eve.

Love
Julie and Jimmy Eckhoff

Second prize of $7.50 goes to 4½-year-old Larry Nutt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Nutt. He was the youngest entrant to send in a self-written letter; and his effort had originality that was lacking in the letters of many of the older children. In addition, it provided the judges will several good chuckles.

His mother jotted down the necessary identification at the end of Larry's letter, since he'd chosen to sign himself as "Big Brother." His letter, repeated for the enjoyment of The Independent's readers, follows:

Dear Santa

I still have my tool set. I love baby very much. He has a lot of diapers. For Xmas I want a record player in a suitcase. No kidding. I guess we can take a baby rattle for baby. He already has a squirt gun. Please get a carpeter for Bev. I am tired. Goodbye.

Big Brother

Little, five-year-old Dixie Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lee of Kanawha, won the $5 third prize. Her very thoughtful letter urged Santa not to forget seven-year-old Karen Netland of Klemme, who's been a patient at Belmond Community hospital since Aug. 9 after suffering serious burns.

A semi-anonymous letter by an 8-year-old who identified herself only as "Rochelle" was awarded fourth prize; 5th went to Julie Zook, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Zook; and 6th to Allen Koppernagel, age 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Koppernagel. Each of these prizes amounted to $2.50.

Two Honorable Mentions

A couple of near-winners written by Twyla Gae Stadtlander and Clark Trager were awarded honorable mention.

Co-sponsoring the Letters-to-Santa contest with The Independent were: Belmond Co-op Creamery, Mello Maid Ice Cream shop, Farmers Grain company, Farmers Implement store, Iowa Electric Light and Power company, First State bank, Rowat-Murray Engineers, Belmond Greenhouse, Meints Produce and Followwill Implement & Feed company.

13-Year-Old Gets Electrical Shock Via Kitchen Sink

Sandra Clare, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claire Hildman, was the victim of an unusual mishap Sunday evening when she suffered a severe electrical shock while working in the kitchen with her mother. She happened to touch the stove and sink at the same time and was held firmly in contact with the two appliances by a short circuit, until her mother managed to pull her loose.

The Hildmans live in an apartment at the former Don Mourlam residence, purchased last summer and remodeled by Mayor Henry Hokel. An electrician summoned to find the cause of the vagrant current found that it derived from a short circuit in a refrigerator at the Glenn Musselman home, across the street to the north. That "short" had in some manner made the water pipe leading to the Hildmans' apartment "hot".

Medical aid had to be obtained for the youngster, the shock she sustained was such a severe one. Her parents were told it was fortunate she remained in contact with the current no longer than she did, or permanent damage to her heart could have resulted. Sandra Clare had to be kept out of school Monday to recuperate from the unpleasant experience.

O. G. Christenson Dies by Own Hand

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Eyler Funeral Home at Clarion for O. G. Christenson, 75, who had taken his own life at his farm home the preceding Wednesday. Rev. O. M. Severseike, pastor of the St. Olaf Lutheran church, officiated over the rites. Burial was in Evergreen cemetery at Clarion.

According to Dr. Richard Young, deputy county coroner, who was called to the scene of the tragedy along with Deputy Sheriff Dale Walrod, Mr. Christenson ended his life with a bullet from a 32 calibre revolver.

He had started the day in apparently normal spirits and after eating breakfast had gone to the barn, ostensibly to look after the chores. The investigating authorities discovered a note which attributed the elderly man's action to a steady decline in his health.

Mr. Christenson had farmed in Norway township for 43 years. He is survived by his wife and nine children. An obituary is to be found on page— of this issue.

Meeting Planned In Early January To Get It Going

A large stride towards putting the Lions club community swimming pool project into high gear was taken Tuesday by President L. B. Oberhauser. At the organization's regular semi-monthly meeting at Jones cafe's Pine Room, he set up a general committee bearing responsibility for organizing the committees that will carry out the detailed plans for financing and constructing the pool.

Clair Hugh, high school principal and secretary of the Lions club, was named by President Oberhauser to head the general committee. Mr. Oberhauser will serve as ex officio member of the group and other members are Dr. Arlo Pitcher, Rev. M. L. Jones and Pat Gallagher.

Jan. 3 Tentative Date

According to Mr. Hugh, a meeting will be held early in January to which representatives from various church, civic and service groups in Belmond and the surrounding rural vicinity will be invited. Details as to how the fund-raising campaign and other aspects of the pool project will be organized are still in the planning stage. However, the general committee intends to have these worked out in advance of the proposed meeting so that wheels can be fully set in motion at that time.

Monday night, Jan. 3, has been set tentatively as time of the general meeting. Further information in regard to the gathering will appear next week.

Early Start Planned

"We hope," says Mr. Hugh, "that specific committees on over-all planning, finance, construction and site-selection can be approved at this first meeting so that a start in the direction of fund-raising can be made immediately following.

"An amazing amount of enthusiasm has been shown toward the pool project. The eagerness of the community's young people for a pool of their own has been very plainly demonstrated by the Future Farmers' voluntary effort to get the pool fund off to a good start. Their interest is also a satisfying sign that the rural area shares with Belmond in its determination to see a modern pool added to the community's recreational facilities.

"We also look upon that generous, $1,000 donation already received from Louis Tokman as a sound indication that the businessmen of Belmond stand ready to give the project their whole-hearted support," Mr. Hugh commented. "With the momentum already generated, there is every reason to be confident that the undertaking is destined to be a resounding success."

Rites Wednesday For John Sullivan

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at St. Francis church for John L. Sullivan, 91, an early settler of this vicinity who had lived most of his life in Wright county. Rev. Albert V. Manternach of Loras college, Dubuque, conducted the rites. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery at Clarion.

Mr. Sullivan died last Saturday morning at Sioux City at the home of a daughter, Mrs. G. H. Roose. He had made his home with Mrs. Roose for the past year or so, but for 17 years before that had lived here in the home of his sister, Mrs. M. J. Kernan.

Though born Illinois—on Feb. 14, 1863—Mr. Sullivan came to Wright county with his parents in 1872. The family settled about a mile and a half north of Belmond. During his active years, Mr. Sullivan followed a variety of careers. He was a farmer, school teacher, for two terms served as county surveyor, and after retiring from farming was employed for a number of years by the Wright County Mutual Insurance company at Clarion.

He is survived by four children; three daughters—Mrs. John C. Ryan and Marie Sullivan of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Mrs. Roose; and one son, J. M. Sullivan of Casper, Wyo. Also surviving is the one sister, Mrs. M. J. Kernan.

G.E.M. CLUB MEETS

The G.E.M. club met in the home of Mrs. Ed Stoffer Wednesday evening of last week for its annual Christmas pot-luck supper and gift exchange. Mrs. Lloyd Faaborg, Mrs. Keith Chandler and Mrs. Henry Nuehring received birthday gifts. 500 was played, high going to Mrs. Bud Stoffer and low to Mrs. Dick Middleton. Dessert was served by the hostess.

Open House to Mark Tim Wilsons' 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Wilson will hold open house this Sunday at the Veterans' Memorial hall, between the hours of 1:00 and 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon and between 7:00 and 9:00 in the evening, to celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary.

Actual date of their anniversary is Christmas Day. Timothy Wilson and Purnie Ethland Couch were married near Stanberry, Mo., on Dec. 25, 1904. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wilson, who had been early residents of the Belmond vicinity but had moved to Missouri when Tim was four years old.

As a young man, Tim had returned to this community and he was working on a farm for Chester Luick when he (Tim) brought his young bride back to Belmond 50 years ago. The Wilsons farmed as tenants on several places near Belmond until moving to a farm east of Forest City in 1930 They remained there until four years ago, when they returned to Belmond and have since been farming 40 acres east of town.

Mr and Mrs. Wilson say that no invitations to the open house are being mailed out. They hope that this announcement of the occasion will be regarded by all their friends and neighbors as a personal invitation to join with them in celebrating the anniversary.

The Wilsons have two daughters and two sons: Mrs. Reece Redmond of Belmond, Mark Wilson and Mrs. Merle Mitchell of Forest City, and Henry Wilson of Miller. There are also 10 grandchildren.

SEAL SALE HERE STARTS STRONG; PAID FOR YOURS?

Belmond's early response to the annual sale of TB Christmas Seals was highly gratifying to Mrs. Al Mennenga, chairman of the sale, and other members of the sponsoring Culture Study club When the Iowa Tuberculosis and Health association released its first report for the season on Dec. 9, Belmond ranked well toward the top among communities showing an increase in sales over the corresponding date a year ago.

Of 96 cities and towns that had turned in reports, 45 had shown gains of 20 per cent or more. Mrs. Mennenga had reported a 61½ per cent increase in return—$344.20, compared to $213 last year, as of Dec. 6—the date the report was mailed to Des Moines. She points out that this doesn't necessarily mean that actual sales will run that much higher. Instead, it mainly signifies that people are turning in their money sooner.

However, as of the end of last week response to the local seal sale had brought in $553, whereas the total seal purchases last year came to $613.76. Mrs. Mennenga is quite confident that this augurs well for a larger sale this year than in 1953. She urges all who have not yet returned money for their seals to do so promptly so the campaign can be wound up as soon after Christmas as possible

Besides Belmond, Clarion was among those communities that have shown impressive gains over early 1953 returns. As of Dec. 6, $454 had been turned in at the county seat, compared to $243 by the same time last year. That represented an 87 per cent increase. Eagle Grove wasn't doing so well. Its $404.78 on Dec. 6 was 5.1 per cent under the $426.65 of corresponding date in '53. Garner stood at $274.80, compared to $236.70—up 16 [illegible] cent.

Charles Tompkins, Who Once Headed School Here, Dies

Information regarding three deaths involving former Goodell residents has come to friends here in the past week. Most recent was that of Charles H. Tompkins of Garner, who died Wednesday of last week at Mercy hospital, Mason City. Although a diabetic for several years past, his death was caused by a stroke suffered two weeks ago.

Mr. Tompkins was Goodell's superintendent of schools for five years, leaving here in 1918 to become grade principal at Garner. He held that position up to the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife—the former Hazel Riley of Fonda, whom he had wed just before coming to Goodell, two sons and a daughter: Denzel and Richard Tompkins of Des Moines and Mrs. James (Rachel) Thomas of Manila. He also leaves three brothers and three sisters.

Public services were held Friday morning at the Garner Memorial hall and rites attended only by the family and close friends were held in the afternoon at the Methodist church. Burial was in the Concord cemetery.

It was also learned that the hus-

Mrs. Lyle Green had the misfortune to fall on the ice and break her right arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Amos Hanson went to Garner Tuesday of last week and spent the evening in the Marius Rasmus home.

Mrs. Lee Shahan became ill last week Monday and entered the Belmond Community hospital for observation and treatment. Her sister, Mrs. Essie Anderson of Liscomb, came to stay in the Shahan home until she is much better.

Olive Butts arrived home Saturday. She will have a two-week vacation from her position as Senior English teacher at Fairmont, Minn.

Mrs. Sumner Fuller was hostess to the Contract Bridge club in her home last Wednesday evening. Mrs. Paul Halfpop substituted for Mrs. Ray Barry .

Mrs. Gus Okrueg was released Saturday from the Belmond hospital where she had been a patient 10 days being treated for virus pneumonia

Mrs. Ray Barry has spent the greater part of the past week at Fort Dodge, due to the illness of her mother, Mrs. S. E. Harbicheck, who is a treatment patient at Mercy hospital, following a heart attack.

The Bill Boller family spent Sunday afternoon in the H. E. Boller home at Charles City.

Mr. nad Mrs. John Hanson and the latter's mother, Mrs. Anna Nelson, of Livermore were dinner guests in the home of the latter's daughter. Mrs. Sol Krass, Sunday Mrs. Nelson remained for a visit through this week.

On Sunday they were joined at dinner by the Dominys' other daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Smith and two children of Belmond.

PROGRAM WELL ATTENDED

A large crowd of parents and friends enjoyed the Christmas program presented by pupils of the Goodell school at the schoolhouse Monday afternoon. It was under the direction of Donna Doeringsfeld, grade school music instructor of the Belmond Community school system. She was assisted by the Goodell teachers, Mrs. Jim Carlson, Mrs. Carl Robbins and Mrs. Grant Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Boller and Barbara, accompanied by Elmer Bausch of Mason City enjoyed dinner Sunday with Mrs. Boller's uncle, Ray Wood, at Marshalltown. In the afternoon they drove on to Waterloo where they visited in the home of the former's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Boller, and with the latter's daughter and family, the Don Nolans.

band of the former Ethel Hughes, Lester Dykeman of Janesville, Ohio, died in October. Mrs. Dykeman was a twin daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, who lived in Goodell for many years.

Word also came of the death last August of Mrs. Claude Allie of Laurens, who was a victim of cancer. She is survived by her husband and a son and daughter, the latter both married and living in Laurens. The message related that Mr. Allie, who was in the produce business here some 25 years ago, has lately been in poor health.

Mrs Frances Swalve in company with her daughter's family, the Sumner Fullers, were guests at a family dinner Thursday evening in the home of another daughter, Mrs. John Albers, at Klemme Mrs. Swalve visited over night in the Fuller home and on Friday left via train from Mason City for Compton, Calif., where she will spend the winter in the home of her son Clarence and family. Hammonds Celebrated Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary Sunday

Relatives and friends numbering close to 120 paid their respects to Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hammond last Sunday at their home here as the couple marked their 50th wedding anniversary. An interesting highlight of the occasion was the presence of Mrs. J P. Courtney of Dows, who had served as bridesmaid when the Hammonds were married on Dec. 24, 1904. The bestman is also still living, Albin Johnson of Hampton, but he didn't make it to the open house.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hammond are 72 years old Each was born on a farm in the Belmond vicinity. The marriage of Homer Hammond and Jennie Sorenson was performed at the [illegible] ne of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Catherine Sorenson, which is now the Philip Erdman residence.

The Iowa Valley Press of that day described the occasion as follows: "Promptly at five o'clock to the beautiful strains of Mendelsohn's wedding march the couple took their places in the parlor, where Rev. Chapler spoke the words that made them man and wife. Immediately following the ceremony a bountiful wedding feast was served.

"These two young people are well and favorably known in this community and the good wishes of hosts of friends go with them. They will go to housekeeping soon on a farm near town that Mr. Hammond has rented for next season."

The Hammonds continued to farm in Wright county throughout their active years, except for 11 years they homesteaded in Montana and Mr. Hammond conducted a dray business at Wibaux. They returned to this vicinity in 1919 and farmed at various times near Belmond, Rowan, Galt and Clarion. Mr. Hammond still "keeps his hand in" by raising a few sheep and small-scale crops on an acreage at the north edge of town.

Present from their immediate family to help them celebrate their anniversary were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hammond, another daughter-in-law and their only grandchildren, Mrs. Lois Hammond and Bradley. A second son, Harley, died in 1941.

On Sunday noon, prior to the open house, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hammond entertained members of the immediate family at dinner at their home.

4-Letter Award To Belmond Auto For Seventh Time

Members of the Belmond Auto company staff, and especially Co-Proprietors Louis Tokman and George Heginger, were delighted to learn last week that the firm has again earned the Ford Motor company's Four-Letter Award.

This award goes annually to those Ford agencies that meet required high standards in regard to: (F) Finances, (M) Management, (S) Spirit (competitive), and (F) Facilities.

Belmond Auto company has qualified for the FMSF award every year since it was introduced in 1948, this being the seventh, consecutive year that a plaque signfying the honor has been presented to the firm.

Two years ago, the firm was one of only 33 among the more than a thousand Ford agencies in the nation to win a bronze plaque indicative of five, consecutive Four-Letter Awards. Just what sort of distinguished company the latest achievement places them in, Mr. Heginger and Mr Tokman don't know.

It is their surmise, however, that somewhat less than the 33 agencies that won bronze plaques in 1952 can boast having never yet failed to rank among the FMSF award winners.

Born Too Late

Young fellow showed up at the county clerk's office the other day seeking a marriage license, with a Yuletide wedding in view. Proceedings came to a halt when it was discovered his 21st birthday isn't until Jan. 4. It turned out that neither of his parents are readily accessible and there was no apparent way to obtain the required consent that would permit him to get the wanted license. By latest report, he was convinced he'd simply been born a month too late—and was gradually resigning himself to a delay in the nuptials until Jan. 4th, or thereabouts.

Supervisors Act To Bring Wright Surplus Eatables

By action taken Monday at a meeting of the county board of supervisors, surplus commodities made available by the U. S. Department of Agriculture will be offered to all families that are receiving public welfare assistance in Wright county.

Eligible will be old-age pensioners, families receiving aid to dependent children, general relief, soldiers relief, borderline cases and such individuals and families as may be referred by the Red Cross and similar agencies.

First Delivery, February

Margaret Bailey, county relief director, has been informed that the first receipt of surplus commodities in Wright county is not expected until February. Distribution will commence as soon as the first food items are delivered.

On the surplus commodity list at present are lima beans, dried milk, cheese, shortening and butter. If experience shows that there is no demand in this county for some of those particular foods, they can be dropped from later orders. Mrs. Bailey also stated that the county will order for periods of only one or two months at a time, and may drop out of the surplus commodity program at any time, if such action seems indicated.

Transportation Major Cost

The decision to participate in the program for the first time was an outgrowth of two meetings held by the supervisors with Mrs. Bailey and spokesmen for the various communities in the county in attendance. Mayors, newspaper editors and others wishing to know just what the program would entail were invited to hear its merits explained by a Department of Agriculture representative

It was related that transportation would be the major expense to the county as a participant in the program. Shipments of the various food items are made by the carload and it will be necessary for the welfare office to truck its share of each commodity shipment in from some central point. It was suggested that foods for this area may possibly be unloaded at Mason City or Webster City.

Doesn't Affect Relief

Distribution of surplus commodities to families on relief in no way affects the amount of assistance otherwise given to them It is strictly in addition to financial aid provided through the county welfare office or soldiers relief office For that reason, the spokesman for the commodity program admitted, participation in the program does increase relief costs by the expense of transporting the food supplies.

Since the diets of many families on relief can well bear supplementation, however, the Department of Agriculture regards the program as well worth the relatively small cost. The supervisors and others present at the two meetings were sufficiently convinced to regard that a trial of the program was justified.

Four Picked Out To Judge Displays

A staff of four judges has been appointed by Co-chairmen Len Collier and Dr. P. A. Rietz of the Chamber of Commerce civic bureau to pick winners in the bureau's home-decorating contest. They are: Pat Gallagher, chairman; Don A. Faris, Mrs. S. P. Leinbach and Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser.

This group will make the rounds of Belmond's residential area this evening to select the home and lawn displays for which the three cash prizes will be awarded. The civic bureau is handing out $25 for first place, $15 for second and $10 for third.

In spite of the fact that announcement of this year's contest was made rather late in the season to permit much advance planning, several beautiful and clever entries have inspired considerable comment.

At a meeting of the civic bureau held last week, a motion was approved to sponsor a Yuletide home-decorating contest as an annual event. Such a contest was a regular, Christmastime feature in Belmond for a number years, but was abandoned quite some time ago.

It was the opinion of members of the civic bureau that revival of the custom of decorating homes and lawns in a fashion appropriate to the season would do much to beautify the community during the Yuletide. An announcement of the 1955 contest will be made at sufficiently early date that there will be plenty of time to plan relatively ornate entries if desired.

Store Skips Gifts Among Employees For Worthy Cause

Customarily, the clerks at Hildman's Variety store (formerly Infelt's) exchange gifts at Christmastime. But not this year. They've settled on an idea they think is a better one for demonstrating to each other their good wishes of the season. What money would have gone into the gifts is being lumped and will go towards making a happier Christmas for a little seven-year-old patient at Belmond Community hospital.

Unwisely playing with matches with some little friends, young Karen Netland of Klemme found her dress ignited and the searing flames caused horrible burns over much of her body

That was 'way back on Aug. 9. Karen, who's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Netland, has been bedfast ever since. She has been undergoing a long series of skin-grafting operations and still has a good many "invalid weeks" ahead of her. In fact, it will be a number of weeks still, before she's released from the hospital. . . . The Hildman "family" figures it's found a pretty good place to put its money.

Wright Goes Past 1954 Bond Quota During November

Wright county has exceeded its entire 1954 quota for purchases of series E and H United States saving bonds, with one month still remaining. Charles Kramer of Clarion, Wright county volunteer chairman of the savings bonds program, reported this week that total purchases in this county at the end of the 11-month period amounted to $1,474,297 for 108.77 per cent of the $1,355,400 quota.

Only one-half of one per cent kept Iowa from reaching its annual quota with a month to spare. The 11-month total for the state was $139,208,898 for 99.51 per cent of quota.

"Citizens of this county certainly are to be congratulated for the outstanding record they are making by investing regularly in savings bonds," Mr. Kramer said. "Not only are they saving and investing safely for their own future spending and security, but they also are helping to maintain the value of the dollar for all of us."

Purchases and percentages of quotas attained in the 11-month period are shown below for adjacent counties: Hancock, $869,666, for 108.22 per cent; Franklin, $751,890 for 99.14 per cent; Hamilton, $1,123,586, for 94.01 per cent; Kossuth, $1,319,971 for 90.63 per cent.

Keeping up with the Jones' is no idle expression. One is only human to want better things in life for home and family—an auto not over a half dozen years old, a fur coat once in a lifetime, and at least a television. But there's always a drawback. A bulging pocketbook is needed to satisfy our desires.

Take a newspaper for instance. One of the world's cheapest commodities, the printed word completely satisfies one of those desires—our quest for knowledge. Without realizing it, the fact that we know what has happened or what is happening makes our lives so much richer and so much fuller. Knowledge is priceless and cannot be measured in dollars and cents as can wordly posessions. Once acquired, it can never be taken away.

To the Jones' again. "They" may have more material things than you but they know only what "they" read and so do you. In this respect, don't you think everybody can afford a newspaper.

Honestly, if you are past school age, where does most of your knowledge come from these days?

Yes, a newspaper
And Hometown News?
The Independent, of course!

Increase in Costs Of Superintendent "Low" in Wright

A comparison of costs of county superintendents' offices in Iowa in 1947 and in 1952 shows that only 15 counties in the state showed a lower per cent of increase over the six years than did Wright. The figures were released last week by the Iowa Taxpayers association.

It was pointed out by the association that the office of county superintendent became a part of the public school system in 1948. The table of costs compared '52 with the last year prior to the establishment of the present system.

While the average costs for all county superintendents' offices in the state were going up by 124.3 per cent during the period covered, expenses of the Wright superintendent's office increased by only 71.26 per cent.

Wright's costs advanced from $6,141 to $10,517. In adjacent counties, increases were as follows: Franklin $5,986 to $11,556, or 93.05 per cent; Hancock $6,124 to $13,086, or 113.68 per cent; Hamilton $5,753 to $12,712, or 120.96 per cent; Hardin $6,703 to $10,742, or 60.26 per cent.

Included in the superintendent offices' costs are: superintendent's (and assistant's, if any) salary, clerical help, postage and supplies, school visiting expense, normal institutes, board expense and Iowa social security.

Barbara Mariga Among SUI "Coeds" Helping With Handicapped Children

IOWA CITY — Writing a letter to Santa has been no chore this year for children at the Iowa Hospital-School for Severely Handicapped Children. For each child at the school has two big sisters and a big brother to lean on for help in getting such jobs done. Barbara Mariga of Belmond, a freshman at the State University of Iowa, is among some 140 university students providing a foster "family" for the handicapped children this year. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim aMriga.

The big brothers and sisters spend two or more hours each week with their little friends, reading to them, playing games, writing letters home, just plain visiting with them or doing anything else they can to make life a little more pleasant for the youngsters. In good weather the students help their little charges to put on outdoor wraps and go for a walk. Children confined to wheel chairs like to get outdoors, too, and their big brothers and sisters often wheel them around the school grounds.

Many Have Cerebral Palsy

Many of the children have severe speech and hearing handicaps, Dr. R. R. Rembolt, director of the hospital-school, explains, so that it is hard at first for their big brothers and sisters to understand what they are trying to say. Most of the 42 children at the hospital-school now are severely crippled, by cerebral palsy. It's hard at first for the student to watch them labor down a hallway on crutches or try to pick up books with hands that jerk out of control in the wrong direction.

Why do the busy university students spend time with children who have such a great need for patient and painstaking help, and especially of praise and encouragement? And why is there a waiting list of 49 students who want to become big brothers and sisters when vacancies occur?

Students Enjoy It, Too

Many of the students say they hope to enter careers involving work with the handicapped—in occupational or physical therapy, teaching, social work, medicine, speech therapy or other fields. And they feel that helping these children each week will give them an understanding of what their jobs will involve.

And most will tell you something like this: "Don't fool yourself. We get a lot more out of this than we give. There's a real thrill in getting through to the personality that may be hidden behind these handicaps. And the satisfaction you feel when you see pleasure in a child's face when you help him trim a Christmas tree makes any inconvenience you had in getting there seem a trifle."

Some Slow to Respond

Some of the children are slow to respond to the attention they rereceive from their big brothers and sisters at first, according to Merville Meverden, supervisor of recreation at the hospital-school, who is in charge of the big brother-big sister program. This may be because they have had little affection shown them outside their own family before coming to the school, Meverden explains.

Occasionally a student feels discouraged when a child stays aloof and does not seem to enjoy being helped. But Meverden points out to the students that it's just a new experience for some of the most handicapped children to be accepted so completely. So they naturally have a negative attitude at first. Meverden has found that the youngsters always have responded eventually and have became happier and better adjusted emotionally because of the stimulating interest of the university students in their welfare.

Training School For 4-H Officers Next Wednesday

Next Wednesday afternoon at the IOOF hall at Clarion, new officers of the boys and girls 4-H clubs of Wright county will receive special instruction in their positions at a training school. Presiding at the school will be the two county presidents, John Hagie and Sharon Bruhl.

Don Carter, who is with the Point 4 program in Burma, will give an illustrated talk on that country as a special feature of the event. He has spent 2½ years in Burma and will return after a three-week leave in the United States.

County officers will give county 4-H club leaders assistance in giving special training for the various positions. Part of the afternoon will be devoted to recreation, to be directed by Mrs. Art Homervold, Mrs. Merle Poolman, Myrna Strait and Terrell Baker.

In addition to the presidents, county officers who will assist at the school are: girls—Vice President Kay Whitten, Secretary Jeanine Hardy, Treasurer Connie Jergensen, Historian Wanda Jones; boys—Vice President Carol Kastler, Secretary-Treasurer Douglas Bosworth and Historian Dean Duitscher.

Club committeemen and women of the county who will instruct at the school are: Mrs. Clarence Whitten, Mrs. Ed Campbell, Mrs. Art Homervold, Mrs. Ira Studebaker, Jr., Mrs. James Groom, Mrs. Merle Poolman, Mrs. Ray Hagie, Mrs. Thomas Mathre, Homer Lyons, Laurence Woodley, Lawrence Murphy, Lyle Lewellyn, Albert Moellering and Harold Dahlgren.

Five Car Mishaps in Less Than 5 Hours Mar Christmas Weekend

BY GEORGE, DICK, PAT

Fourteen Belmond Explorer Scouts hit for Pilot Knob on Tuesday for Winnebago Council's annual winter camp-out. It seems that this particular outing usually coincides with one of the season's coldest cold snaps. And Tuesday night the mercury descended to one of the lowest points it's reached this winter.

The hardy band exposing themselves to the elements includes Terry Johnson, Larry Flannagan, Dave Crawford, Ron Steenblock, Dave Long, Allen Meyer, Ron Courson, Jerry Dorr, Roger Ubben, Bill Jim Gealow, Jerry Chandler, Dwight Davis, Jim Brady and Kenny Eccles.

This afternoon was to see camp broken up and the boys heading home to thaw out. About 100 Scouts from all over the Council area were scheduled to participate in the camp-out. So long as this yearly activity remains on the Council program, we're no going to worry too much about the upcoming generation being "soft". Br-r-r-r!

—M-S—

Can't remember when there have been SO MANY collegians home from school to spend the Christmas holidays. Made an initial effort to get local items in regard to ALL; but when it became obvious we'd never make it, we dropped the idea for fear of omissions. Suffice it to say, a scad of young people were home from the various seats of learning.

—M-S—

Mrs. Loran Hadley of Rowan, who's a patient at Belmond Community hospital, dropped the Mainstreeters a note to say how much she enjoyed the music provided by various groups of carolers who visited the hospital the week before Christmas.

"As a lowly patient, I want to add a 'thank you' to the others they received and remind them that we earn real happiness and peace of mind by making others happy," wrote Mrs. Hadley.

Quite a variety of choristers shared in the entertainment of the hospital patients. An incomplete list includes: elementary group from Methodist church, Camp Fire Girls, St. Olaf choir, groups from the Trinity Lutheran and Immanuel Reformed churches and a group of college students home for vacation.

—M-S—

At least one home here, where a lot of effort had gone into creation of an attractive Christmas display, found some of the spirit of Yuletide drained away by the meanness of some miscreant. During the first night that the display was left ablaze with a multitude of colored lights, a generous portion of the bulbs was stolen. It's an unhappy thought that any juvenile delinquent here in Belmond could be so thoroughly misguided or conscienceless adult so callous as to resort to a stunt like that. Doesn't it truly take all kinds . . . ?

—M-S—

For a time this past week, it appeared that The Fund To Give Grandfather's Clock The Works was going to "Stop . . . short . . ." just like the clock itself. But then a pair of relative newcomers to Belmond rallied to the cause—and another $2.00 was added to the slowly climbing total. This contribution came from Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cairns—of Jim's Paint and Wallpaper store (we gladly give a free plug in this instance).

That brings the Mainstreeters' clock fund up to $42; and leaves $108 to go.

Really now, folks! Things have reached a pretty pass when late arrivals to our community respond more readily to a sentimental undertaking such as this than do old-residenters who have seen our library serve through the years. If it puts us in the fuddy-duddy class wanting to see the library's venerable timepiece rejuvinated to perform its job for another half century—well, OK. Have we no more brethren in the crowd?

—M-S—

Have no further report to make this week on the FFA's Swimming Pool Queen contest, due to school vacation having temporarily dispersed the canvassers; but the boys have been working. And they'll continue on their self-appointed rounds for probably another 10 days. Be prepared to pay yo' money and pick yo' queen, when you are called on. Those candidates are a pert bunch of lassies and merit your support—as does the wonderful cause they are furthering.

Wife Asks $25,000 of Mate's Kin For Alienation of His Affection

Monday in Wright county district court, Lila Will of Webster City filed a $25,000 damage suit against the parents of her husband, and other members of his family, for alienation of affection. On Dec. 17 she had entered a divorce petition against her husband, Warren Will of Eagle Grove, charging cruel and inhuman treatment.

Mrs. Will named as defendants in the alienation suit Mr. Will's parents, Daniel and Johanna Will; also Mabel Will, Herbert Will and Mildred Scott.

It is claimed by the plaintiff that the defendants made disparaging remarks about her that resulted in loss of her husband's love; that they had encouraged him to desert her and a 12-year-old adopted son; and that when she was hospitalized after an operation and again after an accident, her husband paid her no visits due to influence wielded over him by the defendants.

Mrs. Will demands a jury hearing of the alienation suit. In the divorce petition she asked custody of the boy, equitable distribution of the couple's common property and alimony for herself and the child. The Wills were married on Sept. 26, 1950.

Final Rites for Ludwig F. Simerson Conducted Yesterday, Trinity Church

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at Johnston Funeral Home and at 2:00 p. m. at Trinity Lutheran church for Ludwig F. Simerson, 84, whose parents were among the earlier settlers of the Belmond vicinity. Rev. O. M. Severseike conducted the rites. Burial was in the Belmond cemetery; pallbearers—Herschel Johnson, Reuben Nelson, Arthur Stockseth, Irwin Rosheim, Gerald Swenson and Vernon Swenson.

Son of Frederick and Pernille Braaten Simerson, Mr. Simerson was born April 4, 1870, on the family farm established the previous year six miles northwest of Belmond. He was baptized May 6, 1871 by Rev. T. H. Peterson of the Methodist church. His home the first seven years of his life was a prairie "dug-out" house typical of those pioneer days.

Ran Hardware Here

Mr. Simerson was confirmed in the Lutheran faith by Rev. N. Peterson, pastor of the Ringsaker Lutheran congregation, to which the family belonged. The ceremony took place at a little country school, which at the time also served as a church.

After attending Breckinridge school at Decorah and Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Mr. Simerson remained on the family farm and eventually farmed for himself on the same property. Around 1900 he moved to Belmond and opened a hardware business, which he conducted until 1911. He was wed on June 3, 1908, to Gena Schonhood of Clear Lake. The marriage came to an untimely conclusion with Mrs. Simerson's death from cancer on Jan. 15, 1911. No children were born to the couple.

Only Nieces, Nephews Survive

Mr. Simerson's remaining life was spent in Belmond. He had been very inactive the last two or three years, no longer being able to walk. He lived the final 14 months of his life at Lauen's Nursing home. A series of strokes further incapacitated him and the latest one, on Dec. 11, left him paralyzed and unable to talk. Death came to him Sunday at the age of 84 years, eight months and 22 days.

A sister, Mrs. August Wold, and a brother, Simon, preceded Mr. Simerson in death. Only surviving members of his immediate family are 11 nieces and nephews.

GOOD WILL TRUCK COMING

Glazed Highways In County Cause Chain of Mishaps

Something of a record for accident frequency in a short span of time must have been set for Wright county last Sunday night as highways suddenly became slippery and the driving treacherous. According to the county sheriff's office, five accidents occurred within a relatively small area in a period of only four hours and 45 minutes. Although only one of the mishaps involved more than one vehicle, aggregate damage done to the various cars was estimated at $2,200.

First to come to grief was Walter B. Parsons, 30, of St. Paul, Minn. About 7:30 p. m. as he was driving north on Highway 69 about 6¼ miles south of Belmond, his car went out of control, spun entirely around and finally rolled over in the west ditch No injuries resulted, but damage to the auto was set at $400.

Girl Hospitalized

An hour later, three-fourths of a mile north of Belmond, the only serious injury to come out of the chain misfortunes hospitalized Norma Draves, 17, of Klemme when a pickup truck in which she was riding crashed into a ditch. Roger Bachman, 16, of Klemme was driver and the couple was headed for Belmond when the glaze on the highway sent the truck slithering off the west side of the road. At mid-week, Miss Draves was still a patient at Belmond Community hospital, under treatment for a back injury. Damage to the truck, $200.

At 9:50 p. m., nine miles south of the Greyhound station on No. 69, Eugene F. McDaniels, 29, Denver, Colo., edged onto the shoulder and stopped to fix a faulty light. Approaching McDaniels' car from behind, Charles Howard, 51, of Dows failed to see the parked vehicle and crashed into the back end of it. Howard's wife, riding with him, suffered a slight head injury. It was estimated that McDaniel's car would require $200 and Howard's $400 in repairs.

Kratky's Car Wrecked

Fifteen minutes later, just 2½ miles south of the Greyhound intersection, a Belmond party got enmeshed in the tangle of mishaps. Bob Kratky, BHS assistant coach and manual arts instructor, was the driver. With him was Kaye Harty, who had accompanied Mr. Kratky on a holiday visit to the home of his parents at Berwyn, Ill., and Gen Monson, who was riding from Story City to Belmond with the couple. The Kratky car rolled over a high embankment and into the roadside ditch, causing $600 damage and dealing the driver a cut on one leg. Neither of the girls was hurt.

Final mishap of the series occurred on Highway 3 about 2½ miles east of Rowan and involved a couple who had been married at Pocahontas only four hours earlier. It was 12:15 a. m. when John Skov, 28, of Los Angeles, Calif., and his bride — a Pocahontas girl—came a-cropper. Neither of them suffered injury as the car rolled into the south ditch, as they were driving east; but damage to the car was estimated at $400.

CGD PRIZES UP TO $300

Anyone to whose household an income tax blank has recently been delivered (now there's a comprehensive statement, if you ever hope to see one), should make a point of being on hand for next Tuesday's Cash Gift Day. Perhaps relief will be forthcoming. Not a soul latched onto any CGD money this week. In an effort to spread the wealth, the committee is adding another $50 and cutting the pie into eight pieces next week. There will be six $25's to go for at 2:00 p. m. Tuesday and a pair of $75's to shoot at at 3:00 o'clock. It's an awful thought—to pluck a windfall only to hand it over to the bureau of internal revenue. But those gents are going to insist on getting paid!

Nymer Christiansen's Christmas Display Wins First Prize in C-of-C Contest; 2nd to Mrs. John Leebrick

Members of the judging committee assigned responsibility for picking winners in the home-decoration contest sponsored by the civic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce found their job not an easy one. There were two decidedly outstanding displays, one emphasizing the religious motif of the Christmas season and the other especially noteworthy for its novelty.

After deliberation, the judges awarded first prize of $25 to the beautiful display at the home of Nymer Christiansen, 711 Fourth street NE. It was illuminated by a floodlight at night and accompaniment of recorded Christmas music added to its effectiveness. A large, sparkling star was fixed to the television aerial and "Peace on Earth" was spelled out in large letters on the roof below. An angel caroler stood on either side of the front walk.

Santa Rocked 'n Rocked

An extremely close contender for first place was the very clever Santa Claus that has spent the Yuletide leisurely rocking to and fro on the front lawn of the Mrs. John Leebrick residence. It was awarded the $15 for second place. Both of these entries were rated high by the judges due to the personal ingenuity demonstrated in their construction.

Winner of third prize—$10—was selected on much the same basis from quite a handful of contenders. This place went to Bill Dempsey's floodlighted porch-roof display depicting Santa with his sleigh and reindeer. Closest competitors for the final money-place were the colorfully lighted tree and front porch at the Cato Griesy home and the illuminated Santa and sleigh on the porch roof at Russell Tideback's home.

Many Good Entries

Among other displays that drew comment from the judges were the front lawn decorations at the homes of C. C. Christie, Dr. H. J. Classick and Evelyn Hansen and the snowmen carolers prettily framed in greenery at the John Kriens residence. A number of front porches, made lovely with generous use of colored lights, also drew special comment.

Judges who chose the winners were: Pat Gallagher, chairman; Mrs. L. B. Oberhauser, Mrs. S. P. Leinbach and Don Faris. The prize-money checks can be picked up at the First State bank from Luin Cox, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

It was the judges' opinion that this year's contest was highly successful, particularly in view of the relatively short notice the public was given. Considerable effort went into quite a number of the displays and the several dozen decorated homes did much to lend the community a festive, holiday appearance.

GARNER TILT HERE NEXT TUESDAY NEXT HURDLE BRONCS MUST TAKE

Play for the first half of the North Iowa conference basketball season will be completed next Tuesday, with two of the games being of major importance. Belmond will find itself meeting the No. 1 challenger—at this point—for a share in the loop lead, Garner. And Lake Mills will travel to Northwood, the Bulldogs needing a victory to retain any sort of chance to figure in the championship race.

Garner caught Forest City "down" last week, after the Indians' all-out battle against the Broncos, and dealt the Redskins' title hopes a severe blow in the form of a 62-51 defeat. The Cardinals put the game on ice by sinking 14 consecutive freethrows on seven fouls committed by Forest City in the final stages of the contest. For the evening, Garner counted on 22 out of 24 charity chances for a phenomenal 91 per cent conversion average.

Jass Starts Out "Cold"

Daryle Jass, the Cards' center, had trouble finding the hoop in the opening half, but still wound up the night as high scorer with nine baskets and six freethrows for 24 points. A real battle royale between the Garner pivot and the Broncs' Ron Hansen is in prospect when they tangle here Tuesday. On the local court last season, Jass outscored Ronnie 26 to 8; but Hansen has been scoring much more heavily this year.

Northwood, after gaining a reputation in recent years as a "control" outfit, has broken loose in the past couple of weeks as highest-scoring team in the league. The Vikings have tallied 150 points in their two, latest NIC encounters—and Center Norris Julson personally accounted for over half of that total with 78 points.

Cellar-Dwellers Battle

Lake Mills, with the greatest average height of any team in the loop, may be able to put a collar on the rangy Viking. It's certain they will have to, or find themselves in a fourth-place tie with Northwood.

The third of Tuesday night's games will see the cellar-dwelling teams, Britt and Buffalo Center, deciding who is to have sole possession of the basement.

Hokel Asks, "Keep P.O. Alley Clear"

Mayor Henry Hokel reports that repeated complaints have been made by the driver of the Highway Post Office bus regarding careless parking of cars in and adjacent to the alley that extends behind the post office. Passage of the bus through the alley has frequently been blocked and cars parked too close to the alley entrance have made it most difficult to maneuver the big vehicle into the alley.

Parking the HPO bus in front of the post office during its twice-daily stops would seriously interfere with traffic, Mayor Hokel points out. So it was thought best to have it make its stops at the rear. This requires, however, that it have ready access to the alley and that an ample path through be kept clear.

It is illegal to park in any alley, other than momentarily to make a delivery, the mayor emphasizes, so the police are empowered to take what steps may be necessary to put an end to the HPO's difficulties. Cooperation of the public is earnestly solicited, so that no fines will be necessary to stress the need for keeping the alley open.

'54 Was "Year of the Big Flood"--And Another Year of Community Progress

The Independent's annual year-end compendium of news makes highly apparent the fact that 1954 was a "good" year in Belmond and vicinity. Further signs of the progress that has characterized the community's life in recent years are in ample evidence. That Belmond is steadily becoming a better and bigger place to live was shown in a number of news developments.

Announcement was made that General Mills would locate a new feed mill here; and it is now rapidly nearing completion. The city council voted to construct a sewage disposal plant—indicating that our town is "coming of age" and is well aware of its civic responsibilities; and the plant is already taking shape at the south edge of the city limits. The Belmond. Fire department set out to build a new fire station; and BUILT it.

New Projects Brewing

Plans for a community swimming pool are taking specific shape. And school authorities are studying the need for enlarging the classroom facilities of Belmond Community School district, which was a creation of the past year. But the swimming pool and another new school are achievements that must be assigned to another year. Talk of them signifies clearly, though, that Belmond is NOT about to sit back on its haunches.

Not all the news could be entered on the plus side of the ledger, of course. Belmond and much of the north Iowa area around it suffered the worst flood within memory. Property damage, fortunately, was not extensive here; but many farmers with low land in crops suffered a nick in their pocketbooks.

First Strike at GMI Plant

Many staunch friends of both labor and management at the local General Mills plant were dismayed to see a work stoppage of a month's duration make the plant idle and painfully dent the financial reserves of the striking wage-earners. Then matters were patched up—and it is the prevailing hope they'll stay that way.

Why hesitate, indeed, when colds attack your flock. Prompt treatment with Ar-Sulfa usually causes symptoms to disappear in 2 or 3 days. You'll find Ar-Sulfa easy to use—just add it to drinking water. Ar-Sulfa saves losses in egg production, helps birds shake off colds quickly. Treatment for 3 to 5 days is sufficient. Have Ar-Sulfa on hand when symptoms of infectious coryza (often called a cold) appears. Don't let colds ruin your profits.

PUBLISHERS INVITE REVIEW OF OIL TITAN'S BIOGRAPHY—SO WE OBLIGE

Not too long ago, this newspaper was favored with receipt of a gratis copy of a new book entitled, "Hugh Roy Cullen, A Story of American Opportunity." The subject of the biography is, in the words of the public relations service employed to publicize the volume, a "'selfish' oil titan (who) gives millions away."

When we received our copy, the editor's opinion of it was solicited by the publishers, Prentice-Hall. So we're going to oblige.

Perhaps Mr. Cullen can best be identified in the public mind by the fact he gave the University of Houston—a pet philanthrophy of his—2¼ million dollars after its football team upset a favored opponent in the school's 1953 homecoming game. He also was a not-too-undercover influence in fomenting the political revolt that brought about Texas support for General Eisenhower at the 1952 Republican national convention.

A couple of Mr. Cullen's fellow-townsmen on a Houston newspaper wrote the book; and in view of our chosen profession, we regret to say that the literary quality of the biography is definitely mediocre. It's patently a "custom-built" job and gave us the impression of being more obsequious than honest.

But with commendable derring-do, Mr. Cullen has made himself one of the richest men in the nation. In the words of the publicity releases, he acquired his wealth as a wildcatter in oil, "starting from scratch, with little more than courage, faith, obstinacy and uncanny instinct."

Most assuredly Mr. Cullen deserves praise for his philanthropies. He's given away an estimated fortune, actual and potential, of $160,000,000 through outright gifts and through the medium of the Cullen Foundation, which was set up to dispense his wealth in systematic fashion. We sincerely admire what he terms his "selfishness' in wanting the pleasure of seeing that wealth achieve good during his lifetime.

But where the millions of some private fortunes such as the Fords' are being realistically spent to cement this nation's relationship with other peoples of the world. Mr. Cullen is a strict believer in America for the Americans. The objective of helping the rest of the world in its struggle towards a higher standard of living has no place in his philosophy. He takes frank pride in being labeled an "isolationist" in a day when most forward-thinking men recognize that the world is a community of people no less than a nation and that people everywhere must be helpful to one another to attain the common goal of peace on earth and good will among men.

He declares: "As long as I am an American, I intend to fight for the things I believe made America strong, and to defend my country against the foreign 'isms' and the European and Asiatic political systems that I believe will make us weak, and ultimately destroy us."

His philosophy is, America's free people have built for themselves the highest standard of living in the world; don't jeopardize it by efforts to help less fortunate nations. And defend, at all costs, those tariff walls that protect this country "against economic invasion from other countries, where there is neither freedom nor high standards of living." He naturally looks upon the United Nations and its objectives as a serious and useless threat to the United States' right and privilege to exist unto itself—apart from the rest of the world.

Mr. Cullen prides himself that once in his youth he leaped into a whirlpool in the San Antonio river, just to prove to himself that he could do it and survive. But he sees in the seething whirlpool that is the struggling world of today no challenge for us to attempt as a nation what he endeavored as a boy. There IS this difference. He didn't HAVE to risk the danger that he did; but there are many who sincerely believe that the United States MUST reckon with the "whirlpool" that IT exists in. Human decency, as well as survival, demands it.

HERE IS A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION TO INCLUDE IN YOUR PRIVATE LIST

Have you made up your New Year's resolutions? We'd like to commend one to you. It won't cost a cent, will make YOU feel just as good as those who directly benefit by it, and shouldn't be TOO hard to keep.

It's certainly nothing original. It's just this: how about SPEAKING those kind words that each day gives opportunity for? Each of us knows how much a word of praise or approval can mean. It can often brighten a day that has otherwise gone all wrong.

We're so free with criticism. If we DON'T like something, we're ready enough to make our feelings known. If each of us could only, to some degree, make it a habit to express our pleasure as readily as we give tongue to our displeasure, what a happier world this would be!

The other evening when we were finishing a day that left us feeling tired and harassed, a gentleman of our acquaintance took the trouble to call us "long distance" (actually, his distance away was small) to say how thoroughly he approved of something we'd recently had to say in this column. Moments before we'd felt "beat;" but his kind words sent us whistling out the office door.

A small thing—but it "made" the day for us. And how often each of us can "make" the day for someone else in the same way. The Good Book says, "Do unto others . . . " We all treasure those pats on the back. If we'd all hand 'em out as frequently as they're warranted, think how many more there'd be to go around!

After "Girl Year" Here in 1953, Boys Held Edge in 1954 Births

When the 1953 baby round-up was published in The Independent just a year ago, it was noted that Mr. Stork had been a bit careless in his bookkeeping and delivered 16 more girls than boys—128 to 112. In the 1954 births herewith recorded, he made a minor adjustment. There are 123 boys and 118 girls.

There's been an amazing consistency in the size of the "crop," however. For both 1952 and 1953, The Independent's baby review included 238 new arrivals. This year the total comes to 241.

Included in this review of the year's new-born are a scattering of infants who were delivered to the homes of former Belmond residents who still have close family ties with this community.

28 Kanawha Babies

Mainly, though, the babies were born right at Belmond Community hospital. No count was made to see how many different towns were represented among the parents who had babies delivered at the local hospital.

If YOU want to know, you're invited to count 'em. At any rate, mothers came from quite a wide area to take advantage of the maternity service of the Belmond Community hospital. It was somewhat surprising to your reporter that well over 10 per cent — perhaps closer to 15 per cent—of the babies delivered here were born to Kanawha parents. These we DID count. There were 28 Kanawha babies!
